Fairplain Widow Found Dead In Home

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer
An investigation is underway today into the death of Mrs. Norma Granzow Maxham, Fairplain, well-known Twin Cities musician, who was found dead at her home Sunday by St. Joseph township police.

Berrien County prosecutor's office labelled the death an "apparent homicide." The investigation is being conducted by the prosecutor, St.

Joseph township police and the Michigan state police crime lab, Holland.

In the press release Randall Arnt, investigator for the prosecutor's office said Mrs. Maxham, believed to be about 71, was found at her home after concerned neighbors reported not seeing her for the past several days. The body was found about 4 p.m. yesterday.

Prosecutor John Smietanka said he would "neither confirm nor deny reports" that the body of Mrs. Maxham was found nude and bound on the floor of her bedroom.

St. Joseph township Police Chief Keith Mills said his comment was the same as Smietanka's.

The officials had no comment on another report that Mrs. Maxham's car was missing.

Further details on the investigation, according to the release "are being withheld pending the results of (an autopsy) to be held later today." Arnt said the autopsy was scheduled for 10 a.m. The release also said police were holding no suspects at the present time.

Township Patrolmen Kevin Kramp and Steve DeWitt found the body after a neighbor became concerned when she had not been seen for about five days. The patrolmen said they found the house shut up and locked and finally broke a window in a side door to gain entry.

Police said technicians from the state police crime laboratory at Holland were called and were at the scene more than five hours.

Neighbors said Mrs. Maxham was known to have taken in roomers in the past.

Mrs. Maxham was an accomplished violinist, cellist and pianist. She was a private teacher of music and her pupils spanned three generations in the Twin City area.

Mrs. Maxham was one of the founders of the original Twin City Symphony orchestra in the 1930s. That organization gave its last concert in 1939.

The symphony was revived in 1950 and Mrs. Maxham was concertmaster for several years. The concertmaster is lead violinist.

She was a graduate of Benton Harbor high school and the Detroit Conservatory of Music. She also studied under scholarships at Bush conservatory and Chicago Musical college.

Her late husband, Donald, was St. Joseph township clerk, 1961-67.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Edward (Janet) Klum, of Ann Arbor.

Commission Seeks Cause Of Big Postal Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study of why the Postal Service is losing more money each year — when its goal was to eliminate deficits — should touch off a major congressional debate over its future.

The federal Postal Service Commission, expected to hold its first meeting soon, is due to make recommendations by March 15. The commission includes seven voting members representing business, postal workers and consumers.

The Postal Service can neither raise mail rates nor trim services while the commission deliberates.

The service was created in 1971, replacing the old Post Office Department, with the goal of paying for itself. To do this, the agency was given powers to operate more like a private business.

However, the Postal Service has lost $3 billion in its first five years, and the deficits have been getting larger. The corporation has avoided insolvency only by borrowing from the federal Treasury.

The 1971 reorganization was based on recommendations of an earlier government commission, which said postal costs could be reduced by at least 20 per cent if the investment and operating practices used in private industry were made available to postal management.

"Several years after the corporation is under way, therefore, it should be able to eliminate entirely the postal deficit, releasing over a billion dollars a year of tax money to other purposes," the commission said. "The long-run potential for improvement, furthermore, is so high that we are reluctant to estimate its size."

That commission's recommendation for a corporate-style mail agency received bipartisan support and heavy majorities in Congress.

The new commission is likely to be given various explanations about why these predictions have failed to come true.

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar, a non-voting member of the new commission, is expected to say that economic factors beyond the control of the Postal Service are responsible for mounting deficits.

"I believe that if the old Post Office Department had had to contend with the recent period of the energy crisis, double-digit inflation and recession, the nation's mail problems would today be multiplied many times over," Bailar said in a recent speech.

President Ford, a supporter of postal reorganization as a congressman, blames postal management for the agency's problems. "I just don't accept that they're doing as well as they should be doing," Ford has said.

Holding rates at present levels would require massive increases in the subsidies from the present $1.5 billion per year, the General Accounting Office said. But if all subsidies were to end by 1984, the nation would face the prospect of a 34-cent rate for first-class letters, the GAO has estimated.

A third alternative, reducing postal services, has been explored by the mail agency, but every proposed reduction has run into heavy opposition from those affected.

"If the public elects to continue the postal system in its present form, it will have to pay a steep price," Bailar has warned. "It may find the first-class stamp becoming a luxury item in the next decade and the Postal Service a ponderous and costly leftover from simpler, more affluent times."

Esch Gains On Riegle In Poll

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan's tight battle for the successor to retiring Sen. Philip Hart is getting even closer, according to a poll taken for the Detroit News.

Market Opinion Research, which conducted the poll Oct. 15-19, said Democratic congressman Donald Riegle got 43 per cent of the sample vote, while Republican Marvin Esch had 42 per cent.

Riegle's strength remained the same since the last previous poll taken at the beginning of the month, but Esch gained 6 per cent over the past two weeks, it was reported.

The undecided vote dropped from 21 per cent in the earlier poll to 14 per cent in the latest telephone survey of 800 registered voters.

Carter Still Leads; Ford Close Behind

WASHINGTON (AP) — A series of presidential polls released less than two weeks before the election tend to show Jimmy Carter still ahead, with President Ford close behind.

The surveys could provide encouragement for both candidates, depending on how they interpret them. Carter, the Democratic nominee, still holds some of the lead he established after winning the nomination, but it has narrowed enough so Ford, his Republican rival, could erase it in the eight days remaining.

Time magazine engaged the firm of Yankelovich, Skelly and White to contact voters during the period Oct. 16-19. Time said the survey, which was updated after the final presidential debate, showed Carter with 48 per cent, Ford with 41, and 8 per cent undecided.

Newsweek magazine's survey found that Carter was leading solidly in eight states and the District of Columbia, with a total of 83 electoral votes, and that 16 states with 225 electoral votes were leaning his way. If he held those leads, he would have 308 electoral votes, 38 more than needed to win.

U.S. News and World Report showed Carter leading for 244 electoral votes and Ford for 90, with 204 votes in states too close to call.

A poll taken immediately after the presidential debate Friday for The Associated Press by Chilton Research Services found a small plurality of those contacted thinking Ford was the winner.

Of the 1,027 people questioned, 35.5 per cent chose Ford as the debate winner; 33.1 per cent picked Carter and 31.4 wouldn't choose or called it a draw.

The poll also found that among those surveyed, 49.0 per cent were leaning to Ford and 41.9 per cent to Carter. But, whether because of high school football games or Friday night parties, the AP sample found a disproportionate number of older people and Republicans in the debate audience.

That means that the sampling does not necessarily reflect the views of the total electorate, but rather those of the people who watched the final debate.

Ford partisans found solace in polls taken in some individual states. A statewide telephone poll taken by The News and Observer of Raleigh, N.C., showed the President surprisingly close in a state that has been considered a Carter stronghold.

The survey, taken from 768 likely voters by Dr. Walter DeVries of Duke University on Oct. 19-20, gave Carter 41.2 per cent to Ford's 40.5 per cent; 17.9 per cent were unsure or refused to choose.

Ford also held the lead in The Detroit News poll of his home state, Michigan. But Carter was

State Gambling On Six Ballots This Year

However it may be denounced as Satan's surest way of luring people away from a righteous life, gambling has been a part of life since the cave man's time.

Some people go so far as to say it has a therapeutic value. They point to "you wanta bet?" as one method of preventing an argument from degenerating into assault and battery.

Every one of the original 13 colonies had a lottery. They were a form of voluntary taxation to raise revenue for the local governments. One author noted recently that by 1672 there was a lottery wheel in every city and town large enough to boast a court house and a jail. Proceeds from those wheels of chance helped to establish William and Mary, Columbia, Dartmouth, Yale and Princeton universities.

The federal government experimented from time to time with the lottery. The last attempt, taken in 1933, proved a disaster. Congress authorized a promotional group to run the Grand National Lottery. Uncle Sam's share of the take was earmarked to beautify Washington, D.C., then pretty much of a mudhole. The promoters sold thousands of tickets, held a drawing, announced the winners, and then vanished with the money.

Until recent years the last, most famous state run gambling scheme was the Louisiana Lottery. Congress finally put it out of business prior to the Civil War by enacting a statute making it a crime to promote games of chance through the mails.

Congress reacted to the Puritan ethic which swept through the countryside following the Revolutionary War.

This moralistic position against gambling held sway until well into this century.

Following World War I, this stance gradually began to weaken as a number of states where horse racing is an established sport went into pari-mutuel betting. Dog racing took the same turn later on in other localities.

More recently a growing number of states have revived the lottery as a means of partially refurbishing their hard pressed governmental tills.

Michigan is one of 13 having a state run lottery. Later on the legislature sanctioned bingo.

The Michigan experiment is probably the most rewarding in the group, turning over $50 million or more each year to Lansing's general fund. It's not much in these days of multi-billion

Suppressing Arson Needs Special Expertise

Citing rising crime statistics and pumping more money into overall crime prevention operations may not be good enough. Special attention directed at specific crimes may be needed to stem the tide, as demonstrated by the success electronic scanners and other airport security techniques have made against hijackings.

Arson is a likely candidate for a similar attack. Long one of the more difficult felonies to solve — simply because the evidence frequently is consumed in the crime — cases of suspected arson are on the increase.

The Insurance Information Institute estimated property losses from arson in 1975 were $1.4 billion, almost doubling the $845 million losses of two years earlier. Yet the conviction rate for this crime is among the lowest for any major crime.

For that reason cases of suspected arson frequently are dropped before they reach prosecution. Insurance companies more often pursue a fraud connection rather than the crime of arson itself. Perhaps most importantly, the special expertise needed to produce evidence of arson is not always present in every fire and police department.

That expertise could be increased, along with prosecutions, if a concerted national effort was made. If incidents of arson continue to multiply as they have in the recent past, such a campaign may be the only solution.

HOLIDAY SEASON COMING UP...

Editor,

Another Christmas season is rapidly approaching — the time of year we most enjoy being with family and friends. However, for many thousands of our fellow Americans this will be a very lonely Christmas; they cannot be with their families because they are stationed overseas with the United States Armed Forces. For a large number of these young men and women this will be the first Christmas away from home.

Your readers can help make this holiday season a little less lonely for many of these young people by joining in the collection of Christmas mail sponsored by Military Overseas Mail. FARM LEADER BACKS PROPOSAL A

Editor,

For the following reasons I urge Michigan residents to vote yes on Proposal A:

1. Tax dollars will be saved. Throw away bottles and cans make up 50 percent of the volume of roadside litter. The State Highway Department estimates that as much as $700,000 per year — this is "avoidable litter" — along state freeways alone — that's not counting county and local expenditures on other public lands.
2. This kind of ban works. In Oregon where a similar law has been in effect for five years, more than 92 percent of the litter along that state's highways has been eliminated and the bottle return rate is 94 percent. Most bottles make 20 round trips or more.
3. Energy will be saved — only 1/3 of the amount of energy is required to recycle and refill containers as it takes to produce new ones. It will also reduce the use of irreplaceable natural resources.
4. Jobs will be created — A Public Service Commission study shows a net gain of 4,142 jobs and a state-wide payroll increase of almost $18,000,000 if Proposal A becomes law.
5. You will save dollars — when you buy beverages in throw-away bottles, you pay more for the container than the deposit will be on returnable bottles — and you get even that back!
6. Proposal A makes good

Washington —

The public cry that government doesn't work any more has been heard not only by the two presidential candidates, each of whom is trying to turn it to his own advantage, but — believe it or not — also by Congress itself.

Quietly, without fanfare, the Senate set the stage before it adjourned earlier this month to consider in January its first major internal reforms in modern history. Similarly, the House Democratic Majority Caucus, which meets in December before the opening of the new term, is also prepared to consider proposals that would continue the reorganization it began two years ago.

Streamlining the congressional system won't solve all the ailments of an inefficient government. But it may make it a lot easier to tackle the problem.

Aspecial Senate committee, led by Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., recommended total reorganization of the sacred committee system, to reduce the present number of such bodies from 31 to 15 and limit the number of committee and subcommittee assignments from an average of 18 per member to no more than eight. It would also eliminate nearly half of the existing 176 subcommittees.

The proposal is expected to be the first order of business when the Senate returns. And it will provoke a big fight.

In the past, two major roadblocks have prevented substantial change in existing committees, no matter how overlapping their jurisdictions nor outmoded their assignments and approaches.

But the climate is more favorable to change this year. Any senator who has come within a mile of a constituent knows that voters are fed up with an institution in which members can't get a quorum for votes, won't attend committee sessions, and don't seem very informed on their committee subjects.

Furthermore, things are so chaotic that the special interest lobbyists are confused, too. Unions and other major lobbyists are increasingly frustrated by being forced to deal with hundreds of committee members and staffers on one subject.

The major unions, which have been successful in stopping reorganization reforms in the past, have not indicated they will embrace the changes this time, but supporters are hopeful.

There have already been some skirmishes. The Stevenson committee failed to merge Foreign Affairs and Armed Services — one of which is generally manned by liberals and the other by conservatives.

The support of Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., who is expected to become the next majority leader, could be crucial. So far he has not indicated an opinion, and probably will not do so until he is safely elected. However, Alan Cranston, D-Calif., is a co-sponsor of the reorganization; he is currently the favorite to succeed Byrd as majority whip.

The Widow Mao Fades Away

The sight of a hundred thousand citizens of Shanghai spontaneously demanding the elimination of Madame Mao and three of her close associates must have warmed the hearts of those who laid on the demonstration. It was triggered by an enormous spontaneous printing of wall posters which were pasted on every building in town. Curiously, the security forces, known for their dislike of spontaneous hooliganism, took the day off. In short, the whole affair was orchestrated from the outset by the Peoples Liberation Army (PLA).

It was clever to stage the parade in Shanghai, allegedly a "radical" stronghold. Back in 1966-1967 when the hordes (1 million strong) of the Great Cultural Revolution came to liberate Shanghai, the proletarians of this highly industrialized region reacted negatively. In fact, they left their factories, grabbed whatever arms came to hand and started beating hell out of their saviors. The local PLA commander seemed to have enjoyed the spectacle, and intervened only to restore order and production — not to support Mao's fanatics.

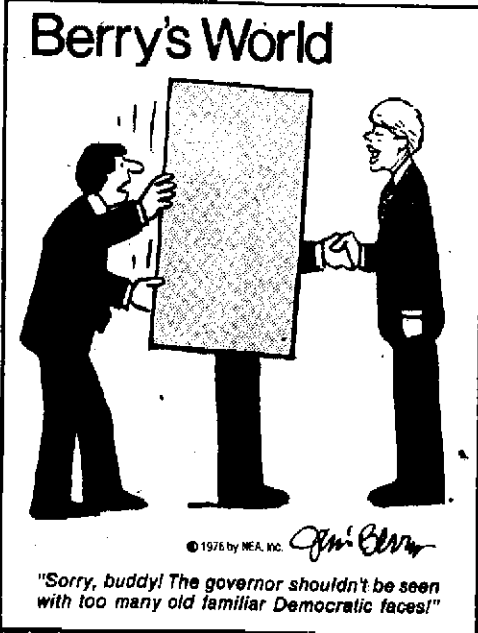

The three men missing in action with Madame Mao were all key "radical" figures in Shanghai. One of them, Wang Hung-wen, was suddenly pulled from obscurity to a top position in the Politburo by Mao in his last years. A firebrand, Wang was also an infant member of a gerontocracy — his political inexperience, youth and abrasiveness made him a natural target.

A second, Yao Wen-yuan, the Maoists top polemicist, was wearing even a bigger target on his back: Articles by him launched both the assault on former Party leader Liu Shanchi (then Chief of State) and the excesses of the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution. The third, Chang Chun-chiao, led the anti-Party campaign in Shanghai during the 1967 shambles.

Whether in their hearts they were "radicals" is doubtful (Wang is apparently an ideological illiterate; Yao and Chang classical opportunists). What is beyond doubt is their leech-like attachment to Madame Mao which gave them power and now excommunication.

It is reported that the China watchers in Hong Kong were "stunned" by the sudden denunciation and disappearance of the four. With due modesty, I was not — a month ago it was suggested here that the PLA was the only powerful institution in China and that whoever got its support would receive the "Mandate of Heaven." It was also noted that military men, on temperamental grounds, take a very dim view of living in a lunatic asylum. Thus, in the same fashion one could predict the reaction of a traditional German general to Hitler and his astrologer, it was in the cards that the PLA had Madame Mao and her disruptive anarchists on the top of its must-go list.

In 20 years, with luck, we may know the details. However, it must have become clear to Mao's widow and her flunkies that a phalanx was moving in, that fast action was in order to save their status and their skins. By the time this appears, you may have it on the highest authority — Radio Peking and the "People's Daily" — that the Shanghai trio and their boss were birthright members of the KGB who were trying to deliver the Chinese over to Moscow. Already the widow Mao has been berated for nagging the poor old man to an untimely end at 82 — maybe, next, irrefutable evidence will appear that she poisoned him on Brezhnev's specific instructions?

State Gambling On Six Ballots This Year

However it may be denounced as Satan's surest way of luring people away from a righteous life, gambling has been a part of life since the cave man's time.

Some people go so far as to say it has a therapeutic value. They point to "you wanta bet?" as one method of preventing an argument from degenerating into assault and battery.

Every one of the original 13 colonies had a lottery. They were a form of voluntary taxation to raise revenue for the local governments. One author noted recently that by 1672 there was a lottery wheel in every city and town large enough to boast a court house and a jail. Proceeds from those wheels of chance helped to establish William and Mary, Columbia, Dartmouth, Yale and Princeton universities.

The federal government experimented from time to time with the lottery. The last attempt, taken in 1823, proved a disaster. Congress authorized a promotional group to run the Grand National Lottery. Uncle Sam's share of the take was earmarked to beautify Washington, D.C., then pretty much of a mudhole. The promoters sold thousands of tickets, held a drawing, announced the winners, and then vanished with the money.

Until recent years the last, most famous state run gambling scheme was the Louisiana Lottery. Congress finally put it out of business prior to the Civil War by enacting a statute making it a crime to promote games of chance through the mails.

Congress reacted to the Puritan ethic which swept through the countryside following the Revolutionary War.

This moralistic position against gambling held sway until well into this century.

Following World War I, this stance gradually began to weaken as a number of states where horse racing is an established sport went into pari-mutuel betting. Dog racing took the same turn later on in other localities.

More recently a growing number of states have revived the lottery as a means of partially refurbishing their hard pressed governmental tills.

Michigan is one of 13 having a state run lottery. Later on the legislature sanctioned bingo.

The Michigan experiment is probably the most rewarding in the group, turning over $50 million or more each year to Lansing's general fund. It's not much in these days of multi-billion state budgets, but it has more than fulfilled its first promises and hopes that it could be successful.

This November 2d, the voters in six states will decide on a variety of legalized gambling plans. They are California, greyhound racing; Colorado, sweepstakes races; Delaware, slot machines; Georgia, bingo; Oregon, bingo and lotto; and New Jersey, casino gambling (at Atlantic City only), and merchandise prize games.

This summer as the professional football exhibition contests are winding down, the Delaware legislature adopted a lottery based on the scores in the National Football League games.

It has been less than a boomer because the payoff is less than what the illegal bookies offer. The state's small population also is limiting market factor.

This frost to the contrary, Pete Rozelle, the NFL's czar, has a suit going in the federal district court at Wilmington to put the lottery out of business as a threat to the purity of a national pastime. The court has set November 1st as the first hearing date.

New Jersey's proposed merchandise prize system, if it passes, will be competing with the television industry which has made considerable headway with its giveaway shows.

Wheel of Fortune and Let's Make A Deal escape the U.S. ban on lotteries because they eliminate one of three elements. Although the winner receives a prize and his or her success depends more on luck than mental skill, he or she does not have to pay or do anything to be pulled into the contest.

While this column has consistently opposed legalized gambling as a governmental appeal to a basic human weakness, we confess this opinion has not impressed many others. Even the chief executive in our household says we're off base.

Nonetheless we stick by our guns that legalized gambling has failed signally in its objectives.

It has not reduced taxes nor even stemmed the tide to increase them and slap new ones on the public.

Neither has it put the illegal operator out of business. Most police authorities feel he has bettered himself. Seemingly there is no certain means to prevent the green bay tree from flourishing.

Suppressing Arson Needs Special Expertise

Citing rising crime statistics and pumping more money into overall crime prevention operations may not be good enough. Special attention directed at specific crimes may be needed to stem the tide, as demonstrated by the success electronic scanners and other airport security techniques have made against hijackings.

Arson is a likely candidate for a similar attack. Long one of the more difficult felonies to solve — simply because the evidence frequently is consumed in the crime — cases of suspected arson are on the increase.

The Insurance Information Institute estimated property losses from arson in 1975 were $1.4 billion, almost doubling the $845 million losses of two years earlier. Yet the conviction rate for this crime is among the lowest for any major crime.

For that reason cases of suspected arson frequently are dropped before they reach prosecution. Insurance companies more often pursue a fraud connection rather than the crime of arson itself. Perhaps most importantly, the special expertise needed to produce evidence of arson is not always present in every fire and police department.

That expertise could be increased, along with prosecutions, if a concerted national effort was made. If incidents of arson continue to multiply as they have in the recent past, such a campaign may be the only solution.

HOLIDAY SEASON COMING UP...

Editor,
Another Christmas season is rapidly approaching — the time of year we most enjoy being with family and friends. However, for many thousands of our fellow Americans this will be a very lonely Christmas; they cannot be with their families because they are stationed overseas with the United States Armed Forces. For a large number of these young men and women this will be the first Christmas away from home.

Your readers can help make this holiday season a little less lonely for many of these young people by joining in the collection of Christmas mail sponsored by Military Overseas Mail. This is an ideal project for school classes, clubs, Scouts, and other groups or organizations as well as individuals and families. SAYS PROPOSAL A WON'T CUT LITTER

Editor,
I'm sure everyone has heard of Proposal A presently up for vote, asking that throw-away bottles and cans be banned.

They are trying to cut down on the litter, and at the same time are penalizing everyone. If Proposal A goes through and they make us pay a deposit on pop and beer it surely will not stop at that. In the future, you'll buy a jar of pickles or something of the sort and end up paying a deposit. Proposal A is silly and unnecessary and I doubt very much if it will cut down on litter. People will still throw their empty cans and bottles on the roads.

There are signs on the side of some roads warning of a fine if caught littering and it seems to me if this was more heavily enforced we wouldn't need such a bill like Proposal A. No matter who votes and who doesn't, everyone is going to pay. Think about it!

BOTTLE BAN WOULD SAVE ENERGY FOR FUTURE

Editor,
Dr. George Borgstrom should have had an audience on prime time nationwide for his message to the fortunate people attending his presentation at the St. Joseph high school Tuesday night. He certainly presented a thought-provoking hour. We, in a few fortunate areas of the world, are using more than our share of the food, energy sources, and raw materials. We should be grateful to the AAUW for having the foresight to sponsor this knowledgeable world renowned lecturer.

If the Michigan voters, undecided about Proposal A, could have heard what he had to say about the finite reserves of our world, they wouldn't quibble about a little inconvenience in returning empty bottles. The option is returning and re-using containers already manufactured, thus conserving energy and materials or we're not going to leave any options at all for our grandchildren.

Are we really so much in a hurry that we can't pause to think about future generations and how they might look back on our selfishness?

FARM LEADER BACKS PROPOSAL A

Editor,
For the following reasons I urge Michigan residents to vote yes on Proposal A:

1. Tax dollars will be saved. Throw away bottles and cans make up 60 percent of the volume of roadside litter. The State Highway Department estimates that as much as $700,000 per year — this is "avoidable litter" along state freeways alone — that's not counting county and local expenditures on other public lands.
2. This kind of ban works. In Oregon where a similar law has been in effect for five years, more than 92 percent of the litter along that states highways has been eliminated and the bottle return rate is 94 percent. Most bottles make 20 round trips or more.
3. Energy will be saved — only 1/3 of the amount of energy is required to recycle and refill containers as it takes to produce new ones. It will also reduce the use of irreplaceable natural resources.
4. Jobs will be created — A Public Service Commission study shows a net gain of 4,142 jobs and a state-wide payroll increase of almost $18,000,000 if Proposal A becomes law.
5. You will save dollars — when you buy beverages in throw-away bottles, you pay more for the container than the deposit will be on returnable bottles — and you get even that back!
6. Proposal A makes good

Congress Trying To Shape Up

WASHINGTON — The public cry that government doesn't work any more has been heard not only by the two presidential candidates, each of whom is trying to turn it to his own advantage, but — believe it or not — also by Congress itself.

Quietly, without fanfare, the Senate set the stage before it adjourned earlier this month to consider in January its first major internal reforms in modern history. Similarly, the House Democratic Majority Caucus, which meets in December before the opening of the new term, is also prepared to consider proposals that would continue the reorganization it began two years ago.

Streamlining the congressional system won't solve all the ailments of an inefficient government. But it may make it a lot easier to tackle the problem.

Aspecial Senate committee, led by Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., recommended total reorganization of the sacred committee system, to reduce the present number of such bodies from 31 to 15 and limit the number of committee and subcommittee assignments from an average of 18 per member to no more than eight. It would also eliminate nearly half of the existing 176 subcommittees.

The proposal is expected to be the first order of business when the Senate returns. And it will provoke a big fight.

In the past, two major roadblocks have prevented substantial change in existing committees, no matter how overlapping their jurisdictions nor outmoded their assignments and approaches.

But the climate is more favorable to change this year. Any senator who has come within a mile of a constituent knows that voters are fed up with an institution in which members can't get a quorum for votes, won't attend committee sessions, and don't seem very informed on their committee subjects.

Furthermore, things are so chaotic that the special interest lobbyists are confused, too. Unions and other major lobbyists are increasingly frustrated by being forced to deal with hundreds of committee members and staffers on one subject.

The major unions, which have been successful in stopping reorganization reforms in the past, have not indicated they will embrace the changes this time, but supporters are hopeful.

There have already been some skirmishes. The Stevenson committee failed to merge Foreign Affairs and Armed Services — one of which is generally manned by liberals and the other by conservatives.

The support of Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., who is expected to become the next majority leader, could be crucial. So far he has not indicated an opinion, and probably will not do so until he is safely elected. However, Alan Cranston, D-Calif., is a co-sponsor of the reorganization; he is currently the favorite to succeed Byrd as majority whip.

The Widow Mao Fades Away

The sight of a hundred thousand citizens of Shanghai spontaneously demanding the elimination of Madame Mao and three of her close associates must have warmed the hearts of those who laid on the demonstration. It was triggered by an enormous spontaneous printing of wall posters which were pasted on every building in town. Curiously, the security forces, known for their dislike of spontaneous hooliganism, took the day off. In short, the whole affair was orchestrated from the outset by the Peoples Liberation Army (PLA).

It was clever to stage the charade in Shanghai, allegedly a "radical" stronghold. Back in 1966-1967 when the hordes (1 million strong) of the Great Cultural Revolution came to liberate Shanghai, the proletarians of this highly industrialized region reacted negatively. In fact, they left their factories, grabbed whatever arms came to hand and started beating hell out of their saviors. Benton GOP Says Pay Hikes Not Okayed

Claim $5,000 Raises For Police And Fire Chiefs 'Pushed Through' By Clerk

CATHERYN SIRK
Says pay hikes proper

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

A state of Republican candidates for Benton township offices has charged that township Clerk Catheryn Sirk, who is Democratic candidate for supervisor, "pushed through" salary increases for the township police and fire chiefs, despite refusal by the township board of trustees to do so.

In a news release submitted by William Womer, campaign manager for the group, and identifying Henry "Hank" Handy, Republican candidate for supervisor, as spokesman, the "Citizens Voice" ticket leveled charges they said

"points to unethical and highly questionable practice by the current township administration."

Other members of "Citizens Voice" are Betty "D" Womer, candidate for clerk; Oliver Reitor, candidate for treasurer; Walter Heritz and James Cutby, candidates for trustee positions, and George Schmalz, candidate for constable.

The group said Mrs. Sirk authorized pay raises of $5,000 for the township police and fire chiefs and said "that action came despite action by the township board of trustees to do so."

The group also charged that each."

Mrs. Sirk, Democratic candidate for supervisor, said this morning the board of trustees delegated the clerk's position with the duties of personnel management and the pay raises were made with "majority approval" of the police and fire committees. She said the pay hikes were based on increases approved in the township's annual budget.

Handy also said in the release that "more than $86,000 in Community Development money has been channeled to salaries for township bureaucrats to date this year."

The group also charged that under the present township administration, the salary for Community Development director Judd Spraxmubled from $10,000 to $20,000 and the amount spent on salaries for township officials has gone up.

"During the present Democratic administration, the township budget has increased from $1.2 million a year to over $1.5 million a year," Womer said. "During the same two years, the amount spent on salaries for township officials has increased from $573,563 to $908,958. Where does the additional money come from? One area is township property taxes. Township revenues from property taxes and fees have increased $147,000 under the current Democratic administration," he said.

Mrs. Sirk said she had no comment on those charges.

Kidnap Suspect Arrested

A Benton Harbor man was arrested early Sunday in connection with the alleged kidnapping and rape of a 12-year-old woman, reported city police.

Det. Sgt. Sam Watson said Mark A. Jefferson, 20, of 320 Brunson avenue, was booked on charges of kidnapping and rape, after an investigation by Patrolwoman Connie Medders. Watson said final charges are pending a review by the Berrien county prosecutor's office.

Watson said police were called at 1:52 a.m. Sunday by members of a family who reported a disappearance. The woman who disappeared arrived home soon afterward and reported being taken to a nearby house at gunpoint and raped. She was attired only in a bedsheet, Medders reported. She was taken to Mercy hospital and released after examination. Jefferson was apprehended a short time later in Benton township.

BH Crash Hurts Two; One Booked

Two drivers were injured and one of them arrested as a result of a two-car collision about 2:30 a.m. Sunday on East Empire avenue near Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, according to city police.

Reported treated at Mercy hospital and booked into Berrien county jail on a charge of impaired driving was Manfred H. Gerstenkorn, 24, of 617 River road, Sudus township. Police said the other driver, Josephine Friske, 62, North Shore Estates, 1565 North US-24, was injured, but not hospitalized after the collision.

Five BH Schools To Hold Open Houses This Week

Five elementary schools in the Benton Harbor district will hold open houses this week.

Supt. Richard Heiser said, "Every resident of our community is invited to attend. You don't have to be a parent to gain admission."

Schools hosting open houses are: Lafayette, 7 p.m. Tuesday; and four on Wednesday, Calvin Britan, 7-9 p.m.; Columbus, 9:30 a.m. - 4 p.m.; Seely McCord, 6:45 p.m.; and Sterne Brunson, 6:30 p.m.

Heiser said the purpose is to let the public know what is going on in schools and "there is no better way than to come and visit with us first hand."

Each school has planned a program including student performances, teaching demonstrations, and an opportunity for residents to visit teachers and inspect students' work.

Dean Sanders, deputy superintendent, will speak at the Seely McCord open house, and Arthur Crump, board of education trustee, will discuss "Pride — Straight Ahead Together" at Sterne Brunson.

BH Black Social Workers Slate 'Candidate Night'

The Benton Harbor chapter of Black Social Workers will sponsor a "meet the candidates night" Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Seely McCord school, according to Mrs. Annie Robinson of the chapter.

Mrs. Robinson said County Commissioner Victor Greer will be keynote speaker. Also on the program will be Charles Henderson, candidate for 44th District state legislator; Nora Jefferson, candidate for Benton township trustee; and Willie Askew, candidate for county

NAACP Leader Says Election Crucial For Black, White Poor

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Although President Ford and Jimmie Carter are "tweedle dee and tweedle dum" as candidates, the outcome of the Nov. 2 election will be one of the most important economically in the nation's history. L.H. Holman, DDS, a national vice president of the NAACP said Saturday night.

Dr. Holman, who operates a dental clinic in a Chicago ghetto, was guest speaker at the annual Twin City Area NAACP branch Freedom Fund banquet at Holiday Inn, M-139, Benton township. Nearly 200 people, including several local and state office seekers, attended the event which raises money for NAACP legal matters.

Holman accused President Ford of approving unemployment of at least to 6 per cent to help curb inflation.

"Who makes up the 6 per cent?" asked Holman with the implication it was minority citizens.

"Carter promises everything, but I wonder what's to happen if he's elected?" Holman asked. He continued:

"But, this will be one of the most important elections. Blacks, poor whites, Chicanos, and even middle class blacks and whites are in trouble. They're carrying the financial burden. There are still loopholes for the rich."

"There's talk of an 'economic pause' (from Ford). Could it be the pause before going over (into depression). I don't like the economy. My business is done in the ghetto — and it's growing."

Holman said he disavows violence, but he emphasized that violence from the civil rights demonstrations of the 1960's and even back to Christ driving out money lenders is a road to better living conditions. Holman said he believes conditions are right for a militant coalition of poor blacks and poor whites.

"Of course, if this happens, they will probably end up fighting among themselves," added Holman with a smile.

While Holman's talk promoted the common-union theme traditional with Democrats, he did not endorse any candidate or political party. The NAACP does not make partisan endorsements.

On blacks, Holman said their nationwide purchasing power now totals a record $60 billion but their incomes average only half those of whites "and the gap is widening." He said the unemployment rate among blacks in Chicago is 40 per cent, and even higher among black youths. He viewed welfare as "structured by whites" to control where blacks live.

From a racial viewpoint, Holman said Michigan schools are "some of the worst in the na-

Open House Theme Is Partnership

Benton Harbor high school cooperative education students are planning a special program for Tuesday at 7 p.m. to illustrate the partnership between Benton Harbor area schools and local businesses which make co-op work available to students.

Robert Lane, director of vocational education, said the program will include students from distributive education, health occupations, trade and industry, office education, and child care co-op. The public is invited.

About 30 students are involved specifically in the program located at the Technical center at 633 Valley drive. The students attend classes and also work at various jobs in the community under the supervision of an employer. The student's classwork relates to employment, and an evaluation of the student's work is conducted in cooperation with the employer each marking period.

The special open house will include student displays and a review by staff members of the vocational education curriculum and individual programs represented.

NAACP Leader Says Election Crucial For Black, White Poor

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Although President Ford and Jimmie Carter are "tweedle dee and tweedle dum" as candidates, the outcome of the Nov. 2 election will be one of the most important economically in the nation's history, L.H. Holman, DDS, a national vice president of the NAACP said Saturday night.

Dr. Holman, who operates a dental clinic in a Chicago ghetto, was guest speaker at the annual Twin City Area NAACP branch Freedom Fund banquet at Holiday Inn, M-139, Benton township. Nearly 200 people, including several local and state office seekers, attended the event which raises money for NAACP legal matters.

Holman accused President Ford of approving unemployment of at least to 6 per cent to help curb inflation.

"Who makes up the 6 per cent?" asked Holman with the implication it was minority citizens.

"Carter promises everything, but I wonder what's to happen if he's elected?" Holman asked. He continued:

"But, this will be one of the most important elections. Blacks, poor whites, Chicanos, and even middle class blacks and whites are in trouble. They're carrying the financial burden. There are still loopholes for the rich.

"There's talk of an 'economic pause' (from Ford). Could it be the pause before going over (into depression). I don't like the economy. My business is done in the ghetto — and it's growing."

Holman said he disavows violence, but he emphasized that violence from the civil rights demonstrations of the 1960's and even back to Christ driving out money lenders is a road to better living conditions. Holman said he believes conditions are right for a militant coalition of poor blacks and poor whites.

"Of course, if this happens, they will probably end up fighting among themselves," added Holman with a smile.

While Holman's talk promoted the common-man theme traditional with Democrats, he did not endorse any candidate or political party. The NAACP does not make partisan endorsements.

On blacks, Holman said their nationwide purchasing power now totals a record $60 billion but their incomes average only half those of whites "and the gap is widening." He said the unemployment rate among blacks in Chicago is 40 per cent, and even higher among black youths. He viewed welfare as "structured by whites" to control where blacks live.

From a racial viewpoint, Holman said Michigan schools are "some of the worst in the na-

Open House Theme Is Partnership

Benton Harbor high school cooperative education students are planning a special program for Tuesday at 7 p.m. to illustrate the partnership between Benton Harbor area schools and local businesses which make co-op work available to students.

Robert Lane, director of vocational education, said the program will include students from distributive education; health occupations; trade and industry; office education; and child care co-op. The public is invited.

About 30 students are involved specifically in the program located at the Technical center at 653 Valley drive. The students attend classes and also work at various jobs in the community under the supervision of an employer. The student's classwork relates to employment, and an evaluation of the student's work is conducted in cooperation with the employer each marking period.

The special open house will include student displays and a review by staff members of the vocational education curriculum and individual programs represented.

The Twin City Area NAACP branch is headed by Hershel McKenzie. Planners for the Freedom Fund program were: Mrs. Alfred Edwards, publicity; Mrs. Timothy Hampton, dinner and ticket; Helen McKenzie and Gerstein Sherrod, hostess co-chairmen; and Clarence Hodges, brochure.

Mistress of ceremonies was Inez Holmes, who received a certificate of appreciation for state service from Gov. William Milliken. Mrs. Holmes said she served 24 years. She formerly was with the Berrien county department of social services until she was fired this year.

Music included Rodney Lott, vocalist, with Mrs. David Brock at the piano.

The invocation was by the Rev. Charles Wilson of Franklin AME church, Niles, and the benediction was by Arnold Bolin, executive director, Berrien county Council of Churches.

Machine Wash Fibers

Sweaters, dresses, blankets and other items made of modacrylic fiber may be machine washed in warm water and detergent or soap.

Tumble drying on a low heat setting restores the soft, fluffy attributes of the material.

Good wrinkle resistance and crease recovery is another plus.

However, if any ironing is necessary, use a steam iron or warm iron, not hot — modacrylics can be damaged by heat.

'FUTURE SHOCK' AUTHOR

Announce Guest Speaker

HOLLAND — Alvin Toffler, author of "Future Shock" and the "Eco-Spasm Report," will be the speaker for the Hope college community hour Thursday, Oct. 28, at 11 a.m. in Diment Memorial chapel.

The community hour is a period of time set aside weekly by the college for guest speakers and programs. It is intended primarily for students and faculty, but the public is invited to attend on a space available basis.

"Despite appearances, the United States is entering the most revolutionary period in its history. Our political system and economic structures are racing toward obsolescence, and very little fresh thinking is being done about how to save or replace them," Toffler says.

Returning from extensive research and speaking tours, Toffler warns that the crisis of change has intensified and now threatens our economic survival. "In the next 25 years all of us will be required to deal with more change than we have ever had to handle — changes in our life styles, our consumer patterns, jobs, schools, churches and families. This will require a new future-consciousness in politics, new methods of planning, and new ways of re-democratizing America."

In "Eco-Spasm Report," Toffler has described strategies for avoiding economic collapse. "Future Shock," which won the Prix de Meilleur Livre Etranger in France and the McKinsey Foundation Book Award in the United States, and which has been published in 50 countries, deals with the problems of adapting to accelerating change. It has been hailed for its breakthrough thinking and its passionate and lucid style.

An earlier work by Toffler, "The Culture Consumers," and a recent collection he edited, "Learning for Tomorrow," which deals with the future in education, have also drawn enthusiastic praise.

Like his books, Toffler's lectures are the result of extensive interviews with prime ministers and Nobel prize winners as well as students, radicals, businessmen, educators and housewives.

A former associate editor of Fortune magazine and a contributor to journals as well as such publications as Saturday Review, Playboy and Readers Digest, Toffler describes himself as a "social critic" and "futurist." He has served as consultant to the Institute for the Future, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, and other corporations and organizations. He served as visiting scholar at the Russell Sage Foundation and is a former visiting professor at Cornell university.

Toffler is presently working on a book dealing with personal and political change.

Fire Part Of Halloween Ritual

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sparks, flame and fire have been part of Halloween ritual since earliest times.

November 1 marked New Year's Day for the pagan Druids who inhabited Wales, Ireland, Scotland and parts of England and France, according to historians.

On Halloween, the night before New Year's, it was traditional to let old fires die out and light new ones. These fires, often lit on hilltops, were believed to drive away witches, ghosts and evil spirits.

In Scotland the fire-lighting custom is called Samhagan, after Samhain, the god of death. In Wales, Halloween fires were called Coel Coeth.

Welsh people would mark white stones with their initials and throw them into the fire. If any stone was missing next morning, its owner supposedly would not live to see another Halloween.

Schedule Galien Events

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

20 Too Young To Be Sure

Dear Ann Landers: This is for "Why Me?" Will you please see that he gets it? Thanks. I knew you wouldn't let me down.

Dear Why: At 20 you're sure you're gay? Maybe you are and maybe you're just a person with a broad emotional range who hasn't yet discovered what richness women have to offer. Don't be too quick to label yourself.

If you're certain you are gay, don't get bogged down with the local counseling talent. They'll tell you your parents are to blame. How then do they account for the fact that gays have been produced by every family structure in recorded history?

Ann suggested that you talk to your priest. Chances are your priest has his hands full coping with questions on abortion, birth control and divorce. As a gay Catholic you need to contact DIGNITY — a national organization of gay Catholics. I gave Ann the address.

And for God's sake, son, if you have to cry in church, cry for everyone — gay, straight, all colors, all faiths. Everybody has problems. If you think about it, there's more holding us together than there is setting us apart. — You're Not Alone

Dear Nat Alton: Thanks for a good letter. I don't go along with every word of it, but that doesn't matter.

And now a word to "Why Me?" The address of the national headquarters of DIGNITY is 755 Boylston Street, Room 413, Boston, Mass. 02116. There are chapters in Canada and Puerto Rico as well as in the U.S.

Blind Problems

Dear Ann: When my blind friend asked how she could wage a campaign to educate people about problems a handicapped person must face, I told her I'd write to you. Will you help? These facts need to be known:

1. Blind people carry a white cane with a red tip. (She is certain many people don't know this because she didn't know it until she became handicapped.)
2. If you see a blind person standing somewhere, looking bewildered, chances are he is lost. Ask if he can help. Generally all he needs to know is where he is.
3. Guide dogs are allowed in areas other dogs aren't.

ANN LANDERS

Recently, a woman came up to my friend complaining because the management had allowed her guide dog into the grocery store. "And they wouldn't let me in with my poodle. I was carrying him."

4. Guide dogs are highly trained animals with a job to do. PLEASE DON'T PET OR TALK TO THEM. THIS IS VERY IMPORTANT. The owner's life depends on the dog's concentration.

5. Smoke bothers many blind people. If you are going to smoke and are near a blind person, tell him. He will be glad to move.

Thanks for your help. — California

Dear Cal: Thanks for your letter. We educated a few million people today.

Likely An Offer

Dear Ann Landers: If an attractive young woman (single) says to her married boss, in a cutesy, kidding manner, "If you lose 20 pounds, I'll have an affair with you," is it to be laughed off as a friendly joke? Or is a woman who would say such a thing planting the seed for erotic fantasies and letting the man know she's available? — Concerned Bystander

Dear C.B.: At the heart of every "joke" is something that isn't very funny. My guess is that the gal was making him an offer she hoped he wouldn't refuse.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1490, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Losing Battle -- Winning War

You know what this world needs? A practical book on child raising. Not a bunch of theories and psychological mish-mash, but some honest-to-goodness ideas that work.

I never lose my mind on an idea, no matter how obvious or how rotten. Anything is fair in this kind of war.

DIVIDING DESSERTS: No one will ever convince me that Cain did not slay Abel over the June maraschino cherry in the fruit cocktail. A friend of mine solved this problem by having one child divide the pie or cake, then pass it on to his brother who got first choice. The child got so exact he was measuring after awhile in micrometers.

CATSUPOLICS: In dealing with children who accuse one another of hogging the catsup, you must be firm. One mother of three catsup freaks finally got each one of them a large bottle of catsup, put their name on each one and told them it had to last a month. It worked.

THE OLD SHAMPOO TRICK: Refill one of the expensive shampoo bottles with Brand X. Hide it behind the hot water bottle in the linen closet with a sign that reads "HANDS OFF," and it will literally disappear.

INSTANT MAIL: For college bums who never write home simply drop a note saying, "Will write more later. Check enclosed." Never enclose the check. The bums sometimes get a hand-delivered response.

WALL TO WALL TOWELS: Tired of picking up towels off the floor? Invest in a stack of black towels. After a shower, let them dry and fold them up again and replace them on the shelf. If you can't tell if they're dirty or not, they'll never know if they're clean.

WATCHING TOO MUCH TV? An Illinois man attached his television set to a bike generator. The kids can only watch what they have strength for.

STEREO TOO LOUD? Adjust the volume switch to where no sound comes out whatsoever. Then, when he or she is playing a record and is going crazy trying to get some volume, stick your head in the room and yell, "Will you turn that down before it impairs your hearing permanently?"

CLOTHING LITTER: For years my husband has been fighting to get the kids to put their clothes away. Last week, he simply picked up everything he saw on the floor and put it in a bag in the closet. On Saturday, he staged a sale to sell back to the children their own clothes.

When I looked in, the kids also had a bag containing their Dad's sweater, slippers, Time magazine, flashlight, thermos and car keys.

So, we lost a lousy battle, but we're winning the war.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I am completely recovered from a heart attack seven years ago. Do you see any reason why I should not be able to fly in a plane or go to a high altitude? My wife is so frightened that we just stay put, year in and year out. — Mr. T.J. Ala.

Dear Mr. J.: After seven years, your wife and you have a right to feel secure that you have completely recovered from the heart episode.

I assume, too, that during this interval you have been checked by your doctor and have been pronounced well.

Flying as a passenger should present no great problem. Planes today are well pressurized and oxygen is always available if there is any need.

Many people who have never suffered with a heart attack need a considerable amount of time to adjust themselves to a high altitude. There may be some dizziness, palpitation and hyperventilation (overbreathing).

Even those in good health may be distressed by this. People who have had a heart attack may be emotionally upset, which would, of course, add to the discomfort.

I would not undertake a holiday in a high altitude unless specific consent is given by your doctor.

I finally acknowledge the fact that I'm a neurotic. I can't afford individual treatment. Group therapy has been suggested. Is this just a fad? Or is it worthwhile? — Mr. C.M. Mich.

Dear Mr. M.: Group psychotherapy is not a passing fad. The technique has become a valuable addition to the whole field of psychotherapy.

Many psychotherapists who treat individual patients devote one or more evenings a week to this group activity.

The key to its value lies in choosing a well-trained therapist who can properly guide and direct his patients.

There are many advantages to group therapy besides the economical one. Many patients in a group setting can reduce by many months the attainment of the benefits of psychotherapy.

To find a well-trained person, one's own doctor should be consulted. Only in this way can one be assured that he is not becoming involved with inadequate, self-styled "experts."

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

20 Too Young To Be Sure

Dear Ann Landers: This is for "Why Me?" Will you please see that he gets it? Thanks. I knew you wouldn't let me down.

Dear Why: At 20 you're sure you're gay? Maybe you are and maybe you're just a person with a broad emotional range who hasn't yet discovered what richness women have to offer. Don't be too quick to label yourself.

If you're certain you are gay, don't get bogged down with the local counseling talent. They'll tell you your parents are to blame. How then do they account for the fact that gays have been produced by every family structure in recorded history?

Ann suggested that you talk to your priest. Chances are your priest has his hands full coping with questions on abortion, birth control and divorce. As a gay Catholic you need to contact DIGNITY — a national organization of gay Catholics. I gave Ann the address.

And for God's sake, son, if you have to cry in church, cry for everyone — gay, straight, all colors, all faiths. Everybody has problems. If you think about it, there's more holding us together than there is setting us apart. — You're Not Alone

Dear Not Alone: Thanks for a good letter. I don't go along with every word of it, but that doesn't matter.

And now a word to "Why Me?" The address of the national headquarters of DIGNITY is 755 Boylston Street, Room 413, Boston, Mass. 02116. There are chapters in Canada and Puerto Rico as well as in the U.S.

Blind Problems

Dear Ann: When my blind friend asked how she could wage a campaign to educate people about problems a handicapped person must face, I told her I'd write to you. Will you help? These facts need to be known:

1. Blind people carry a white cane with a red tip. (She is certain many people don't know this because she didn't know it until she became handicapped.)

2. If you see a blind person standing somewhere, looking bewildered, chances are he is lost. Ask if you can help. Generally all he needs to know is where he is.

3. Guide dogs are allowed in areas other dogs aren't.

ANN LANDERS

Recently, a woman came up to my friend complaining because the management had allowed her guide dog into the grocery store. "And they wouldn't let me in with my poodle. I was carrying him."

4. Guide dogs are highly trained animals with a job to do. PLEASE DON'T PET OR TALK TO THEM. THIS IS VERY IMPORTANT. The owner's life depends on the dog's concentration.

5. Smoke bothers many blind people. If you are going to smoke and are near a blind person, tell him. He will be glad to move.

Thanks for your help. — California

Dear Cal: Thanks for your letter. We educated a few million people today.

Likely An Offer

Dear Ann Landers: If an attractive young woman (single) says to her married boss, in a cutesy, kidding manner, "If you lose 20 pounds, I'll have an affair with you," is it to be laughed off as a friendly joke? Or is a woman who would say such a thing planting the seed for erotic fantasies and letting the man know she's available? — Concerned Bystander

Dear C.B.: At the heart of every "joke" is something that isn't very funny. My guess is that the gal was making him an offer she hoped he wouldn't refuse.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Erma Bombeck Losing Battle -- Winning War

You know what this world needs? A practical book on child raising. Not a bunch of theories and psychological mish-mash, but some honest-to-goodness ideas that work.

I never close my mind on an idea, no matter how devious or how rotten. Anything is fair in this kind of war.

DIVIDING DESSERTS: No one will ever convince me that Cain did not slay Abel over the lone maraschino cherry in the fruit cocktail. A friend of mine solved this problem by having one child divide the pie or cake, then pass it on to his brother who got first choice. The child got so exact he was measuring after awhile in micrometers.

CATSUPOLICS: In dealing with children who accuse one another of hogging the catsup, you must be firm. One mother of three catsup freaks finally got each one of them a large bottle of catsup, put their name on each one and told them it had to last a month. It worked.

THE OLD SHAMPOO TRICK: Refill one of the expensive shampoo bottles with Brand X, hide it behind the hot water bottle in the linen closet with a sign that reads "HANDS OFF," and it will literally disappear.

INSTANT MAIL: For college bums who never write home simply drop a note saying, "Will write more later. Check enclosed." Never enclose the check. The bumecs sometimes get a hand-delivered response.

WALL TO WALL TOWELS: Tired of picking up towels off the floor? Invest in a stack of black towels. After a shower, let them dry and fold them up again and replace them on the shelf. If you can't tell if they're dirty or not, they'll never know if they're clean.

WATCHING TOO MUCH TV? An Illinois man attached his television set to a bike generator. The kids can only watch what they have strength for.

STEREO TOO LOUD? Adjust the volume switch to where no sound comes out whatsoever. Then, when he or she is playing a record and is going crazy trying to get some volume, stick your head in the room and yell, "Will you turn that down before it impairs your hearing permanently!"

CLOTHING LITTER: For years my husband has been fighting to get the kids to put their clothes away. Last week, he simply picked up everything he saw on the floor and put it in a bag in the closet. On Saturday, he staged a sale to sell back to the children their own clothes.

When I looked in, the kids also had a bag containing their Dad's sweater, slippers, Time magazine, flashlight, thermos and car keys.

So, we lost a lousy battle, but we're winning the war.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "Since the opening no-trump is a picture bid, it is easy for partner to know if there is no game, a possible game, a sure game, a possible slam or a sure slam."

Oswald: "The standard no-trump shows a hand with 16 to 18 high-card points and a 4-3-3-3; 4-4-3-2 or 5-3-3-2 distribution. The doubleton, if there is one is supposed to include the jack or a higher honor, but everyone has been known to violate this rule and occasionally open one no-trump with a worthless doubleton."

Jim: "North has nine high-card points and could well raise his partner directly to three no-trump. The Stayman convention allows him to respond two clubs. This is an artificial, forcing bid and asks the opener to bid two of a major suit if he has four cards there or to bid two diamonds if he does not have one. This time South rebids two spades and North bids the spade game. West opens the queen of hearts. South loses one heart and the ace of spades and may or may not lose a diamond depending on which way he finesesses for the queen. In any event, four spades is safe."

Oswald: "At three no-trump South loses three hearts and a spade and needs to locate the queen of diamonds to score nine tricks."

Detroit Area Chimney Sweep Mixes Tradition, Technology

DETROIT (AP) — A man walked from his suburban home one morning not too long ago, looked up, and saw Dan Ogden standing on a neighbor's roof, wearing a black top hat and tails.

"He screamed at the top of his lungs," Ogden recalled. "Ethel," he yelled, "come out here — there's a chimney sweep on the roof!"

The man was right. Ogden, dressed in the traditional 19th century garb of an English sweep, has spent the past two months hauling a trailer full of brushes, ropes, poles and an enormous vacuum cleaner from chimney to chimney in southeastern Michigan.

Mixing tradition with technology, the 28-year-old Waterford Township man usually foregoes slithering down chimneys, opting instead for his specially-designed vacuum cleaner to handle most jobs.

A University of Michigan history graduate, he learned the trade from a friend last summer after the energy crisis spurred a renewed use of fireplaces. Along with that increase came a jump in the number of chimney fires.

"Lots of people seem to think chimney sweeps were there in the 18th century because chimneys would get clogged up or something," Ogden said. "But it really started because somebody finally realized that cleaning out the creosote residue inside chimneys might keep large parts of London from burning down every 20 or 30 years."

And, he added, the job can be fun.

"Last week a lady called to ask me if I'd walk into her daughter's wedding with a little soot on my face and kiss the bride for good luck."

Newsmen Continue Bolles Probe

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Investigative reporters trying to finish the work of slain newsman Don Bolles say they are finding enough evidence of mob power and drug traffic in Arizona to warrant continued probing.

"Arizona has more organized crime per capita than any other state in the union," said team leader Bob Greene, a Pulitzer-prize winning reporter from Newsday, Long Island, N.Y. "Arizona, with its huge unguarded border into Mexico, has become the major conduit for hard drugs for all of the United States," he added Sunday.

Greene formed the 18-member team from the roster of IRE (Investigative Reporters and Editors), of which Bolles, a reporter for The Arizona Republic of Phoenix, was a founding member.

He says the team has left the investigation of Bolles' killing to the police and is concentrating on its goal of proving that murdering a reporter "does cause more trouble than it's worth."

Bolles, 47, died after dynamite exploded under his car June 2. He had been lured to the murder site by someone promising information on land fraud and politicians.

John Harvey Adamson, 32, a greyhound dog breeder charged in connection with the death, is awaiting a new trial date. A mistrial was declared last week in the first effort to try the case.

Three members of the investigative team came to Phoenix secretly only a few days after Bolles died June 13 and began groundwork for the effort, which was officially launched Oct. 4.

The team is operating out of a downtown hotel suite that has been equipped with typewriters, copying machines, filing cabinets and pots of coffee.

Most of the reporters' work thus far has involved indexing documents and files. Interviews are planned later.

Some editors have greeted the project with skepticism and refused to participate.

Others have supplied the permanent cadre of six that includes one reporter from The Arizona Republic, two from The Tucson Star, two from Newsday and one from the Detroit News.

The remaining reporters fly in for a few weeks when needed.

"If this works," Greene said, "the idea of a reporters' fire team which could probe things like the Martin Luther King and John Kennedy assassinations is a viable idea for the future."

Handicapped Eying Consumer Movement

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — More than 1,000 handicapped persons from southeastern Michigan are expected to attend a conference next weekend in Dearborn.

A spokesman said the thrust of the meeting will be to help mentally and physically handicapped persons to take the first step towards mounting their own consumer movement to press for their specific needs on the state and federal levels.

The spokesman said similar conferences, backed by the White House, will be held in almost every state in the union.

Officials said they hope to identify problems of the handicapped and come up with recommendations for state and national programs on health, education, economic and social problems.

Detroit Area Chimney Sweep Mixes Tradition, Technology

DETROIT (AP) — A man walked from his suburban home one morning not too long ago, looked up, and saw Dan Ogden standing on a neighbor's roof, wearing a black top hat and tails.

"He screamed at the top of his lungs," Ogden recalled. "Ethel," he yelled, "come out here — there's a chimney sweep on the roof!"

The man was right. Ogden, dressed in the traditional 19th century garb of an English sweep, has spent the past two months hauling a trailer full of brushes, ropes, poles and an enormous vacuum cleaner from chimney to chimney in southeastern Michigan.

Mixing tradition with technology, the 28-year-old Waterford Township man usually foregoes slithering down chimneys, opting instead for his specially-designed vacuum cleaner to handle most jobs.

A University of Michigan history graduate, he learned the trade from a friend last summer after the energy crisis spurred a renewed use of fireplaces. Along with that increase came a jump in the number of chimney fires.

"Lots of people seem to think chimney sweeps were there in the 19th century because chimneys would get clogged up or something," Ogden said. "But it really started because somebody finally realized that cleaning out the creosote residue inside chimneys might keep large parts of London from burning down every 20 or 30 years.

And, he added, the job can be fun.

"Last week a lady called to ask me if I'd walk into her daughter's wedding with a little soot on my face and kiss the bride for good luck."

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Investigative reporters trying to finish the work of slain newsmen Don Bolles say they are finding enough evidence of mob power and drug traffic in Arizona to warrant continued probing.

Handicapped Eying Consumer Movement

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — More than 1,000 handicapped persons from southeastern Michigan are expected to attend a conference next weekend in Dearborn.

A spokesman said the thrust of the meeting will be to help mentally and physically handicapped persons to take the first step towards mounting their own consumer movement to press for their specific needs on the state and federal levels.

The spokesman said similar conferences, backed by the White House, will be held in almost every state in the union. Officials said they hope to identify problems of the handicapped and come up with recommendations for state and national programs on health, education, economic and social problems.

Arizona has more organized crime per capita than any other state in the union," said team leader Bob Greene, a Pulitzer-prize winning reporter from Newsday, Long Island, N.Y.

"Arizona, with its huge unguarded border into Mexico, has become the major conduit for hard drugs for all of the United States," he added Sunday.

Greene formed the 18-member team from the roster of IRE (Investigative Reporters and Editors), of which Bolles, a reporter for The Arizona Republic of Phoenix, was a founding member.

He says the team has left the investigation of Bolles' killing to the police and is concentrating on its goal of proving that murdering a reporter "does cause more trouble than it's worth."

Bolles, 47, died after dynamite exploded under his car June 2. He had been lured to the murder site by someone promising information on land fraud and politicians.

John Harvey Adamson, 32, a greyhound dog breeder charged in connection with the death, is awaiting a new trial date. A mistrial was declared last week in the first effort to try the case.

Three members of the investigative team came to Phoenix secretly only a few days after Bolles died June 13 and began groundwork for the effort, which was officially launched Oct. 4.

The team is operating out of a downtown hotel suite that has been equipped with typewriters, copying machines, filing cabinets and pots of coffee.

Most of the reporters' work thus far has involved indexing documents and files. Interviews are planned later.

Some editors have greeted the project with skepticism and refused to participate.

Others have supplied the permanent cadre of six that includes one reporter from The Arizona Republic, two from The Tucson Star, two from Newsday and one from the Detroit News.

The remaining reporters fly in for a few weeks when needed. "If this works," Greene said, "the idea of a reporters' fire team which could probe things like the Martin Luther King and John Kennedy assassinations is a viable idea for the future."

Detroit Using Old Law In Crackdown On Vice

DETROIT (AP) — Police, using a little-known and previously unenforced city ordinance, are arresting unmarried couples who try to check into Detroit hotels and motels as Mr. and Mrs.

The law — written years ago to protect innkeepers from freeloaders — is part of an escalating police war against prostitution. It provides fines up to $100 for falsifying hotel registrations. The hotels also are being ticketed as accomplices.

Ironically, some of the nearly 130 persons arrested under the ordinance since September apparently gave false names in order to avoid arrest under another law: one that prohibits occupancy of a hotel room by unrelated members of the opposite sex.

"But we don't issue that ticket any more," said Lt. Robert Leonard of the vice squad. "We won't bother them as long as they don't falsify the register."

The tactics were instituted by a beefed-up vice squad under its new acting head, Lt. Richard Arrington. Among other tactics he has proposed to eradicate prostitution are increasing the number of male and female undercover agents on the streets, supplying names of prostitutes and their patrons to the Board of

Chimps May Warn Of Quakes

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Chimpanzees may be able to help humans predict earthquakes, because they seem to become abnormally restless when tremors are on the way, scientists say.

"We believe we have the first scientific evidence there are behavior changes that precede earthquakes," a group of researchers from the Stanford University School of Medicine researchers said Sunday. They addressed a meeting sponsored by the U.S. Geological Survey. "But to prove it conclusively, we will have to predict the next earthquake," the scientists added. Watching animals for hints of earthquakes is not a new idea. Chinese scientists reported that abnormal livestock behavior was noted before a major quake struck the city of Haicheng this year.

Slower Response Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police departments could save money without losing public support by letting citizens know they're going to have to wait longer for a response to some completed crimes, a study suggests. "It has traditionally been assumed that rapid police response to calls for service is of sufficient importance to justify the expenditure of considerable amounts of money and effort," a report by the Police Foundation said Sunday. A call about a burglary in progress obviously demands an immediate response, the study said. But a call to report a burglary that took place hours ago does not, the study said.

Maritime Scholarship Established

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — A new maritime scholarship fund has been established at Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City.

Singer Gordon Lightfoot, appearing at a concert at the college Saturday night, gave the school a gift of $10,000.

Concert promoters added another $1,000, and students donated $600.

The scholarship will honor two cadets of the Great Lakes Maritime Academy who were on the ship Edmund Fitzgerald when it sank in Lake Superior a year ago.

Lightfoot's current song "The Wreck of the Edmund Fitzgerald," has been climbing the record charts the past two months.

Dole Attends Graham Rally

Nixon aroused some controversy among his followers, made it clear he is publicly remaining neutral this year.

Graham told a crowd of about 30,000 persons in Pontiac Stadium that he had sent identical invitations to all the major party candidates.

"I personally didn't think any of them would come," Graham said, adding that he had received a "nice little note" from Jimmy Carter and a similar message from the White House.

"I'm not taking a stand this year, and I'm not endorsing any candidate for office," he said.

However, he did mention the fact that Dole and his wife were in the audience and asked them to stand, saying that he and the Kansas senator had been "friends for a number of years."

He also praised Mrs. Dole, the former Elizabeth Hanford, as "one of the most distinguished lawyers in America." She is a member of the Federal Trade Commission but took a leave of absence to join her husband on the campaign trail.

As Dole arrived at the nearby Flint, Mich., airport he was asked by reporters how his visit to Michigan might help the GOP campaign. "I'm here to help myself. I'm going to listen to Billy Graham," Dole responded.

Dole is embarking on an intensive final drive in which he says he will visit 17 or 18 states.

He says the main point he will raise as he campaigns is that there is no reason to change Presidents when the incumbent is doing a good job.

"I will discuss the fact that we're at peace, the economy is coming around and why change?"

Dole posed briefly for photographs with Graham and country singer Johnny Cash in a small holding room of the basement of the stadium before the rally began. Dole and the evangelist exchanged pleasantries and Graham, looking at all the TV cameras and lights, noted, "I don't normally get this kind of press coverage."

"We're going to use all the laws and whatever diabolical means are necessary to stop prostitution," said Sgt. Ward Taylor, an undercover vice squad man.

Some hotel operators in the city's seamy Cass Corridor section, where many of the arrests have been made, are unhappy about the crackdown. One hotel has even hired an attorney to check into the constitutionality of the ticketing.

"We're here to rent rooms, that's our business," said the manager of one hotel who has not been ticketed. "What am I supposed to do if a couple comes in and registers as Mr. and Mrs.? Accuse her of being a prostitute?"

UFO Pad A Big Success

LAKE CITY, Pa. — The landing pad for UFOs that this town built as a futuristic Bicentennial gesture hasn't attracted any space creatures. But it's drawn so many earthly visitors that officials plan to open it again next year. "We've closed the landing site for the winter," Chamber of Commerce President James Meeder said Sunday. "It was so popular we've decided to maintain it for another year. We didn't see any real space people, but thousands of people stopped to see it. They were impressed." The pad is a seeded, circular mound of earth five feet high bordered with aircraft landing lights. Nearby is a communications center where extraterrestrial creatures can talk to ground control.

Arabs Meet To Ratify Pact

CAIRO (AP) — Arab presidents and kings are opening a summit conference to ratify the latest cease-fire agreement in the Lebanese civil war and to try to figure out how to make it work. Today's meeting of the 21 Arab League members was called to approve the peace agreement reached last Monday in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, and to make plans for the 30,000-man Arab peacekeeping force provided for in the agreement. The cease-fire was supposed to take effect throughout Lebanon last Thursday morning. But Christian forces have continued their drive to clear the Palestinians from the Arkoub area of southeast Lebanon, along the Israeli border.

'But At Least She's Safe...'

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — The parents of a missing 19-year-old Michigan coed were back home in West Bloomfield Township today, thankful but puzzled. The couple, Kenneth Anderson, and his wife, Elizabeth, went to New York City last Tuesday when their daughter, Leigh, dropped out of sight after visiting her brother in the city. Fearing the worst, the Andersons searched but found no trace of their daughter. They had just about given up when a cable arrived, saying that Leigh was safe, healthy and happy on the Greek island of Paros, Leigh, a University of Michigan sophomore, did not explain how she got to the island or why she was there. "But at least she's safe and sound," said Anderson, a Ford Motor Co. official.

Texas Policeman Sues MGM

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Ten years ago, Austin policeman Ramiro Martinez became a hero when he shot the Texas Tower sniper, ending an ordeal of terror that left 16 dead and 31 wounded. Today, Martinez, now a Texas Ranger, is plaintiff in a million-dollar breach-of-contract lawsuit over a television dramatization of the sniper attack. His suit, filed in federal court last week against Metro Goldwyn Mayer and NBC, claims that their movie version invaded his privacy and misrepresented him by portraying him as a radical. The movie, shown on Oct. 18, 1975, depicted the events of Aug. 1, 1966, when Charles Whitman climbed to the University of Texas tower in Austin and unleashed a random series of gunshots on passersby.

Now She Has Plenty Of Worms

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Pat Exon, the Nebraska first lady who gets away from the governor's mansion as often as she can to fish, has replenished her worm farm supply and is making plans for winter fishing. Mrs. Exon said persons from all over the country came to the rescue last summer after reading that dry weather was making it hard for her to keep an adequate supply of worms on hand. She has a small worm farm in the mansion's fallout shelter, a few doors from a publicly displayed Bicentennial doll collection. "I didn't know you could send worms through the mail," Mrs. Exon said Sunday. "But one fellow from the South sent me a supply of red wigglers. Another gentleman told me how to coach the worms out of the dry ground. He said to place a sprinkler over the grass, cover it with an old army blanket, wait 10 minutes, and promised they would come up. I didn't try it.

Keep Off The Grass

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — Police Chief James Pelfry admits he had a four-foot-high marijuana plant growing in his backyard, but he adds, "I never touched it and I never intended to touch it." The 49-year-old police chief of this northeastern Kentucky community said Sunday that after a drug raid earlier this year, he tried to destroy some confiscated marijuana in a spot in his backyard that his wife had cleared for tomatoes. Pelfry said he set fire to the haul, but since that didn't destroy all the seeds, he decided "to let it go and see what it looked like." "I was just curious. I just wanted to see how big it would grow and what it would develop into," Pelfry said the only reason the plant appeared to be cultivated was that his wife had cleared the area for the tomato plants. He also denied reports that the wayward plant was staked. "My neighbor on the other side of the fence had some tomato plants and they were on a stake," he said. "It may have just looked like the plant was on a stake." Since word of the plant got around town, Pelfry said he "pulled it up, broke all the leaves and stems off and threw it in the trash."

Sweeping In His Tails

Marriage On The Move

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It was marriage on the move for Denny Geiger and his new bride, Phyllis. They tied the knot while Geiger piloted a bus along 1-40. The highway nuptials surprised about 30 guests on the bus, Saturday who thought they were being driven to the location for the ceremony. The reception was held at a Nashville hamburger stand. "I'm a bus driver, and we had on a bus trip," Geiger explained. The Rev. James Barton, pastor of the First Christian Church here, said it was the most unusual ceremony he had ever performed. Immediately after the wedding, Geiger drove into a filling station to refuel. Relatives later tied cars to the bumper of the bus.

close enough to indicate that it is still winnable by either man. The numbers were 45 per cent for Ford and 42 per cent for Carter, with 2 per cent for Eugene McCarthy and the rest undecided.

Carter found encouraging news in New York, where both The New York Times and the New York Daily News showed him ahead for that state's 41 electoral votes.

The Times did not give statewide percentages, but the News said it found a 53-44 lead for Carter, with independent Eugene McCarthy the choice of 3 per cent.

'Muskrat War' Has Million-Dollar Tag

LOAMI, Ill. (AP) — The town board here has decided to seek $1 million in federal funds for its attempt to outfox the muskrats that have been drawing off the community's water supply.

The board decided Sunday to try to tap the federal Public Works Employment Act of 1976, arguing that some of the town's 30 unemployed persons could be put to work helping triple or quadruple the size of the present reservoir. Officials have scheduled a special meeting Tuesday night for the 800 residents of this central Illinois town to consider other ways of redirecting the muskrat eradication efforts.

The aquatic rodents — about the size of kittens with brown, glossy hair and a long, scaly tail — live in burrows along the bank of a creek that borders the football field-sized reservoir.

The creek is nearly dry after a long drought, so the critters have turned to the earthen reservoir, and the holes they dug caused leaks which lowered the normal level from 15 feet to as low as 3 feet.

'Revenge' Wins Chili Cook-Off

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rufus Valdez, like almost everyone else, has his theory about how to live to a ripe old age.

It's called "Indian's Revenge" and it's his own brand of chili.

Valdez mixed, stirred and watched his chili in front of 25,000 people Sunday and won the second annual World Championship Chili Cook-Off in the desert at Rosamond, Calif.

The contest, sponsored by a group of chili enthusiasts who formed the International Chili Society, drew 34 contestants from across the nation and two foreign countries to the dusty desert area about 60 miles northeast of here. The Kern County sheriff's office, which provided the crowd estimate, said roads were jammed for several miles.

Hurt In Collision

State police of the Benton Harbor post said one driver was injured in a two-car, rear-end collision Sunday about 2:45 p.m. on Napier avenue east of Union street, Fairplain.

Released after treatment at memorial hospital was Marian Cecile Habel, 52, of 3124 Wissing lane, St. Joseph township. Driver of the other car, who was unhurt, was identified as Cheri Suzanne Runney, 16, of 2383 Virginia road, Fairplain. Troopers said Miss Runney was ticketed for failure to stop in an assured, clear distance.

UFO Pad A Big Success

LAKE CITY, Pa. — The landing pad for UFOs that this town built as a futuristic Bicentennial gesture hasn't attracted any space creatures. But it's drawn so many earthly visitors that officials plan to open it again next year. "We've closed the landing site for the winter," Chamber of Commerce President James Meeder said Sunday. "It was so popular we've decided to maintain it for another year. "We didn't see any real space people, but thousands of people stopped to see it. They were impressed." The pad is a seeded, circular mound of earth five feet high bordered with aircraft landing lights. Nearby is a communications center where extraterrestrial creatures can talk to ground control.

Arabs Meet To Ratify Pact

CAIRO (AP) — Arab presidents and kings are opening a summit conference to ratify the latest cease-fire agreement in the Lebanese civil war and to try to figure out how to make it work. Today's meeting of the 21 Arab League members was called to approve the peace agreement reached last Monday in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, and to make plans for the 30,000-man Arab peace-keeping force provided for in the agreement. The cease-fire was supposed to take effect throughout Lebanon last Thursday morning. But Christian forces have continued their drive to clear the Palestinians from the Arkoub area of southeast Lebanon, along the Israeli border.

'But At Least She's Safe...'

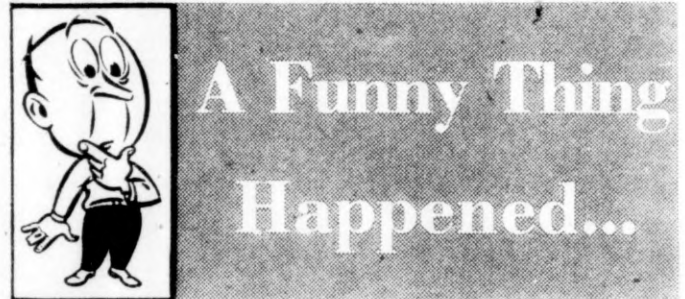

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — The parents of a missing 19-year-old Michigan coed were back home in West Bloomfield Township today, thankful but puzzled. The couple, Kenneth Anderson, and his wife, Elizabeth, went to New York City last Tuesday when their daughter, Leigh, dropped out of sight after visiting her brother in the city. Fearing the worst, the Andersons searched but found no trace of their daughter. They had just about given up when a cable arrived, saying that Leigh was safe, healthy and happy on the Greek Island of Paros. Leigh, a University of Michigan sophomore, did not explain how she got to the island or why she was there. "But at least she's safe and sound," said Anderson, a Ford Motor Co. official.

Texas Policeman Sues MGM

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Ten years ago, Austin policeman Ramiro Martinez became a hero when he shot the Texas Tower sniper, ending an ordeal of terror that left 16 dead and 31 wounded. Today, Martinez, now a Texas Ranger, is plaintiff in a million-dollar breach-of-contract lawsuit over a television dramatization of the sniper attack. His suit, filed in federal court last week against Metro Goldwyn Mayer and NBC, claims that their movie version invaded his privacy and misrepresented him by portraying him as a radical. The movie, shown on Oct. 18, 1975, depicted the events of Aug. 1, 1966, when Charles Whitman climbed to the University of Texas tower in Austin and unleashed a random series of gunshots on passersby.

Now She Has Plenty Of Worms

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Pat Exon, the Nebraska first lady who gets away from the governor's mansion as often as she can to fish, has replenished her worm farm supply and is making plans for winter fishing. Mrs. Exon said persons from all over the country came to the rescue last summer after reading that dry weather was making it hard for her to keep an adequate supply of worms on hand. She has a small worm farm in the mansion's fallout shelter, a few doors from a publicly displayed Bicentennial doll collection. "I didn't know you could send worms through the mail," Mrs. Exon said Sunday. "But one gentleman from the South sent me a supply of red wigglers. Another gentleman told me how to coach the worms out of the dry ground. He said to place a sprinkler over the grass, cover it with an old army blanket, wait 10 minutes, and promised they would come up. I didn't try it.

Keep Off The Grass

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — Police Chief James Pelfry admits he had a four-foot-high marijuana plant growing in his backyard, but he adds, "I never touched it and I never intended to touch it." The 49-year-old police chief of this northeastern Kentucky community said Sunday that after a drug raid earlier this year, he tried to destroy some confiscated marijuana in a spot in his backyard that his wife had cleared for tomatoes. Pelfry said he set fire to the haul, but since that didn't destroy all the seeds, he decided "to let it go and see what it looked like. "I was just curious. I just wanted to see how big it would grow and what it would develop into." Pelfry said the only reason the plant appeared to be cultivated was that his wife had cleared the area for the tomato plants. He also denied reports that the wayward plant was staked. "My neighbor on the other side of the fence had some tomato plants and they were on a stake," he said. "It may have just looked like the plant was on a stake." Since word of the plant got around town, Pelfry said he "pulled it up, broke all the leaves and stems off and threw it in the trash."

Sweeping In His Tails

Marriage On The Move

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It was marriage on the move for Devoy Geiger and his new bride, Phyllis. They tied the knot while Geiger piloted a bus along I-40. The highway nuptials surprised about 20 guests on the bus, Saturday who thought they were being driven to the location for the ceremony. The reception was held at a Nashville hamburger stand. "I'm a bus driver, and we met on a bus trip," Geiger explained. The Rev. James Barton, pastor of the First Christian Church here, said it was the most unusual ceremony he had ever performed. Immediately after the wedding, Geiger drove into a filling station to refuel. Relatives later tied cans to the bumper of the bus.

close enough to indicate that it is still winnable by either man. The numbers were 45 per cent for Ford and 42 per cent for Carter, with 2 per cent for Eugene McCarthy and the rest undecided.

Carter found encouraging news in New York, where both The New York Times and the New York Daily News showed him ahead for that state's 41 electoral votes.

The Times' did not give statewide percentages, but the News said it found a 53-44 lead for Carter, with independent Eugene McCarthy the choice of 3 per cent.

Kissinger Hits Carter Position

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an unusual television appearance arranged by the White House, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has criticized Jimmy Carter's stand on Yugoslavia and other foreign policy issues.

Kissinger also announced that the United States has agreed to begin talks with Vietnam about normalizing relations.

Kissinger's appearance on CBS television's "Face the Nation" was arranged by the White House last week after the program had tried unsuccessfully for several years to get him as a guest.

The secretary echoed criticisms President Ford has made about Carter, saying the Democrat's statements on Yugoslavia were dangerous and inconsistent with American policy.

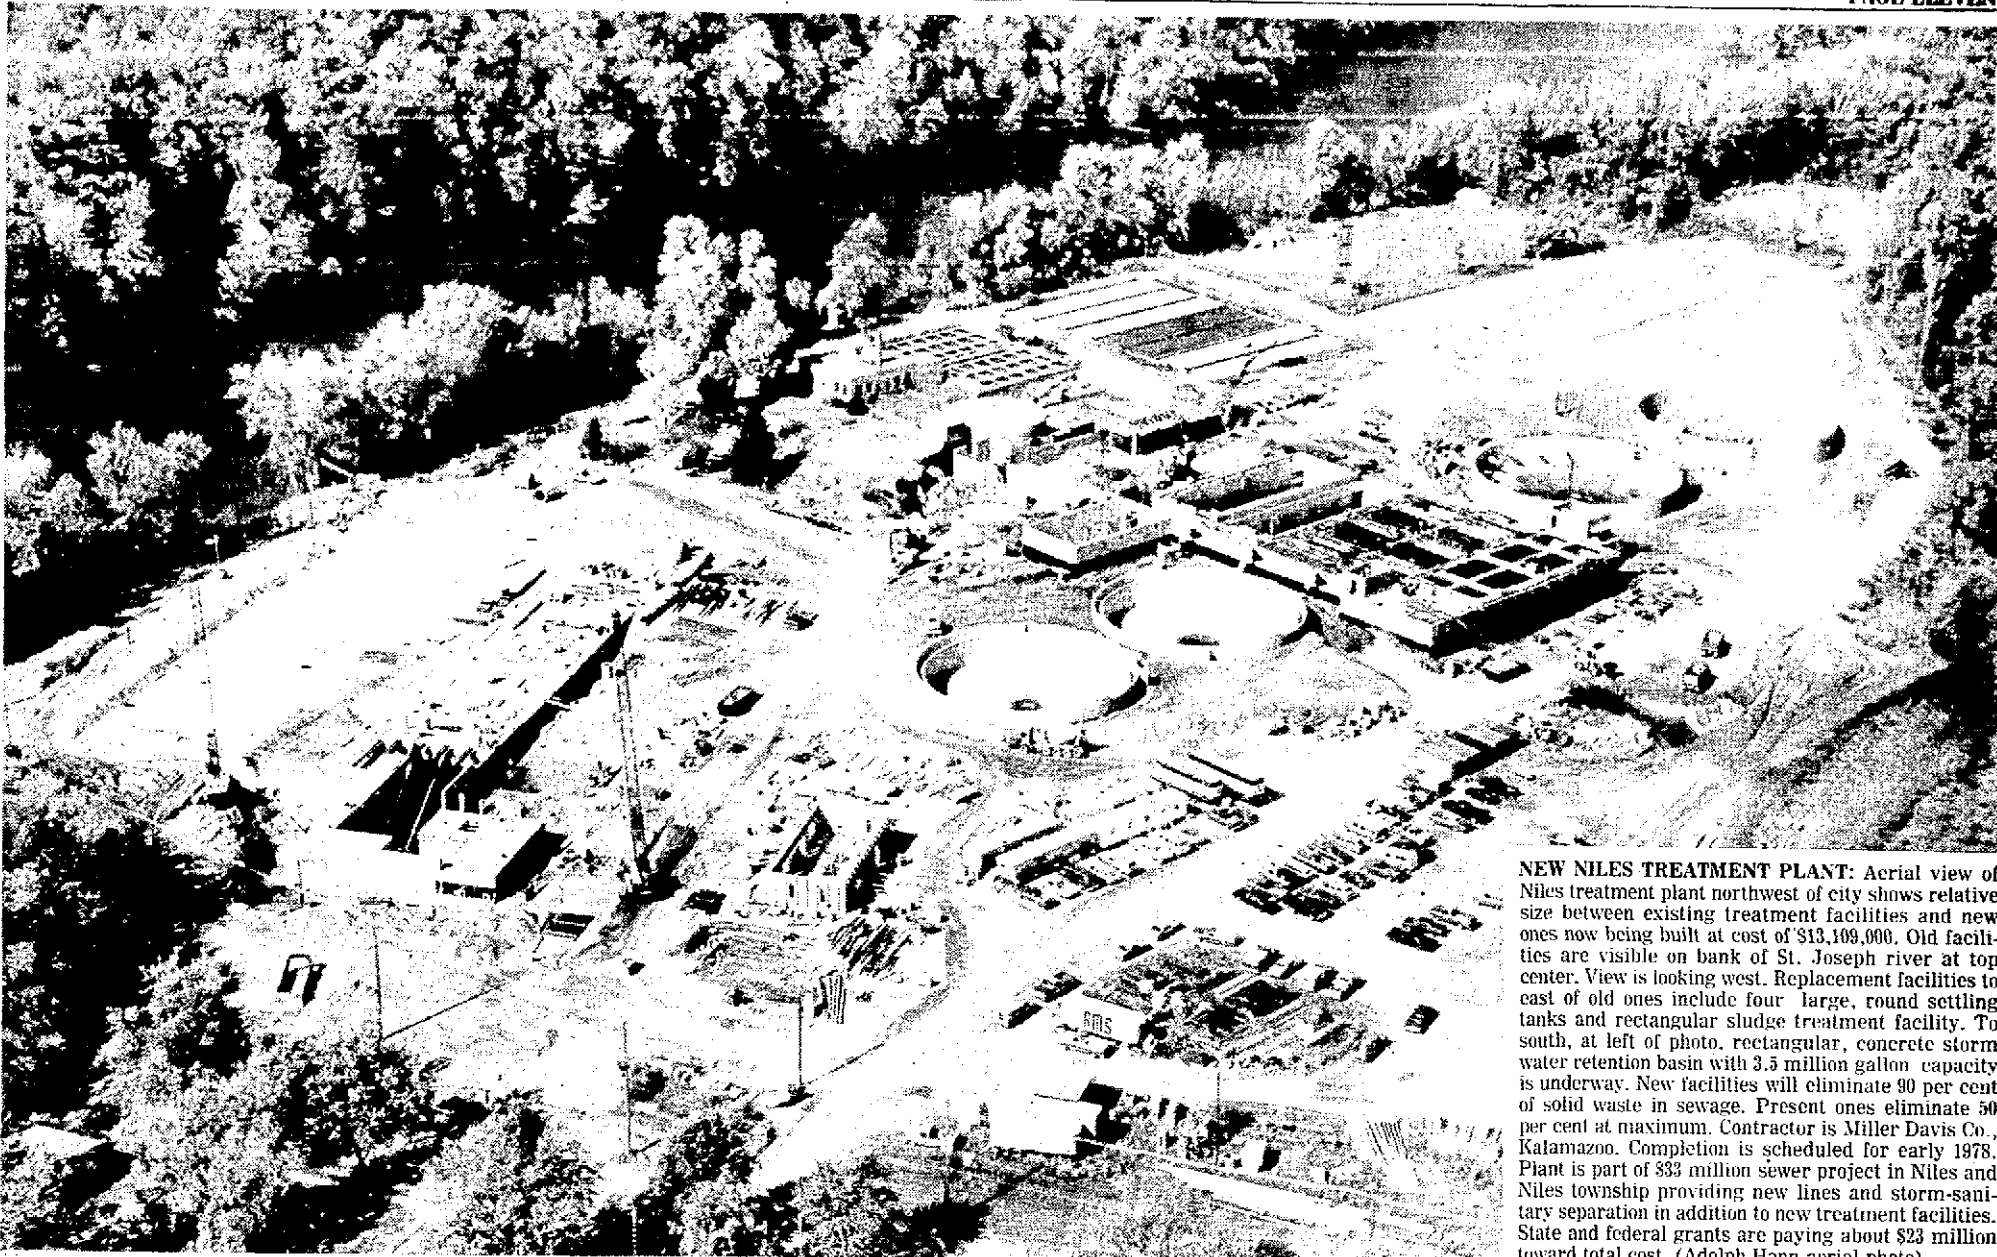

The secretary said the independence and nonalignment of Yugoslavia is a "major American interest" and questioned Carter's statement that Yugoslavia lies outside the American defense perimeter.

Kissinger said that all Republican and Democratic presidents in the post-World War II era have considered the independence of Yugoslavia an important objective. The secretary added that he was "positive" Carter would reconsider his stand if elected.

Carter said on Oct. 16 that he would not go to war in Yugoslavia even if that country was the target of a Soviet attack after the death of President Tito.

Ford, Carter Zero In On 7 States

Final Drive Concentrates On Electoral Votes

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

With eight days until harvest-time, the presidential candidates are taking their scythes where the hay grows thickest. The political hay is in seven of the nation's largest states, which both camps consider vital for victory and still winnable by either man.

Voters in those states — California, New York, Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Texas — will be seeing a lot of Republicans Gerald R. Ford and Bob Dole and Democrats Jimmy Carter and Walter Mondale in the week ahead. Among them, those voters control 207 of the 270 electoral votes needed to win.

Ford opened a $4-million media campaign Sunday. It will be the centerpiece of his stretch campaign, and it will be directed at six of those seven states.

He also spoke today about inflation during time bought on the Mutual Radio Network.

His campaign committee bought 30 minutes of prime television time in California and put the President on to be "interviewed" Sunday by a campaign volunteer, sportscaster Joe Garagiola.

Ford chose to talk about three issues in comparing himself with Carter: national defense, taxation and foreign affairs.

He said Carter's call for a cut of $5 billion to $7 billion in the defense budget would weaken the country. Ford noted that he supports production of the B1 bomber, which Carter would delay.

Ford said Carter's proposal to eliminate tax loopholes and deductions would raise taxes for middle-income Americans, a charge Carter has denied. Ford said his proposal for a tax cut would help those in middle-income brackets. The President has said he would reduce taxes with any budget surplus that accrues in the next four years.

He said Carter has no experience in foreign affairs, while he has met with 124 world leaders in two years as president.

Ford will film and show similar programs this week as he campaigns across the country in Illinois on Tuesday, Pennsylvania on Wednesday, Ohio on Thursday and New York on Sunday, New Jersey television markets will be covered by the New York and Pennsylvania programs.

Carter will cross the country in the other direction. Today was his last day of rest at home in Plains, Ga., prior to the voting. He was scheduled to head north and then west, finishing the campaign in Texas on Sunday and California next Monday.

The visit home gave Carter a chance to attend a session of the men's Bible class at Plains Baptist Church.

Carter is still front-runner in the campaign, according to a batch of polls taken for newspapers and magazines and published over the weekend. But his lead is narrow.

A national survey for Time magazine by the firm of Yankelovich, Skelly and White showed Carter with 48 per cent, Ford with 44 and 8 per cent undecided.

Newsweek and U.S. News and World Report magazines surveyed the states to see how the electoral vote total might divide. Newsweek found Carter solidly leading for 83 votes and in the lead for another 225, which would give him 38 more than he needs to win.

U.S. News and World Report's survey showed Carter leading for 244 votes and Ford for 90, with the rest too close to call.

A poll taken for The Associated Press immediately after Friday's final presidential debate by Chilton Research Service found that 49.0 per cent of those surveyed were leaning to Ford and 44.9 per cent to Carter. But the AP sample found a disproportionate number of older people and Republicans in the debate audience, so the sample does not necessarily reflect the views of the total electorate.

In statewide polls, Ford and Carter both found reasons for optimism. The Detroit News found Ford leading in Michigan, but by only three percentage points, 45 to 42.

In North Carolina, The News and Observer of Raleigh found that Ford is nearly tied with Carter in a state once all but conceded to the Georgian. Its survey showed Ford less than two points behind.

The New York Times and The New York News both said Carter was leading in the Empire State. The Times did not give statewide percentages, but The News said Carter led by 53-44 per cent.

With the race so close, Democratic vice presidential candidate Walter Mondale was stumping the industrial Northeast, reminding party regulars that a difference as small as one vote per precinct, spread across the country, might affect the outcome of the election.

He pointed to the results in 1960 and 1968, when the Democrats won and lost by extremely narrow margins. He urged them to vote and work to get the vote out.

Dole, in Michigan, visited a Billy Graham crusade service in a football stadium at Pontiac.

Graham introduced Dole and his wife, Elizabeth, to the crowd of 50,000. But he said he was not endorsing anyone in the election this year.

Betty Ford To Visit State

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford will pay a political visit to Michigan Wednesday, attending a Republican reception and having a reunion with a puppy dog she donated to a school for the blind.

Mrs. Ford will attend a "People for Ford" rally at Avondale High School in Auburn Heights near Rochester Wednesday night.

At the rally, she will be reunited with "Jerry," a puppy from the litter of the presidential dog "Liberty."

Mrs. Ford will arrive at Detroit Metropolitan Airport in the afternoon and attend a reception of GOP leaders at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Dearborn before attending the rally.

She will stay overnight at the hotel, leaving Detroit Thursday morning, said a spokesman for the Ford campaign in Michigan.

Poll Shows Carter Gaining On Ford In State

DETROIT (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter has closed the gap on President Ford to three percentage points in Michigan, according to a poll conducted for the Detroit News. The poll, taken Oct. 15-19, indicated that Ford's earlier lead over Carter in the President's home state has shrunk to 45 per cent against 42 per cent for Carter. Independent candidate Eugene McCarthy had 2 per cent, with 11 per cent undecided. In a previous poll taken Oct. 1-5, Ford got 47 per cent, Carter 42, and McCarthy 3. Market Opinion Research, which conducted the poll, said Ford's lead now is within the survey's four-point margin of error, the degree to which the vote of the 700 persons interviewed by telephone may differ from the opinions of all registered voters in Michigan. Six other minor candidates, who shared 1 per cent of the likely voters two weeks ago, had no visible support in the latest tally.

Ford, Carter Zero In On 7 States

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

With eight days until harvest-time, the presidential candidates are taking their scythes where the hay grows thickest.

The political hay is in seven of the nation's largest states, which both camps consider vital for victory and still winnable by either man.

Voters in those states — California, New York, Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Texas — will be seeing a lot of Republicans Gerald R. Ford and Bob Dole and Democrats Jimmy Carter and Walter Mondale in the week ahead. Among them, those voters control 207 of the 270 electoral votes needed to win.

Ford opened a $4-million media campaign Sunday. It will be the centerpiece of his stretch campaign, and it will be directed at six of those seven states.

He also spoke today about inflation during time bought on the Mutual Radio Network.

His campaign committee bought 30 minutes of prime television time in California and put the President on to be "interviewed" Sunday by a campaign volunteer, sportscaster Joe Garagiola.

Ford chose to talk about three issues in comparing himself with Carter: national defense, taxation and foreign affairs.

He said Carter's call for a cut of $5 billion to $7 billion in the defense budget would weaken the country. Ford noted that he supports production of the B1 bomber, which Carter would delay.

Ford said Carter's proposal to eliminate tax loopholes and deductions would raise taxes for middle-income Americans, a charge Carter has denied. Ford said his proposal for a tax cut would help those in middle-income brackets. The President has said he would reduce taxes with any budget surplus that accrues in the next four years.

He said Carter has no experience in foreign affairs, while he has met with 124 world leaders in two years as president.

Ford will film and show similar programs this week as he campaigns across the country in Illinois on Tuesday, Pennsylvania on Wednesday, Ohio on Thursday and New Jersey on Sunday. New Jersey television markets will be covered by the New York and Pennsylvania programs.

Carter will cross the country in the other direction. Today was his last day of rest at home in Plains, Ga., prior to the voting. He was scheduled to head north and then west, finishing the campaign in Texas on Sunday and California next Monday.

The visit home gave Carter a chance to attend a session of the men's Bible class at Plains Baptist Church.

Carter is still front-runner in the campaign, according to a batch of polls taken for newspapers and magazines and published over the weekend. But his lead is narrow.

A national survey for Time magazine by the firm of Yankelovich, Skelly and White showed Carter with 48 per cent, Ford with 44 and 8 per cent undecided.

Newsweek and U.S. News and World Report magazines surveyed the states to see how the electoral vote total might divide. Newsweek found Carter solidly leading for 83 votes and in the lead for another 225, which would give him 38 more than he needs to win.

U.S. News and World Report's survey showed Carter leading for 244 votes and Ford for 90, with the rest too close to call.

A poll taken for The Associated Press immediately after Friday's final presidential debate by Chilton Research Service found that 49.0 per cent of those surveyed were leaning to Ford and 44.9 per cent to Carter. But the AP sample found a disproportionate number of older people and Republicans in the debate audience, so the sample does not necessarily reflect the views of the total electorate.

In statewide polls, Ford and Carter both found reasons for optimism. The Detroit News found Ford leading in Michigan, but by only three percentage points, 45 to 42.

In North Carolina, The News and Observer of Raleigh found that Ford is nearly tied with Carter in a state once all but conceded to the Georgian. Its survey showed Ford less than two points behind.

The New York Times and The New York News both said Carter was leading in the Empire State. The Times did not give statewide percentages, but The News said Carter led by 53-44 per cent.

With the race so close, Democratic vice presidential candidate Walter Mondale was stumping the industrial Northeast, reminding party regulars that a difference as small as one vote per precinct, spread across the country, might affect the outcome of the election.

He pointed to the results in 1960 and 1968, when the Democrats won and lost by extremely narrow margins. He urged them to vote and work to get the vote out.

Dole, in Michigan, visited a Billy Graham crusade service in a football stadium at Pontiac.

Graham introduced Dole and his wife, Elizabeth, to the crowd of 50,000. But he said he was not endorsing anyone in the election this year.

Betty Ford To Visit State

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford will pay a political visit to Michigan Wednesday, attending a Republican reception and having a reunion with a puppy dog she donated to a school for the blind.

Mrs. Ford will attend a "People for Ford" rally at Avondale High School in Auburn Heights near Rochester Wednesday night.

At the rally, she will be reunited with "Jerry," a puppy from the litter of the presidential dog "Liberty."

"Jerry," a 13-month-old golden retriever, was given by the Fords to the Leader Dogs for the Blind School in Rochester.

Mrs. Ford will arrive at Detroit Metropolitan Airport in the afternoon and attend a reception of GOP leaders at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Dearborn before attending the rally. She will stay overnight at the hotel, leaving Detroit Thursday morning, said a spokesman for the Ford campaign in Michigan.

Poll Shows Carter Gaining On Ford In State

DETROIT (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter has closed the gap on President Ford to three percentage points in Michigan, according to a poll conducted for the Detroit News. The poll, taken Oct. 15-19, indicated that Ford's earlier lead over Carter in the President's home state has shrunk to 45 per cent against 42 per cent for Carter. Independent candidate Eugene McCarthy had 2 per cent, with 11 per cent undecided. In a previous poll taken Oct. 1-5, Ford got 47 per cent, Carter 42, and McCarthy 3. Market Opinion Research, which conducted the poll, said Ford's lead now is within the survey's four-point margin of error, the degree to which the vote of the 700 persons interviewed by telephone may differ from the opinions of all registered voters in Michigan. Six other minor candidates, who shared 1 per cent of the likely voters two weeks ago, had no visible support in the latest tally.

Danish 'Joke' Gets Serious

By JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer

COPENHAGEN (AP) — He would recall all Denmark's ambassadors, eliminate 4,300 government jobs a month for the next two years, make tax free everyone's first $10,000 in income, and reduce the national defense to a telephone answering service that says again and again, "We Surrender."

Mogens Glistrup and his program used to be the bad joke of Danish politics, but suddenly his Progress Party has become the second political force in the country behind the ruling Social Democrats, a phenomenon taken with dead seriousness in an autumn of conservative advances in Sweden and West Germany.

A Gallup Poll asking Danes last month who they would vote for tomorrow gave Glistrup 22.8 per cent, a gain of more than six points in six months. The Social Democrats had 30.7 per cent. The Progress Party holds 23 seats in the 179 seat Danish parliament, and claims about 20,000 members throughout the country. In elections for a new parliament in January 1975, it won about 13.6 per cent of the total votes cast.

"We thought he would just disappear," said Kjeld Olesen, the Social Democrat parliamentary floor leader, of Glistrup. "His program is still foolish and illogical, but we take him seriously now. You can't label him. I wouldn't call him a fascist. Maybe an anarchist. Whatever it is, he has an immense talent for touching what the people at the grass roots are feeling and saying."

Glistrup is a 50-year-old lawyer and a member of parliament who became a public figure by showing it was possible to manipulate Danish tax law so as to pay no income tax at all. He is now on trial on 3,100 counts of tax fraud, but his popularity has expanded as a symbol of general dissatisfaction with life here. Glistrup has basically taken the irritation felt about heavy taxes and bureaucracy in a country with an involved social welfare system and offered a program of alternatives, but is pushing much harder than practically any other politician in Western Europe.

The kernel of his plan is to cut the Danish budget by $10 billion or roughly in half, in five years. In doing it, he says he can make every Dane's first $10,000 in income tax free in 1978.

A wage earner living alone now pays 42 per cent in taxes on a salary of $10,000. Glistrup says savings would be made by reducing the 770,000 government employees to 400,000 through the elimination of 4,300 jobs a month. All Denmark's ambassadors would be withdrawn except its representative at the Common Market in Brussels, and foreign aid and subsidies to culture would be halted.

Glistrup personally advocates doing away with the Danish military entirely, but says his party wants to continue its participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Midwest Is 'Too Close To Call'

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

The industrial heartland, where President Ford is supposed to have his greatest strength and where the presidential election may very well be decided, is too close to call as the race enters the stretch drive.

"It's pretty much a toss-up all across this belt," said one top Ford strategist. "It's probably going to be decided in the last four days of the campaign."

An Associated Press survey of Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin, based on interviews with political and campaign leaders and the latest available polls, shows the race about even throughout the industrial Midwest.

These five states account for a total of 96 electoral votes of the 270 needed for election.

One of the things which makes predicting the Midwest difficult is the large concentration of East European ethnic voters and the still fluid situation created by Ford's statement in the second campaign debate that their ancestral homelands are not dominated by the Soviet Union. Ford has admitted he made a mistake and reaffirmed his support of freedom for Eastern Europe, but the debate lingers on. Ford backers say the storm is over; Carter's say it is not.

Only Michigan, the President's home state, seems clearly in his favor at this point, and organized labor, marshalling solidly behind Democrat Jimmy Carter, promises to make it close even there.

Carter's best state in the area probably is Ohio, where one poll has shown him ahead by a dozen points, but a more recent poll by the Ford campaign gives the President a one-point lead. The truth probably is somewhere in between but still tilted to Carter.

Indiana, because of its Republican tradition in presidential elections, must be considered leaning toward Ford if anybody, but both sides see the race there as neck-and-neck.

Carter may have a slight lead in Wisconsin on the basis of objective appraisals, but this is tempered by the fact that the dairy state almost never votes Democratic in a presidential election.

In Illinois you can find polls going either way, but Carter probably has the edge. His best showing is the Chicago Sun-Times straw poll which gives him a 55 to 45 lead over Ford.

Shadowing the picture in the Midwest, as in other large population states, is the presence of Eugene McCarthy as an independent candidate. In such states as Wisconsin and Illinois a strong McCarthy vote likely would throw the states to Ford and, because of the large number of electoral votes the states represent, possibly even the election.

State-by-state here's how the Midwestern battleground looks:

MICHIGAN: this is Ford's homeground, which he represented as a congressman from Grand Rapids for 25 years, and the odds have to favor a native son and 21 electoral votes for Ford.

But Detroit has one of the largest concentrations of unionized workers in the country and an unemployment rate hovering around 10 per cent. The unions, splintered in 1972, are now solidly behind Carter.

Ford is strongest in the out-state rural areas, particularly the southwestern districts.

A private Carter poll showed him 9 points ahead during the Ford Motor Co. strike, but more recent polls by a private firm for President Ford and the Detroit news shows the President riding an 8 point lead.

OHIO: No Republican has ever been elected president without carrying Ohio and its 25 electoral votes. Ordinarily this would be a safe Republican state, but Carter has built up strength in the industrialized Cleveland and Toledo areas and parlayed it with support in the Appalachian southeast.

The ethnic issue may pinch Ford here, too. There are 440,000 Eastern European ethnics in Ohio.

A Ford poll taken before the foreign policy debate showed him ahead by one percentage point in Ohio, but the Columbus Dispatch poll showed Carter 53 and Ford 41.

INDIANA: The Hoosier state, with its 13 electoral votes, is the home of Earl Butz, the agriculture secretary who resigned after being caught in some unprintable language slurring blacks. The farmers here adored Butz, especially the large grain producers who have prospered under his administration.

Butz's departure is likely to hurt Ford. Even if the farmers don't switch to Carter, they may just stay in the fields on election day. The black vote, already in Carter's corner, may be more highly motivated now.

Helping Ford in Indiana is company on the ballot from a popular Republican governor, Otis R. Bowen, and former Indianapolis Mayor Richard G. Lugar, who is running a strong race against Democratic Sen. Vance Hartke.

Indiana usually goes Republican in presidential elections. It is expected to go for Ford this year, although his campaign here is worried that Indiana may have been taken for granted. Going into the final days, neither Ford nor running mate Bob Dole had been in the state.

ILLINOIS: Chicago has more citizens of Polish descent than any other city in the world, except Warsaw, and also a concentration of Slavic-Americans. If the Eastern European thing is going to hurt Ford anywhere, it should be in the Chicago suburbs where Republicans have been making steady inroads into the ethnic vote.

The farm vote also may be affected by the loss of Butz, although it may be more an apathy problem than new Carter votes.

Carter has the all-out support of Mayor Richard Daley's machine in Chicago. But Ford hopes for some coalition assist-

With all the interest in CBs one must wonder just what causes consumers to plunk down anywhere from $50 to several thousand dollars for a set which gives them the exclusive right to speak with strangers. It's an intriguing psychology.

There's no question that talking with strangers on CB has a wide appeal. When Betty Ford greeted radio buffs with "Hello, First Momma here," she became the most famous speaker on the nation's chattiest partyline.

The citizens' band radio is the fastest growing communication medium since the telephone. Half of the 15 million sets now in operation were bought within the past 18 months or so. By the end of 1976, the industry expects sales to rocket over $1 billion. One explanation for the rage, no doubt, has to do with our impersonal society. The fact is, we don't have the relaxed, easy manner of relating face to face with others which we enjoyed 50 years ago.

We all need such human contact yet our attempts at it are often awkward and forced. Most of us avoid such confrontations if we can. Maybe it's a paradox that in a nation which prides itself on freedom of speech, the average man still doesn't have much of a chance to express his ideas and feelings to others.

The CB radio is a forum for the little guy who seeks such expression. He's after "talk power," and he doesn't have to risk losing face to people who argue him down. His anonymity is his shield.

The new camaraderie of the airwaves verifies that a CBER will readily speak to strangers about the most detailed minutiae, even when in a hurry to get through traffic. These, ironically, are the same strangers he might not say more than five words to in a bus, coffee shop or hotel lobby.

In addition, willingness to help emerges more quickly toward a CBER who is broken down on a highway than it does toward to someone who,

When we CBERs are employed by a stranger in trouble, we feel individually linked with him, yet we can choose involvement without identity.

Most CBERs use only their handle. Anonymous Samaritan acts are not only valued but respected. We can relay a message for help, then tune out if we wish.

Lonnie Creamer, a heavy-duty trucker from Spartansburg, S.C., seems to sum it all up when he says: "My CB radio is a friendship maker, bringing the whole wide world just a little step closer."

LMC POLICE TRAINING SCHOOL

Seventeen Recruits Graduating

Seventeen police recruits from 12 Michigan law enforcement agencies will be graduated Friday, Oct. 29, from the Lake Michigan college basic police recruit school in ceremonies in the original Berrien county court house in Berrien Springs.

Principal speaker at the 4 p.m. ceremony will be Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White. The fall class of police recruits will be the 11th such LMC class since certified police recruit training became mandatory in Michigan in 1971.

After the graduation, a social hour will be held at Benton Harbor Holiday Inn, followed by a 7:30 p.m. dinner in honor of the graduating recruits. Special Agent Thomas S. Shadrick, of the FBI regional office, Detroit, will be the principal speaker with Deputy Fred Schaub, of the Berrien county sheriff's department, serving as master of ceremonies.

"We again have elected to have our graduation in the original Berrien County Court House because of the symbolic meaning the old court house has in terms of our nation's Bicentennial," said Neil R. Teske, assistant coordinator of LMC law enforcement programs who is in charge of the college's basic police recruit school. Last spring's class also was graduated in the old court house.

"The original Berrien County Court House was constructed in 1838," Teske said. "It is a stately little building constructed of native wood from local forests. We are urging our guests at the graduation to arrive early in time to tour the building and examine the many exhibits on the ground floor prior to the 4 p.m. ceremonies."

The graduation culminates a seven-week training program that covers a wide range of subjects dealing with basic law enforcement procedures.

In a recent election, the class chose Donald D. Herman, Lawton police department, as class commander. David B. Guthaus, their departments include: Michael J. Krush and Daniel R. Peppel, Benton township; Theodore D. Post, Bridgman police; Brian J. Negro and Robin R. Vance, Coloma township police; Kenneth E. Gustafson, Michael P. Hudack, and Robert D. Peterson, Covert police; James E. Bartosch and James R. Curran, Howard township police; David L. Chandler, Lawrence police; Steven J. Siebenmark, New Buffalo police; Scott E. Campbell, Niles police; and Dennis A. Koern, Waterford police.

Workers Facing Layoffs

DETROIT (AP) — Some 10,000 Ford Motor Co. workers face layoffs this week because of continuing parts shortages stemming from a nationwide strike against the automaker. Ford announced the layoffs, despite a return to work at a key Ford stamping plant in Cleveland. The stamping plant was the last of Ford's 42 parts plants to reach tentative agreement with the United Auto Workers on a new local agreement to supplement the national accord. A Ford spokesman said at least 8,000 workers would be laid off because parts supplies at some plants were so depleted that it would take several days to replenish them. That figure could hit as high as 10,000 the Ford spokesman said.

Ordain Women, Allow Priests To Marry, Catholics Urge

By MICHAEL L. GRACYK
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Should Roman Catholic priests be allowed to marry and should women be ordained Catholic priests?

A convention here this past weekend, touted as a representative cross-section of the nation's more than 45 million Catholics, proposed the church's 300 U.S. bishops consider the liberal notion.

More than 1,300 delegates to the "Call to Action" conference, a Bicentennial project sponsored by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, also favored abolition of regulations stipulating automatic excommunication for divorced Catholics who remarry.

But they took more conservative stances on birth control and abortion, choosing to remain fairly close to the present church position of opposing artificial means of birth control and advocating bans on abortions.

"Never have I seen the kind of excitement that was generated by anything, particularly since Vatican II, as the whole 'Call to Action,'" said Msgr. John J. Egan, co-chairperson of the conference. "It symbolizes for me a new breadth of life of the church."

But other church officials noted more traditionalist views may not have been adequately represented at the three-day assembly.

"I think we have to be realistic," said Msgr. George Higgins, director of research for the U.S. Catholic Conference. "I was very disappointed in a number of the votes there seemed to be a reluctance to take into account the feelings of Middle America."

"I have to say in all honesty as one who considers himself a liberal, that there was a certain amount of illiberality in failing to take into account the sensibility and feelings of some people outside."

"We have made some good decisions with with most of us will agree, we have made some with which many will disagree," observed John Cardinal Dearden of Detroit.

Time was the chief enemy for the delegates, who waded through nearly 100 pages and 28 recommendations in a 10-hour non-stop final convention session on Saturday.

The final recommendation on the floor dealt with the volatile abortion issue, and was passed overwhelmingly by the reform-minded delegates even though it merely echoed existing policies of the church. Seventeen amendments were tabled, effectively killing them, in the interest of wrapping up the proceedings.

"I find problems in some areas but no direct defiance of Catholic teaching," Msgr. Higgins said.

But John Cardinal Krol of Philadelphia differed, particularly on the divorce recommendation.

"We're dealing with a Divine law and not just a church law. There's a doctrinal element here," he said. "There's no room for fornicators in Heaven."

Finger Numbness and Tingling Dictated This Secretary's Condition

A recent discussion of pain, numbness and tingling which can result from pressure on a nerve root in the neck brought forth a visit from a hypothetical secretary who, it appears, had numbness and tingling of the fingers.

Is this also a neck, bone oriented condition, we asked Dr. Vince Ackerman of The Ackerman Chiropractic Center.

"Whether you know it or not," said Dr. Ackerman, "you are discussing the Carpal-Tunnel syndrome."

He noted that bony changes in the neck are a common cause of such troubles but, "it is never safe to jump to conclusions."

"In every case," states Dr. Ackerman, "you have to find the point at which the pressure is exerted on the nerves and then find a suitable way to remove the pressure."

Carpal-tunnel syndrome represents pressure on the median nerve as it passes through the wrist — usually a scarring or thickening of the sheath surrounding the nerve there.

"This particular ailment is featured by numbness and tingling of the first and second fingers, and part of the third, that being the area served by the nerve," stated Dr. Ackerman.

He notes the condition may result from injury or a variety of other causes. "It is sometimes seen with the menopause, or with low thyroid states, among others."

"The good doctor notes it can, obviously, to some extent resemble disorders of the neck, spine or presence of a cervical rib."

"With disorders originating in the neck, the symptoms usually are exaggerated at night," says Dr. Ackerman.

He added that neck disorders generally affect more than just the appropriate fingers, for Carpal-Tunnel syndrome.

"In any event, competent diagnosis will differentiate Carpal-Tunnel syndrome from neck spine pressure," says Dr. Ackerman.

Finding the cause in a particular case is important. "Commencement of effective treatment is crucial," said Dr. Ackerman.

"Numbness and tingling in the fingers is not a casual situation."

Dr. Ackerman maintains offices at 3018 Red Arrow Hwy., St. Joseph (Telephone 429-1700.)

JUNIUS WAS the pen name of an unidentified British political writer who attacked King George III and his colonial policies. His letters appeared in the London Public Advertiser between January, 1769, and January, 1772 and admonished the king. The World Almanac reports, by stating: "Sir, it is the misfortune of your life . . . that you should never have been acquainted with the language of truth, until you hear it in the complaints of your people. It is not, however too late to correct the error of your education."

Raft With Six Bodies Beaches

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP) — A raft with the bodies of seven persons who abandoned the Dutch freighter Gabriella during a severe storm last week has washed up on a rocky shore near St. John's, Newfoundland.

Search and rescue officials said residents of the area climbed down a steep cliff on Sunday to remove the bodies of six men and the wife of the Gabriella's chief engineer.

The bodies of six other crew members who abandoned the freighter when it appeared to be sinking Oct. 19 in a North Atlantic storm were recovered earlier by searching ships. Only two persons survived, the ship's master, Capt. C. Intveldt, and crewman Peter Senf.

Both the captain and Senf were treated for exposure in a hospital in St. John's, Newfoundland.

Two crewmen from the container ship Trans America, which was first on the scene after the Gabriella sent out a distress signal, went aboard the listing freighter and managed to start her engines. They sailed the ship into St. John's.

LMC POLICE TRAINING SCHOOL Seventeen Recruits Graduating

Seventeen police recruits from 12 Michigan law enforcement agencies will be graduated Friday, Oct. 29, from the Lake Michigan college basic police recruit school in ceremonies in the original Berrien county court house in Berrien Springs.

Principal speaker at the 4 p.m. ceremony will be Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White. The fall class of police recruits will be the 11th such LMC class since certified police recruit training became mandatory in Michigan in 1971.

After the graduation, a social hour will be held at Benton Harbor Holiday Inn, followed by a 7:30 p.m. dinner in honor of the graduating recruits. Special Agent Thomas S. Shadrick, of the FBI regional office, Detroit, will be the principal speaker with Deputy Fred Schaub, of the Berrien county sheriff's department, serving as master of ceremonies.

"We again have elected to have our graduation in the original Berrien County Court House because of the symbolic meaning the old court house has in terms of our nation's Bicentennial," said Neil R. VENGEANCE IN THE PIAZZA

In the early days when he strutted his balcony and flashed his eyes and jutted his chin and promised the world, he used to say things like: "I shall make my life a masterpiece." Or: "If I retreat, kill me." In the end Benito Mussolini, the first of the Fascist dictators became the first of the bad Italian jokes.

During the war, Mussolini led Italy into a series of military disasters so bad Hitler quickly reduced him to a silent junior partner who did not learn until the day before that the Germans were about to attack Russia. Thereafter, Hitler used Italian forces primarily as occupation or auxiliary forces.

By 1943, with Allied troops pushing up the Italian peninsula and Mussolini's generals plotting against him, Il Duce was dumped from power and had to be rescued by German paratroopers. He was set up by the Germans as head of a puppet government in north Italy, which carried out savage reprisals against those who had dethroned him. Among those executed was Count Ciano, his son-in-law.

The German army still controlled north Italy when the final year of the European war began, but it was retreating fast. Italian partisans swept through the streets without hindrance and about 6 a.m. on Thursday, April 26, 1945, Mussolini quietly sneaked northward, trying to reach Switzerland.

Two days later Italian partisans found him. The deposed dictator, then 61, and his mistress, Clara Petacci, 25, were holed up in a cottage on a hill outside the village of Dongo. A partisan commander dispatched 10 men and an officer with simple instructions: "Settle the matter."

Il Duce saw his countrymen approach and when he discovered they had come not to liberate, but to arrest him, his huge face shook with fury and he roared. "Let me save my life and I'll give you an empire!" The partisans told him he had been condemned to death. They held a "trial" to certify the death sentence, then stood Mussolini, his mistress, and 16 other Fascists up before a hastily organized firing squad. Il Duce's last words: "No! No!"

The 18 bodies were hauled in a van to Milan — the city where Mussolini had formed his Fascist party 22 years before and launched his Black Shirt march on Rome.

Friday, April 29. The bodies lay sprawled in a heap in the bright sunshine of the Piazza Loreto, a downtown square. Mussolini's head rests against the breast of his mistress.

By mid-morning the crush of vengeful viewers becomes dangerous: several are trampled. The partisans raise the bodies of the dictator and his mistress to a scaffold, hanging them by their feet for the world to view.

By SUSAN AGER

Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The power of incumbency and a familiar Irish name will be pitted against the muscle of union and party backing in one of three Supreme Court races Nov. 2.

In another, an obscure Republican incumbent, a Democratic opponent who nearly won last time around, and a never-say-die third-party man will vie for a six-year term on the court.

Of the three races — the liveliest and most expensive in years — the only one where no sparks are flying is a timid joust for a two-year term on the court. No one is predicting the outcome of that one, let alone paying much attention to it.

Most eyes are on incumbent Supreme Court Chief Justice Thomas Giles Kavanagh, a Democrat running without party support. Democrats mainly distraught over his failure to back their apportionment plans refused to nominate him in August.

But that decision, also sparked by anger over Kavanagh's refusal to campaign for other Democratic court candidates, has been seen by some as improperly partisan. It may wind up the most valuable "contribution" received by his campaign.

For the eight-year term Democrats instead nominated Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Roman S. Gribbs, a former Detroit mayor and Wayne County sheriff. Smooth and stylish, Gribbs has collected at least $10,000 from the United Auto Workers union and $45,000 altogether, plus the in-kind donation by the party of radio ads and other help.

This year's Supreme Court races will likely cost more than $400,000 and are important to Michigan party leaders. Republicans want to retain their new majority on the seven-member court — created by two governor's appointments. Democrats want to get back their old and comfortable lead.

Both parties want to keep that majority at least until 1982. The ticklish apportionment question, which redraws legislative district lines and often affects the party stripe of some seats, will likely be run through the Supreme Court early in the decade. Parties expect their justices to side with the plans they suggest.

But the big issue in this campaign is the reputed "soft on

KAVANAGH RACE LIVELIEST
State To Elect Three Justices

crime" record of Kavanagh and the court in general. Gribbs and the Republican nominee, Alpena County Circuit Court Judge Joseph P. Swallow, have joined unlikely hands to take shots at that issue.

They also have criticized Kavanagh's statements that decriminalization of drugs, prostitution and pornography could be one way to unclog a court system nearly strangled with cases.

Kavanagh has collected more than $50,000 — the biggest donation $1,500 from the Michigan Education Association — and the sympathy of what he calls "the real Democrats, not the king-makers." They tell him they resent the way he was dumped when he wouldn't play partisan.

Besides the money, he has the heavyweight endorsements of the Michigan Trial Lawyers' Association, most past State Bar Presidents, and both the Detroit and Michigan Police Officers Associations.

In an interview Kavanagh says "Frankly, I think it's dumb to say a judge is soft on crime. It's like saying he's against the flag or motherhood."

He calls his opponents' charges "loose and irresponsible comments that feed on peoples' fears about crime" and try to cloud over the "real issue" of the campaign — "whether we're going to have an independent and non-partisan Supreme Court."

Gribbs cites 11 Supreme Court decisions which overturned convictions because law enforcement officials violated defendants' rights, and says he would have voted with the dissenters on each of those cases.

Swallow, 43, an aggressive and kinetic campaigner, says the Supreme Court has "tied the hands" of law enforcement and "generated a disrespect for law" in Michigan, particularly Detroit.

His campaign slogan is "He's Our Bird" and on a poster in his Lansing headquarters is scrawled "Give 'the bird' to crime!"

Few expect Swallow, from a rarely-noticed outstate court, to make many ripples in the race against Kavanagh and Gribbs, though they say he is still young and could run successfully in the future.

One hopeful who continues to make is Zoltan Ferency, twice a candidate for governor who's in his second race for the Supreme Court. For a six-year term he is opposing Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Blair Moody Jr. and incumbent Republican Justice Lawrence Lindemer, whom a September newspaper poll showed running third with only 10 per cent support.

An attorney and criminal justice professor, Ferency, a former Democrat running on the Human Rights Party ticket, has criticized practically every Supreme Court candidate for something or another.

Moody has raised about $80,000 and Lindemer about $90,000, both pitching it into radio and television adver-

Debate Set Saved For Posterity

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — A Michigan furniture company will buy the set used for the presidential debates and donate it to the Smithsonian Institution, it was revealed today.

The League of Women Voters' Education Fund announced here that Herman Miller Inc. of Zeeland, Mich., has agreed to pay the league $1,000 to make sure the setting of the debates will be preserved for posterity.

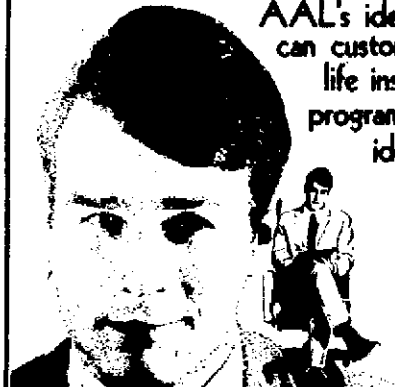

The set also was used for this country's first televised debate between vice presidential candidates.

"We are delighted that people from the United States and other countries will have the opportunity to view a setting where history was made," said Ruth C. Clusen, chairman of the education fund which sponsored the four debates, paying for the arrangements.

The Miller company is a 70-year-old furniture design firm with showrooms in the U. S. and abroad. It is perhaps best known for creating the famous "Eames" chair.

Congress Rematch Races Appear Close

By PIET BENNETT
Associated Press Writer

Rematches of races which went down to the wire two years ago provide two of the three tightest Congressional struggles in Michigan this fall. The third is a Republican bid to reclaim President Ford's old House seat.

When all the votes were counted in 1972, Democrat Bob Carr had edged Republican Cliff Taylor by 647 votes in the 6th District, which runs south and east from Lansing. The same pair of 33-year-old lawyers are locked in a similar struggle this time and the outcome could be equally close.

Republican Phillip Ruppe survived the challenge from Democrat Francis Brouillette by exactly 3,500 votes two years ago. The same pair are going at one another again in the sprawling 11th District, Michigan's northernmost.

Democrat Richard VanderVeen won a special election to succeed Ford 32 months ago. Then, he nearly doubled his margin that November. This time, VanderVeen faces a renewed threat from a third Republican challenger, Harold Sawyer, Kent County's prosecutor and an admitted millionaire.

All three races seem likely to be close ones. But history would seem to favor the incumbents. Only twice in the past decade have incumbent Congressmen been denied their re-election bids in Michigan.

Yet history also shows change can come quickly in Michigan Congressional politics. In 1970, Republicans took 12 of the state's 19 House seats. Four years later, the tally was reversed.

Whatever happens in the voting Nov. 2, Michigan will have at least four new faces in its Congressional delegation.

Bids for the U.S. Senate removed Republican Marvin Esch in the 2nd District plus Democrats Donald Riegle in the 7th and James O'Hara in the 12th. Meanwhile, Republican Edward Hutchinson is retiring from the 4th District seat he held 14 years.

Both parties are bidding aggressively for Esch's old seat. Republican state Sen. Carl Pursell of Plymouth claimed he was closing fast upon Dr. Edward Pierce, a former Ann Arbor councilman, in the latest pre-election polls. Pierce is the only Democratic Congressional nominee in the state lacking formal backing of the Michigan AFL-CIO.

Another close contest is expected in O'Hara's normally solid Democratic district in the northeastern Detroit suburbs. One poll showed former state Rep. David Serotki, the Republican, leading Democratic state Rep. David Benior.

Meanwhile, Republican Robin Widery's own polls show him far behind Democratic state Sen. Dale Kildee in the struggles for Riegle's seat in the Flint area.

Hutchinson's old seat, in the district stretching almost across the entire bottom of the state, seems certain to remain in Republican hands. Dave Stockman, 29, a former GOP aide in Washington, shows a wide margin in the polls over Democrat Richard Daughtery of Dowagiac. Stockman also reported collecting nearly $140,000 for the campaign compared with about $20,000 netted by the Democrat.

Four other incumbents — Democrats Robert Traxler and William Brodhead plus Republicans Garry Brown and Elford Cederberg — could be in jeopardy.

Traxler broke a years-long GOP hold upon the 8th District in a special election two years ago and then won re-election that fall. But E. Brady Denton, Saginaw County's young prosecutor, is offering a stiff challenge.

Brodhead, another Congressional freshman, is opposed by Republican James Burdick, an assistant state attorney general, in a 17th District race on the outskirts of Detroit. Some Democratic leaders are labeling this contest one of their party's major uncertainties.

Brown is pitted against state Rep. Howard Wolpe in the staunchly Republican 3rd District.

Deadbeat Dad Hunt Goes Well In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fathers who leave home and avoid paying support to their families on welfare are being tracked down by a new federal program which the government says is having surprising success.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare says that it has collected $280 million in child support payments during the first year of its crackdown on runaway fathers. HEW said the program cost $134 million to run in the first year, for a net gain of $146 million. Officials said they expected the program to only break even in the first year. States participating in the crackdown estimate they will collect $400 million in the new fiscal year which began Oct. 1.

"The hard work of thousands of state and county workers and law enforcement officials has demonstrated that child support enforcement is cost effective and a sound management practice," said Robert Fulton, administrator of HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service.

Of the 3.4 million families receiving federal welfare assistance, the government estimates that 2.8 million have an absent parent who could contribute some earnings to the care of their children.

The government hopes to boost child-support collections to $1 billion by 1980. The program also requires welfare mothers in most cases to help establish the paternity of children born out of wedlock if the mother is to continue receiving welfare payments for herself. Between April 1 and June 30, the department said, the 10 states reporting the highest collections were Michigan, Ohio, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Washington, California, Minnesota, Maryland and Illinois.

Amelia Earhart Film Focuses On Private Life

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An oddly flawed show, "Amelia Earhart," is on NBC tonight. It stars Susan Clark as America's most famous aviatrix and a leading women's lib advocate of her era.

Miss Earhart mysteriously vanished in the Pacific in July 1937 while on a round-the-world flight with navigator Fred Noonan. There later were reports, denied by the Navy, she was spying on Japanese-held islands for the U.S. at the time.

Don't expect any of that tonight. It's not mentioned and the highly dramatic moments of her last flight don't come up until almost the end of the three-hour program.

The focus isn't primarily on her flying exploits or her mysterious disappearance. It instead concerns her personal life, views and woe as a troubled celebrity who reluctantly married George Putnam (John Forsythe), a rich New York publisher who backed her aviation cause with much gusto, relentless publicity and merchandising skill.

Now, the show's flying sequences, staged by Frank Tallman, are just great, whether involving her student days in an old Jenny biplane or as a veteran flying a twin-engine Lockheed Electra.

And Miss Clark does a superb job as the at-times shy, fiercely independent fier folk called "Lady Lindy" because of her supposed resemblance to aviation hero Charles A. Lindbergh.

But even though the script by Carol Sobieski indicates an admirable aim — make the lady a real human, not a stereotype — the show just doesn't come off dramatically. It moves too slowly.

And it has some of the most mawkish dialogue this side of "True Confession," starting with a young beau sadly says, "You're never going to marry me," and she sadly replies, "But I'm going to love you forever."

The mawk thickens when she confides to her married sister that Putnam has been bugging her about marriage, then sighs, "Sometimes I feel the only thing I need from a man is a baby."

It peaks when Miss Earhart, at the peak of her fame, temporarily splits from hubby Putnam to gather her thoughts and lecture to women at Purdue University.

He unexpectedly shows up. Surprised, she gently delivers the classic line so often used by the formerly married when they unexpectedly meet their former mates: "You're looking well."

After this, the show has no place to go but up. And it does, providing a subdued, but effective, feeling of approaching doom amid preparations for what becomes her last flight.

Alas, it strikes me as coming way too late.

If you intend to watch the show anyway, keep an eye out for Susan Oliver, excellent as Amelia's first flying teacher, and David Barth. He almost steals the show in its closing moments as a Coast Guard radioman who proves her last link with this world.

Four Blacks Die In Rioting

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police gunfire has killed four more blacks and wounded more than 50 in three clashes in the black Soweto township eight miles south of Johannesburg, according to authorities.

This raised the total reported casualties in black protests against the white minority government to 344 persons killed and more than 2,000 injured since June. Most of the casualties have been black.

'HE MARCHED TO HIS OWN TUNE'

MacArthur Role Dream Part For Peck

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The resemblance is uncanny: the same straight hair swept sideways, the same old-soldier earnestness, the same air of total authority.

Visitors to Stage 29 at Universal Studio could not help staring at Gregory Peck. His resemblance to Gen. Douglas MacArthur was remarkable, yet it was accomplished only with a razor and comb. The hairline was shaved back, a bald spot created at the back of the head, and the hair was combed over in MacArthur's style.

"I'm not trying to do an impersonation," explained the star of "MacArthur," a film to be released early next year. "It seems to me that would become wearing after two hours on the screen. I decided to try for some superficial resemblances and then try to get into his shoes and think as he thought."

Peck, 60, was performing a key scene in the Zanuck-Brown production tracing MacArthur's life in his last two wars and thereafter. The victorious general was having his first meeting in Tokyo with Emperor Hirohito, played by John Fukuoka.

"Americans don't play the role of conquerors; they think of themselves as liberators," MacArthur tells the emperor. The meeting is polite, but the general speculates on how Hirohito was able to use his influence to end the war, but not to prevent it.

Director Joseph Sargent had the actors repeat the scene many times, photographing from several angles. Each time Peck was letter-perfect in his lengthy dialogue.

Afterward he said: "I'm having a wonderful time; I look forward to coming to work every day. MacArthur is an actor's dream, a character of great dimension. He could be aloof and distant, yet the emotions were seething underneath. "He hated seeing his 'boys,' as he called them, killed in battle. The sight of 200 dead Marines made him physically ill. He could be tender and compassionate, yet there were other times when he seemed on the edge of paranoia. He was a brilliant tactician and an awesome, inspiring commander."

"He marched to his own tune. That's what makes him such a great character to play."

Peck added that he had no compulsive urge to play MacArthur. When the project was first announced four years ago, he assumed George C. Scott would star, since Scott had appeared in "Patton" for the same production team. But Scott declined to repeat as a World War II commander.

"I don't know whether I was fourth, fifth or sixth on the list of actors being considered."

said Peck, whose career is booming because of the current box-office smash, "The Omen." "It doesn't really matter. I got one of my most successful films, "12 O'Clock High," because Duke Wayne turned it down.

"On the other hand, I turned down 'High Noon' like a damn fool. (Gary Cooper won an Oscar for it.) I had just made 'The Gunfighter,' and I figured I should not repeat in the same kind of picture. That was before I learned that the audience, if they like an actor, want to see him in the same role. That's why Bogart, Tracy, Gable and Cooper lasted so long."

After being cast in "MacArthur," the actor plunged into research, reading all the literature about the general and studying hours of film at home.

"There are certain characteristics which I use — the putting chin, his habit of putting hands in his hip pockets, his way of walking. He had a stately stroll, swinging his arms almost like a British soldier. He never hurried. Once he remarked: 'The Japanese hasn't been born who could make me hurry."

The climax of the film is the clash between MacArthur and President Truman, who relieved him of duty.

"I'll make my case, and Truman (actor Ed Flanders) makes his," Peck remarked. "Like so many liberals, I always believed that Truman was right. Now I'm not so sure. We make no decision in the film."

Rally On Alcohol Problems

NILES — A Michigan Council on Alcohol Problems (MICAP) rally will be held Saturday, Oct. 30, at 7:30 p.m. at the Grace United Methodist church, 501 Grant street, Niles, according to Allen B. Rice II, Lansing, the executive director of MICAP.

Information about the meeting mailed to many people incorrectly listed the location of the Grace United Methodist church as Berrien Springs. Rice said the rally, which is open to the public, will be to give a first-hand idea of the new projects being considered by MICAP and to ask for help in planning the MICAP program for the coming year.

The meeting, one of a number of MICAP rallies statewide, will last about an hour and refreshments will be served afterwards.

Cuban Jet Wreckage Discovered

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (AP) — A British navy frigate using sonar equipment has located the wreckage of the Cuban airliner that crashed in the Caribbean off Barbados after a bomb apparently exploded aboard it.

A government official said Sunday that the main body of the DC8 jet was found under 1,300 feet of water 4.8 miles off from Barbados.

None of the 73 persons aboard the plane survived the crash on Oct. 6.

Location of the wreckage may be a factor in determining who should try two Venezuelans arrested in Trinidad and accused of placing bombs aboard the plane.

Cowboys Lose Staubach In 31-21 Win

Dallas Holds Off Bears

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Dallas Cowboys survived a scare and lost a quarterback, albeit temporarily, against the Chicago Bears.

Roger Staubach, the Cowboys' durable star, went out of action in the third period Sunday with a fractured little finger on his passing hand when he was hit by Bear linebacker Mike Hartensteine. Danny White, a refugee from the World Football League, replaced him and promptly hit Preston Pearson with a 15-yard touchdown pass for a 24-7 Dallas lead.

Even without Staubach, Coach Tom Landry figured the situation was well in hand. But it wasn't.

"This was an incredible game," said Landry after

Dallas eventually won 31-21. "How we ever got in jeopardy of losing I'll never know."

Elsewhere in the NFL, Minnesota remained undefeated with a 31-12 victory over Philadelphia. Cincinnati whipped Houston 27-7. Miami edged Tampa Bay 20-10. Baltimore blanked the New York Jets 20-0. Pittsburgh shut out the New York Giants 27-0. Oakland held off Green Bay 18-14. New England beat Buffalo 26-22. Denver topped Kansas City 35-26. Cleveland downed San Diego 21-17. Los Angeles got by New Orleans 18-10 and Detroit mauled Seattle 41-14.

San Francisco dumped Atlanta 15-0 in a Saturday night contest. St. Louis visits Washington tonight.

Staubach, enjoying his finest year, suffered a fracture in the small finger of his right hand in Sunday's costly 31-21 victory over Chicago.

"We'll have to wait and take a closer look," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landry. "The doctor said he had a chip in the knuckle of his passing hand and I don't know how long it takes a chip to mend."

"Maybe he'll be ready for Washington and then again it might be two weeks."

Staubach, who passed for one touchdown and ran for another, said "I'll be playing against the Redskins. This won't stop me."

Landry couldn't even enjoy Dallas' 6-1 record which gave the Cowboys a half-game lead in the National Conference Eastern Division. St. Louis plays Washington tonight.

Danny White, the cool-headed refugee from the World Football League, completed two touchdown passes to Preston Pearson, but also suffered two interceptions.

"With only Danny at quarterback, we could face the possibility of checking into the market," said Landry. "(Safety) Charlie Waters (a former quarterback at Clemson) can take the snap but that's about all. White's cadence also hurt us as much as it did the Bears. He has a different rhythm and it was confusing to both sides."

Chicago lost ace running back Walter Payton with a sprained ankle and defensive end Roger Staubach with a knee injury. Payton was held to only 42 yards rushing before he departed.

Dear Coach Jack Pardee said "Payton I think will be all right. He just got a bad sprain, but should be okay for next week."

Dallas was leading 17-7 when Staubach departed after being tackled by linebacker Mike Hartenstein. Staubach had rolled out four yards for one touchdown and passed four yards to Drew Pearson for another score.

Chicago linebacker Ross Brubaker got the Bears back in the game when he intercepted a White pass and returned it 25 yards before lateralizing to Hartensteine who went the final 12 yards for a touchdown. Then Virgil Livers ran back a punt 51 yards to set up Johnny Musso's two-yard TD run and it was 24-21.

Not to worry. White came back with a 54-yard toss to Golden Richards to set up the final Dallas score, a six-yard White-to-Pearson pass, and Dallas had its sixth victory in seven games.

Fran Tarkenton brought Minnesota from behind with a 35-yard touchdown pass to rookie Sammie White in the third quarter and Chuck Foreman added TD runs of 32 and two yards as the Vikes raised their record to 5-0-1. Tarkenton hit on 23 of 33 tosses for 249 yards to become the second man in NFL history to pass the 40,000-yard mark in passing yardage. He needs 91 yards to top all-time leader John Unitas. Foreman wound up with 28 carries for 200 yards — a club record.

Ken Anderson and John Reaves threw one TD pass apiece as Cincinnati took sole possession of first place in the American Conference Central Division. The Bengal defense held Houston to just 28 yards rushing and sacked Oiler quarterback Dan Pastorini six times.

Miami needed a 29-yard field goal by Garo Yepremian with 55 seconds left to edge cross-state rival Tampa Bay. The Dolphins built a 20-7 lead on short TD runs by Bennie Malone and Don Nottingham before ailing quarterback Steve Spurrier came off the bench in the second half to throw a pair of TD passes to Morris Owens for the Bucs.

Bert Jones hooked up with wide receiver Roger Carr on touchdown pass plays of 79 and 41 yards and Toni Linhart kicked a pair of field goals for Baltimore. Carr hauled in five passes in the game for 210 yards. The Jets' Clark Gathes collected 102 yards on 12 carries.

Franco Harris carried 27 times for 106 yards and two touchdowns and the Pittsburgh defense turned in its first shutout in its last 20 games against the winless Giants, off to the worst start in their 52-year history. The Steelers outgained New York on the ground 230-88 yards, including 106 by Harris.

Ken Stabler threw three touchdown passes in the second quarter — including an 88-yard pass-and-run connection with Cliff Branch — and the Raiders held on to win. The first two Oakland extra points were blocked and the third was wide. Each club was penalized 13 times, the Packers for 151 yards and the Raiders 119.

Steve Grogan threw for one touchdown and ran for another as New England built a 26-9 third-period lead and then held on. The Bills, with Gary Marangi replacing the injured Joe Ferguson at quarterback, rallied behind a pair of O. J. Simpson touchdown runs but came up short. Ferguson suffered a back injury in the second quarter and may be lost for the season. Sam Cunningham gained 118 yards for the Pats and Simpson had 110 for the Bills.

Quarterback Steve Ramsey tossed a pair of touchdown passes as Denver outlasted Kansas City in a wild offensive game in which the teams combined for 53 first downs. Otis Armstrong gained 101 yards for Denver and the Bronco defense stiffened long enough to stop two Chief drives on the one-yard line.

Brian Sipe threw for two touchdowns, including the go-ahead score on a 10-yarder to Oscar Roan in the fourth quarter, as the surprising Browns won their third straight. Sipe hit on 23 of 28 tosses for 246 yards and Larry Poole, replacing injured Greg Pruitt, who hurt his ankle late in the second quarter, gained 64 yards on 16 carries.

Pat Haden came off the bench to fire a 40-yard fourth-quarter touchdown pass to Harold Jackson, lifting Los Angeles over scrappy New Orleans. The Saints lost five fumbles and the Rams lost three in the sloppy game. Haden replaced Ron Jaworski who hit three of 11 passes for just 15 yards and threw two interceptions.

Rare Penalty Goal Helps Hawks Win

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It was a strange, weird feeling being out there all alone," said Cliff Koroll, after scoring on a rare penalty shot and helping the Chicago Black Hawks to a 7-2 victory over the St. Louis Blues in a National Hockey League game.

Referee Bruce Hood called the penalty shot against Chuck Leifley, who tripped Koroll as he was going in for a shot on St. Louis goalie Ed Johnston Sunday night.

"It was a lousy call," said Blues Coach Emile Francis. "Koroll didn't even have possession of the puck."

"Not only did I have it, but I even got a shot off as I was going down," said Koroll. "That's the first one in my life. I asked Bobby Orr where Johnston's weakness was and he told me, 'Put it in the net.'"

In other NHL games, Buffalo edged Washington 2-1. Vancouver nipped the New York Rangers 5-4. Pittsburgh and Atlanta tied 3-3, and Rick MacLeish scored three goals, leading Philadelphia over Colorado 5-3.

Johnston remained in the crease as Koroll came straight at him without faking and shot the puck under the goalie's stick hand and into the lower corner of the net.

"I shut my eyes, shot and it went in," said Koroll. "Honestly, I was rubbery-legged out there."

It was the first penalty shot goal scored by the Black Hawks since 1941 when Joe Cooper did it against Montreal.

Last season, there were 11 penalty shots awarded in the NHL, but only one was successful — by Bob Nevin of Los Angeles, and that was against the Black Hawks and Tony Esposito.

Orr, returning to action after missing three games, all of which the Hawks lost, scored 20 seconds into the game and Koroll made it 2-0 at 8:31 of the first period.

Five minutes later, Koroll scored on his penalty shot and St. Louis never recovered.

Jim Lorentz and Fred Stanfield scored as Buffalo extended its unbeaten streak against Washington to 11 games.

Ron Sedlbauer, Chris Oddleifson, Dennis Ververgaert, Garry Monahan and Rick Blight scored for Vancouver, while veteran goalie Cesare Maniago recorded his first victory of the season after four losses.

Phil Esposito had two goals for New York, which was frustrated by fans at Madison Square Garden as the Rangers lost for the fourth time in five games.

Curt Bennett's goal with 37 seconds to play, after goalie Phil Myre was removed, giving Atlanta an extra attacker, gave the Flames the tie. It was Bennett's sixth goal of the season and climaxed a comeback that began with Pittsburgh leading 2-0.

"I was hearing all summer that I wouldn't be able to come back," said MacLeish, who had knee surgery last February and missed the rest of the season.

The three goals gave MacLeish, who scored 50 two seasons ago, five in his last six games. It was the seventh time he has scored three goals in an NHL game.

Picks Off Six Seattle Passes In Win

SEATTLE (AP) — One of his worst fears, Seattle Coach Jack Patera has said, is to see his young Seahawks live or die by the pass each week.

On Sunday six interceptions killed them.

Five Detroit players got ahold of errant Jim Zorn passes in the Lions' 41-14 National Football League victory over the Seahawks before a Kingdome crowd of 81,280. Defensive backs Levi Johnson and Lem Barney, stalwarts of the Lions' league-leading pass defense, returned Zorn passes 70 and 24 yards, respectively, for scores. Johnson also had an earlier interception, which he returned 23 yards to the Seattle

Charlie West and James Hunter each intercepted Zorn, Seattle's scrambling first-year quarterback, for touchdowns, and Charlie Weaver picked off another pass at the Detroit 17 late in the game.

"To prepare for Seattle, you have to be ready for all types of passes," said Detroit Coach Tommy Hudspeth, who picked up his second victory in three weeks since taking over from Rick Forzano.

"We have some real heady secondary people and they recognize the situation and get themselves in the right position.

Their alertness is a real asset," Hudspeth continued. "Zorn's the quickest quarterback we've faced this year. To contain him, you must put a lot of pressure on him."

Zorn, whose 200 pass attempts entering the game was more than any other quarterback had thrown in the NFL this season, finished with 18 completions in 37 attempts for 249 yards.

Patera, who said before the game he wanted to establish the running game to set up the pass, acknowledged that he was "pleased by the way we moved the ball, but when they can pick off two for touchdowns that's not a very good sign."

"Their defensive backs are very good athletes and Jim tried to force it a couple of times when he shouldn't have."

Seattle never did get its ground game untracked. Only 97 of the Seahawks' 339 total yards came by rushing.

The Lions' defensive performance overshadowed the passing of veteran quarterback Greg Landry, who completed 18 of 27 passes for 233 yards and three touchdowns.

He hit Dave Hill with a 20-yard scoring pass following Johnson's first interception to give Detroit a 13-0 first period lead. Earlier in the quarter, Benny Richardson booted field goals of 25 and 44 yards.

Landry threw third period TD passes of eight yards to Charlie Sanders and nine yards to Lawrence Gaines for a 34-14 Detroit lead. Seattle's two scores came in the second period on runs of two and nine yards by Ralph McKinnis, which cut the Lions' lead to 20-14 at halftime.

"Somebody forgot to tell them they're an expansion team," said Hudspeth of the Seahawks, who dropped to 1-4. "I'd hate to play them every week. They really put the pressure on us."

The victory boosted the Lions to 3-4 and was their first victory on the road this season.

Dallas Holds Off Bears

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Dallas Cowboys survived a scare and lost a quarterback, albeit temporarily, against the Chicago Bears.

Roger Staubach, the Cowboys' durable star, went out of action in the third period Sunday with a fractured little finger on his passing hand when he was hit by Bear linebacker Mike Hartensteine. Danny White, a refugee from the World Football League, replaced him and promptly hit Preston Pearson with a 15-yard touchdown pass for a 24-7 Dallas lead.

Even without Staubach, Coach Tom Landry figured the situation was well in hand. But it wasn't.

"This was an incredible game," said Landry after

Dallas eventually won 31-21. "How we ever got in jeopardy of losing I'll never know."

Elsewhere in the NFL, Minnesota remained undefeated with a 31-12 victory over Philadelphia.

Cincinnati whipped Houston 27-7, Miami edged Tampa Bay 23-20, Baltimore blanked the New York Jets 20-0, Pittsburgh shut out the New York Giants 27-0, Oakland held off Green Bay 18-14, New England beat Buffalo 26-22, Denver topped Kansas City 35-26, Cleveland downed San Diego 21-17, Los Angeles got by New Orleans 16-10 and Detroit mauled Seattle 41-14.

San Francisco dumped Atlanta 15-0 in a Saturday night contest. St. Louis visits Washington tonight.

The little pinky on Roger Staubach's passing hand was a giant question mark today in the path of the Dallas Cowboy's bid to return to the Super Bowl.

Staubach, enjoying his finest year, suffered a fracture in the small finger of his right hand in Sunday's costly 31-21 victory over Chicago.

"We'll have to wait and take a closer look," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landry. "The doctor said he had a chip in the knuckle of his passing hand and I don't know how long it takes a chip to mend."

"Maybe he'll be ready for Washington and then again it might be two weeks."

Staubach, who passed for one touchdown and ran for another, said "I'll be playing against the Redskins. This won't stop me."

Landry couldn't even enjoy Dallas' 6-1 record which gave the Cowboys a half-game lead in the National Conference Eastern Division. St. Louis plays Washington tonight.

Danny White, the cool-headed refugee from the World Football League, completed two touchdown passes to Preston Pearson, but also suffered two interceptions.

"With only Danny at quarterback, we could face the possibility of checking into the market," said Landry. "(Safety) Charlie Waters (a former quarterback at Clemson) can take the snap but that's about all. White's cadence also hurt us as much as it did the Bears. He has a different rhythm and it was confusing to both sides."

Chicago lost ace running back Walter Payton with a sprained ankle and defensive end Roger Stillwell with a knee injury. Payton was held to only 42 yards rushing before he departed.

Bear Coach Jack Pardee said "Payton I think will be all right. He just got a bad sprain, but should be okay for next week."

Dallas was leading 17-7 when Staubach departed after being tackled by linebacker Mike Hartenstein. Staubach had rolled out four yards for one touchdown and passed four yards to Drew Pearson for another score.

Chicago linebacker Ross Brubacher got the Bears back in the game when he intercepted a White pass and returned it 25 yards before lateraling to Hartensteine who went the final 12 yards for a touchdown. Then Virgil Livers ran back a punt 51 yards to set up Johnny Musso's two-yard TD run and it was 24-21.

Not to worry. White came back with a 54-yard toss to Golden Richards to set up the final Dallas score, a six-yard White-to-Pearson pass, and Dallas had its sixth victory in seven games.

Fran Tarkenton brought Minnesota from behind with a 35-yard touchdown pass to rookie Sammie White in the third quarter and Chuck Foreman added TD runs of 32 and two yards as the Vikes raised their record to 5-0-1. Tarkenton hit on 23 of 33 tosses for 249 yards to become the second man in NFL history to pass the 40,000-yard mark in passing yardage. He needs 91 yards to top all-time leader John Unitas. Franco Harris carried 27 times for 106 yards and two touchdowns and the Pittsburgh defense turned in its first shutout in its last 20 games against the winless Giants, off to the worst start in their 52-year history. The Steelers outgained New York on the ground 230-88 yards, including 106 by Harris.

Did U Of M Take Revenge For Basketball Defeats?

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Absolutely false, says Michigan football Coach Bo Schembechler, quashing for good the rumors that the Wolverines took revenge on Indiana for the three losses to the Hoosiers in basketball last season.

"I felt there was no connection between the two at all," laughed Schembechler following the top-ranked Wolverines' 35-0 romp over Indiana on Saturday. "We were just out there to play hard and win."

It was after Indiana beat

Michigan 86-68 for the NCAA basketball championship last spring that President Ford, a Michigan football alumnus, jokingly asked Hoosier basketball Coach Bobby Knight to let the Wolverines win at least once this year.

Knight, joking back to the President, reportedly said, "We'll let you have football."

But on Saturday, the Hoosiers didn't have to let Michigan take anything. The Wolverines just helped themselves.

Tailback Rob Lytle rushed for 175 yards and one touchdown and sophomore quarterback Rick Leach ran for 52 yards and connected on all four of his pass attempts for 103 yards and two touchdowns.

"We played it with no mistakes in the first half — three possessions, three touchdowns," Schembechler said. "We did what we had to do and I was pleased with that."

The Wolverine defense held Indiana to 123 yards rushing and allowed the Hoosiers past midfield only once in the game. "They were very good, and they are beautifully coached," said Indiana Coach Lee Corso. "Everything we did, and then when we changed, they picked everything up. That's what you expect from the best team in the country."

"Bo came to me before the game and told me Michigan was prepared to play today," Corso said. "That's progress for us, because they used to be able to come in here, just tee it up, and off they went. We're moving forward. Usually before, they'd make one play, then it would look like an avalanche."

Indiana's top rusher for the season, freshman tailback Mike Harkrader, was held to just 65 yards against Michigan after totaling 370 yards in the previous two games.

Sophomore quarterback Scott Arnett hit just five of 14 pass attempts for 63 yards and had two intercepted.

"I thought our defense contained them very well," Schembechler said. "But look how many plays we ran (75) and how many they ran (54) — that's the best defense."

"I think you're going to find that the young kid (Arnett) is going to be a good quarterback," Schembechler added. "And the tailback (Harkrader) is a good kid."

The Wolverines, 4-0 in the Big Ten and 7-0 overall, are at home against Minnesota Saturday, while Indiana, 2-2 and 3-4, entertains powerful Ohio State.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Quarterback Ed Smith continued his assault on the Michigan State season passing record, throwing for 111 yards and two touchdowns as the Spartans defeated Illinois for their first Big Ten win of the year.

"Smith is an exceptional passer," Coach Bob Blackman said after his Illini absorbed a 31-23 loss Saturday. "A lot of our guys did great jobs on pass defense. He just didn't throw many bad passes."

Smith upped his season yardage to 1,012, tops in the conference, closing in on the record of 1,344 yards set in 1970 by Mike Rasmussen. He also has eight touchdown passes and an excellent backup in Marshall Lawson.

The slender senior came in late in the third quarter when Smith suffered a minor shoulder injury with Illinois still ahead 23-21.

"Whenever a young man goes down, it gives another the opportunity to be a hero," noted Spartan Coach Darryl Rogers after Lawson passed for 112 yards and tailback Rich Baes ran across his second and clinching touchdown.

All Big Ten tight end Mike Cobb was back in the Spartan lineup after his NCAA suspension and caught four passes for 54 yards.

The Spartans outgained the Illini 403 to 304 yards total offense, but set up two Illinois touchdowns and one of place-kicker Dan Beaver's three field goals with costly mistakes in their own territory.

Despite a 10-mile-per-hour wind and a cold, steady rain the game opened as a frenzied offensive duel, with Illinois taking a 13-7 first-quarter lead on a Chubby Phillips touchdown and a pair of Beaver field goals.

Michigan State led 21-20 at the half but Beaver's third field goal put Illinois back in the lead midway in the third quarter.

Spartan kicker Hans Nielsen countered with a 27-yard field goal that gave Michigan State the final go-ahead.

The Spartans are now 2-4-1 over-all and 1-3 in the Big Ten with a game against Purdue next week.

Illinois is 3-4 for the season and 2-2 in conference and will host Wisconsin next Saturday at the Illini homecoming.

Blackman had several things to be happy with despite the loss. Linebacker Scott Studwell had nine solo tackles and 12 assists, giving him a career total of 278, second in school history only to Dick Butkus with 374.

Beaver had eight points for the afternoon, breaking a month-long scoring slump and giving him a career total of 171, 15 behind Red Grange with 186. Phillips, now recovered from a neck injury, gained 127 yards.

on 23 carries and ran back to kickoffs for a total of 100 yards. And James Coleman, the Illinois leading groundgainer in Phillips' absence, carried the ball only seven times Saturday but broke loose on a 47-yard touchdown run, longest for Illinois of the season.

Big Ten Grid Race Taking Familiar Form

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler was not only pleased with his team's performance in a 35-0 victory over Indiana Saturday but said "It remains to be seen if this is a super team. We've been better than the seven teams we've played but each game now is going to get tougher."

"We played well," said Schembechler, "I told the squad we would not go into this game like we did at Northwestern — flat."

Indiana Coach Lee Corso was thoroughly convinced of Michigan's No. 1 ranking.

"If we played them next week, they'd beat us the same way," said Corso. "They were very good and they are beautifully coached."

Ohio State defeated Purdue 24-3 and with Minnesota losing to Iowa 22-12, the Big Ten race began to take familiar form with Michigan and Ohio State all alone in a tie for first place.

Michigan State dumped

Illinois 31-23 and Wisconsin roared back in the final minute to pull out a 28-25 victory over winless Northwestern.

Iowa's comeback victory after Minnesota had led 12-0 at the half spoiled the buildup for Minnesota's invasion of Michigan in the battle for the Little Brown Jug.

"They beat us in every way," said Minnesota Coach Cal Stoll. "You never know about this game. We became physically and emotionally bankrupt at the same time."

Coach Woody Hayes lost quarterback Rod Gerald for the season with cracked vertebrae but Jim Pacentia took over and guided the Buckeyes to a hard-earned victory.

Twice in the third quarter Purdue recovered fumbles deep in Ohio State territory but all the Boilermakers could come up with was a game-tying field goal before Ohio State hit for three touchdowns.

"By far our best defense of the year," said Hayes. "We gave them the ball twice down there and twice we stopped them without a first down."

Purdue Coach Alex Agase conceded his team had its chances. "We forced the breaks and got the ball on their 19 and their 11. Down there you got to get seven."

Michigan State lost quarterback Ed Smith because of an injury after he had passed for 111 yards and two touchdowns and Marshall Lawson replaced him and passed for another 112 yards.

"Whenever a young man goes down, it gives another the opportunity to be a hero," said Spartan Coach Darryl Rogers.

Northwestern appeared ready to break its losing streak when the Wildcats took a 25-21 lead on a touchdown by Jim Whims with 1:58 left to play. But Wisconsin roared back with Mike Carroll completing five straight passes to set up Larry Canada's third touchdown of the game with 12 seconds remaining.

BH Remains Undeclared In LMAC

Benton Harbor won its seventh LMAC game of the season without a loss Saturday as the Tigers swamped Traverse City 54-33 at home. Sandra Dudley led the league-leading Tigers with 19 points, a season high. Dorothy Logan added 10 and Sheryl Finley nine.

Judy Sheffer had 11 points to lead the Trojans.

The Tigers had trouble getting started, only holding a 9-8 lead at the end of the first quarter and an 18-14 lead at halftime. But they shot better in the third quarter and went out of a 37-23 and were never headed.

Dudley also pulled down 26 rebounds to lead her team in that category. Robin Walker added 21 caroms.

Cavs Happy West On Bench For LA

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Jerry West was on the Los Angeles bench, coaching the Lakers, which made Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch very happy.

"If they had Jerry West playing instead of coaching, we would have lost this ball game," Fitch said after his Cavaliers beat the Lakers 100-95 in a National Basketball Association game Sunday night.

In Sunday's other NBA games, Atlanta defeated Milwaukee, 115-91 and Seattle topped the New York Nets 104-93.

Amateur Boxing

An amateur boxing program will get underway at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 26, at 367 Territorial in Benton Harbor.

Napoleon Lark and Wilhe Campbell will serve as trainers. There is no age limitation, but boxers under 10 are being asked to have parent permission to participate.

"We weren't really ready to play and I think that was indicated by the fact that we were outbounded so badly in the first half," West said. "We had our chances but key turnovers and key fouls hurt us."

Jim Brewer grabbed 19 rebounds, high for the game, and added 11 points for Cleveland. Campy Russell had 16 points and Bobby Smith 15 in the balanced Cavaliers' attack.

The Cavs held a 13-point lead midway through the third quarter before the Lakers started their drive, closing to within three points with one minute left in the game. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers' comeback bid with 13 points in the fourth quarter and 29 for the game.

Steve Hawes scored 19 points, John Drew and Lou Hudson each had 17 and Ken Charles tallied 15 as Atlanta clobbered Milwaukee for its first victory of the young season.

"It was fun out there tonight," Hawes said. "Everybody did what they were supposed to. It was a lot different from last Thursday night" when Atlanta opened with the season with a loss.

Playing before a record home crowd of 14,098, Seattle outscored the Nets 28-11 in a 9½-minute period spanning the third and fourth periods to break open a close game and ease to victory in their season opener.

Bruce Seals and Mike Green paced the Sonics' scoring attack with 15 points each. High for the Nets, who lost their second straight after a season-opening victory, was John Williamson with 21 points.

Cavs Happy West On Bench For LA

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jerry West was on the Los Angeles bench, coaching the Lakers, which made Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch very happy.

"If they had Jerry West playing instead of coaching, we would have lost this ball game," Fitch said after his Cavaliers beat the Lakers 100-95 in a National Basketball Association game Sunday night.

In Sunday's other NBA games, Atlanta defeated Milwaukee, 115-91 and Seattle topped the New York Nets 104-93.

Amateur Boxing

An amateur boxing program will get underway at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 26, at 367 Territorial in Benton Harbor.

Napoleon Lark and Willie Campbell will serve as trainers. There is no age limitation, but boxers under 10 are being asked to have parent permission to participate.

"We weren't really ready to play and I think that was indicated by the fact that we were outbounded so badly in the first half," West said. "We had our chances but key turnovers and key fouls hurt us."

Jim Brewer grabbed 19 rebounds, high for the game, and added 11 points for Cleveland. Campy Russell had 16 points and Bobby Smith 15 in the balanced Cavaliers' attack.

The Cavs held a 15-point lead midway through the third quarter before the Lakers started their drive, closing to within three points with one minute left in the game. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers' comeback bid with 13 points in the fourth quarter and 29 for the game.

Steve Hawes scored 19 points, John Drew and Lou Hudson each had 17 and Ken Charles tallied 15 as Atlanta clobbered Milwaukee for its first victory of the young season.

"It was fun out there tonight," Hawes said. "Everybody did what they were supposed to. It was a lot different from last Thursday night" when Atlanta opened with the season with a loss. Playing before a record home crowd of 14,098, Seattle outscored the Nets 28-11 in a 9½-minute period spanning the third and fourth periods to break open a close game and ease to victory in their season opener.

Bruce Seals and Mike Green paced the Sonics' scoring attack with 15 points each. High for the Nets, who lost their second straight after a season-opening victory, was John Williamson with 21 points.

meets...that the Panthers are the best in the league.

Tim Gentry of Lake Michigan Catholic won the race in a conference record time of 15:42. But Watervliet placed three men in the top 10 runners to win the conference run here Saturday with 38 points. Gentry's time broke the record of 15:53.1 set in 1973 by Hartford's Steve Bunn.

Coupled with the Panthers' perfect 5-0 record in dual meets, they easily outdistanced second place Lake Michigan Catholic, which tallied 68 points in the combined scoring of the league and dual meets.

Each team in the conference was given two points for a dual meet loss. Going into Saturday's run, Watervliet had no points. Catholic, Berrien Springs and Hartford had four points, Eau Claire had eight points and Galien tallied 10 points.

Third place in the overall standings went to the Shamrocks with 78 points. Hartford was fourth with 80. Eau Claire was fifth with 105 points and Galien was sixth, as it didn't have five runners finish the race.

Watervliet's top five were Tim Lynch (second), Chuck Brock (fourth), Mark Kappel (seventh), Joe Hagenbarth (11th) and Jim Brock (14th).

Gentry and Lynch battled for the lead throughout most of the race. Lynch led the first part, but was overtaken just past the two-mile mark by Gentry, who held on to win by seven seconds. Kevin Carmichael of Berrien Springs, Hartford's Dennis Frazier and Brock all hit the finish line at about the same time. Carmichael was given third, Brock fourth and Frazier fifth, but all three times were 16:09.

The rest of the top 15 finishers, who were given all-conference honors, were sixth Roger Daugherty (EC), seventh Kappel, eighth Brian Mohrhardt (BS), ninth Ernie Maddux (LMC), 10th Mark Manning (H), 11th Hagenbarth, 12th Nick Fullbright (BS), 13th Dan Gentry (LMC), 14th Brock and 15th Bryan Dohm (EC).

"Tim (Lynch) did an excellent job in running the course in under 16 minutes," commented Watervliet's coach Gene Bednarowski. "And Chuck was sick for a whole week. 'Jim Brock also improved a lot.'"

This makes the fourth team title Watervliet has won in the eight-year history of the meet.

Tom Lord of Watervliet won the junior varsity race, while Chris Tanner of Watervliet won the grade school race.

Fontaine Sparks Flags

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Center Len Fontaine accounted for half of Port Huron's scoring as the Flags came from behind to defeat the Muskegon Mohawks, 6-4, in International Hockey League action Sunday.

Mike McDougall accounted for two more Port Huron goals, while Bud Stefanski scored another. Two of Fontaine's goals came in the final period of the see-saw game.

The Flags came from behind to overcome 2-1 and 3-2 deficits. In other IHL games, Toledo edged Fort Wayne, 4-1, Columbus got by Dayton, 7-5, and Flint tied Saginaw, 5-5.

Fort Wayne's Dave Norris ruined Toledo's Pierre Chagnon shutout with a goal at 16:06 of the third period. Doug Mahood, Ian MacPhee, Dave Johnson and Brian McKenzie scored for the Goadiggers.

The victory was Toledo's third straight, leaving them 3-2 in the IHL South Division. The loss dropped Fort Wayne to 1-3.

Al Hillier and Tom Cassidy scored two goals apiece for Columbus, as the Owls registered a come-from-behind triumph over the slow-starting Gems.

The Owls battled back from a 4-1 deficit after the first period to improve their league South Division record to 2-0-1. The Gems, also in the South Division, now are 1-4-0.

Flint's Bob Hoffmeyer scored the tying goal against Saginaw with 36 seconds left in the game. Flint's Jeff McDill and Saginaw's Marcel Comeau each got two goals.

Late Touchdown Beats Titans Lawrence Nips Lutheran

Michigan Lutheran has obviously come out of the football woods this season.

The Titans rolled up school records in points scored and yardage gained (382) but a late touchdown by Lawrence gave the Tigers a 32-26 win over Lutheran at Lakeshore's field Saturday night.

The old record for points was set last week against Covert (16).

Lutheran had taken a 26-24

lead in the fourth quarter when quarterback Ross Rogien

carried the ball 18 yards for a touchdown. But on the next series, Jim Mason hit Kevin Triestram on a 46-yard scoring pass with less than two minutes left in the game for the victory.

Triestram led the Tigers, now 3-3 this season, with 87 yards rushing. He also caught two touchdown passes for a total of 120 yards.

Brett Morris had another fantastic game for the Titans, going over the 100-yard mark for second week in a row. Against Lawrence, he gained 165 yards on 15 carries and scored two touchdowns. Last week, he gained 164 yards against Covert.

Ken Kruck keyed the Titans' passing attack as he caught two aeriels for 70 yards, both of which set up touchdowns.

Lawrence took an 18-0 lead midway into the second quarter. Triestram and Jeff Queen both ran in scores from three and one yard out, respectively, while Mason hit Triestram with a 76-yard bomb for the third.

Pete Sando got the Titans their first score in the second quarter as he ran one in from six-yards out.

Lutheran was late coming out of the lockerroom after halftime and were given a 15-yard penalty. But it didn't hurt them any as on the first play from scrimmage, Morris rambled 75 yards for the only score of the third quarter.

It was in the fourth quarter where the fireworks went off, as there were four touchdowns scored in the last seven minutes of the game.

Triestram rambled in from three yards out but Morris answered that with a three-yard scoring run of his own. Rogien then went over from 18 yards out before Triestram caught the winning touchdown pass.

"The thing that pleased me was at one point we were down

18-0 and then came back to almost win in the fourth quarter," grinned Titans' coach Bob

Gruetzmacher. "The kids have lots of character and they stuck to it until the end.

"We got a little momentum going against Covert last week and it carried over to this week."

Lutheran is now 1-3 this

Boo Boo Beats Falcons Persell Gains 200 Yards In WMU Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "Somehow I got the information that it was third down. The coach lost it," mumbled Don Nehlen.

The Bowling Green football coach conceded it was a blunbun, his decision to run on fourth down at the Miami oneyard line. An almost certain field goal would have pulled out a 10-9 victory. Instead, Miami held with 20 seconds left, won its first game of the season 9-7 and knocked the Falcons from the Mid-American Conference lead Saturday.

Bowling Green slipped to 4-10 in the conference, tied for second with Ohio behind 2-0-1 Ball State.

In nonconference tests, Dayton kept Toledo winless 17-14. Ball State stopped a two-game over-all nosebleed by beating Appalachian State 20-7. Virginia Tech rolled over Kent State 42-14. Jerome Persell piled up 200 yards in Western Michigan's 31-7 verdict over Marshall, Division II national leader Northern Michigan crushed Central Michigan 41-13, William and Mary blanked Ohio University 20-0, Akron humiliated Eastern Michigan 38-0 and Southern Illinois crushed Northern Illinois 54-0 as Andre Herrera piled up 313 yards on the ground.

Nellen said of his surprise strategy: "I sent the kicking team on then I saw the yard marker was third down. So I sent in the offense to run."

"You know," he added, "if I knew it was fourth down we would have kicked the field goal. Everytime we play Miami there's something that happens."

Dick Crum, Miami's mentor, said, "I knew what down it was. I just had to have the courage to watch. What happened to them is the same kind of thing that has been bugging us all season.

"Will you look at this," said

Crum, surveying the final statistics, "every game this year

we've won the battle of the statistics and won the game."

After Bowling Green quarterback Mark Miller fumbled the snap from center on the controver-

sial play, Miami

linebacker Dave Hatgas joked:

"I think Nehlen is a bad play caller. The only reason I'm saying this is I don't have to play against him again."

Miami made nine first-quarter points stand up. Bob

Maxwell passed 11 yards to Paul

Worth for a touchdown and

Norm Trowbridge kicked a

39-yard field goal. Bowling

Green's touchdown was a three-yard keeper by quarterback

Mark Miller, whose 229 yards passing gave him a school career record of 3,120.

Persell's yardage was the fifth game out of six this season that he has rushed for over 100 yards. He is the nation's second-leading rusher with 969

yards.

Keith Rogien from Eau Claire helped the Broncos amass 376 yards on the ground as he totted the ball 17 times for 98 yards.

Pepper Powers got the Broncos on the board in the first quarter with a 13-yard touchdown run. After Marshall's Bob

Campbell tied the score, the Broncos went on to score 17 points in the second quarter to take a 24-7 lead.

Persell then added a touchdown in the third quarter for a

31-7 Bronco lead before

Marshall notched a pair of TD's to make the score close.

Late Touchdown Beats Titans Lawrence Nips Lutheran

Michigan Lutheran has obviously come out of the football woods this season.

The Titans rolled up school records in points scored and yardage gained (362) but a late touchdown by Lawrence gave the Tigers a 32-26 win over Lutheran at Lakeshore's field Saturday night.

The old record for points was set last week against Covert (16).

Lutheran had taken a 26-24

lead in the fourth quarter when quarterback Ross Rogien carried the ball 18 yards for a touchdown. But on the next series, Jim Mason hit Kevin Triestram on a 46-yard scoring pass with less than two minutes left in the game for the victory.

Triestram led the Tigers, now 3-3 this season, with 87 yards rushing. He also caught two touchdown passes for a total of 120 yards.

Brett Morris had another fantastic game for the Titans, going over the 100-yard mark for second week in a row. Against Lawrence, he gained 165 yards on 15 carries and scored two touchdowns. Last week, he gained 161 yards against Covert.

Ken Kruck keyed the Titans' passing attack as he caught two aeriels for 70 yards, both of which set up touchdowns.

Lawrence took an 18-0 lead midway into the second quarter. Triestram and Jeff Queen both ran in scores from three and one yard out, respectively, while Mason hit Triestram with a 76-yard bomb for the third.

Pete Sando got the Titans their first score in the second quarter as he ran one in from six-yards out.

Lutheran was late coming out of the lockerroom after halftime and were given a 15-yard penalty. But it didn't hurt them any as on the first play from scrimmage, Morris rambled 75 yards for the only score of the third quarter.

It was in the fourth quarter where the fireworks went off, as there were four touchdowns scored in the last seven minutes of the game.

Triestram rambled in from three yards out but Morris answered that with a three-yard scoring run of his own. Rogien then went over from 18-yards out before Triestram caught the winning touchdown pass.

"The thing that pleased me was at one point we went down 18-0 and then came back to almost win in the fourth quarter," grinned Titans' coach Bob Gruetzmacher. "The kids have lots of character and they stuck to it until the end."

"We got a little momentum going against Covert last week and it carried over to this week."

Lutheran is now 1-3 this season.

Boo Boo Beats Falcons Persell Gains 200 Yards In WMU Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "Somehow I got the information that it was third down. The coach lost it," mumbled Don Nehlen.

The Bowling Green football coach conceded it was a boo-boo, his decision to run on fourth down at the Miami oneyard line. An almost certain field goal would have pulled out a 10-9 victory. Instead, Miami held with 20 seconds left, won its first game of the season 9-7 and knocked the Falcons from the Mid-American Conference lead Saturday.

Bowling Green slipped to 4-10 in the conference, tied for second with Ohio behind 24-0 Ball State.

In nonconference tests, Dayton kept Toledo winless 17-14. Ball State stopped a two-game over-all nosebleed by beating Appalachian State 20-7. Virginia Tech rolled over Kent State 42-14. Jerome Persell piled up 200 yards in Western Michigan's 31-21 verdict over Marshall. Division II national leader Northern Michigan crushed Central Michigan 41-13. William and Mary blanked Ohio University 20-0. Akron humiliated Eastern Michigan 36-0 and Southern Illinois crushed Northern Illinois 54-0 as Andre Herrera piled up 313 yards on the ground.

Nehlen said of his surprise strategy: "I sent the kicking team on then I saw the yard marker was third down. So I sent in the offense to run."

"You know," he added, "if I knew it was fourth down we would have kicked the field goal. Everytime we play Miami there's something that happens."

Dick Crum, Miami's mentor, said, "I knew what down it was. I just had to have the courage to troversial play, Miami linebacker Dave Hatgas joked: "I think Nehlen is a bad play caller. The only reason I'm saying this is I don't have to play against him again."

Miami made nine first-quarter points stand up. Bob Maxwell passed 11 yards to Paul Warth for a touchdown and Norm Trowbridge kicked a 39-yard field goal. Bowling Green's touchdown was a three-yard keeper by quarterback Mark Miller, whose 229 yards passing gave him a school career record of 3,120.

Persell's yardage was the fifth game out of six this season that he has rushed for over 100 yards. He is the nation's second-leading rusher with 969 yards.

helped the Broncos amass 376 yards on the ground as he totted the ball 17 times for 98 yards.

Pepper Powers got the Broncos on the board in the first quarter with a 13-yard touchdown run. After Marshall's Bob Campbell tied the score, the Broncos went on to score 17 points in the second quarter to take a 24-7 lead.

Persell then added a touchdown in the third quarter for a 31-7 Bronco lead before Marshall notched a pair of TD's to make the score close.

played before a homecoming crowd of 16,014 fans, the largest football crowd in Upper Peninsula history.

Mariucci came back from a second-quarter rib injury for three touchdown passes in the third after the Chippewas narrowed the gap to 27-13 when Larry Hall recovered a blocked punt.

"It looked like we had a chance then," said CMU Coach Roy Kramer, "but we continued to make mistakes and they didn't.

It was Mariucci's 47-yarder to Zach Fowler that put the game out of reach.

Michigan Tech senior tailback Jim Van Wagner paced the Huskies with 36 carries for 266 yards. Tech ground out 472 yards on the ground and 78 passing, while holding the Mustangs to 140 yards. The puts Tech at 4-1 in the NIC, while Southwest State is 0-7.

Undeclared Albion set the stage for next week's MIAA championship against Hope by racing to a 21-0 lead before an interception set up Olivet's only score. Steve Robb scored twice on one-yard plunges and passed to Phil Demaska for the game's final touchdown.

Albion coach Frank Joranko gave all 55 of his players a chance on field as the Britons gained 446 yards, 377 on the ground. The third-ranked NCAA Division III team now is 4-0 in the conference, while Olivet is 0-4.

A 40-yard touchdown run by Alma's Dave Cleary helped the Scots to their win over Kalamazoo and a 2-2 MIAA record. Chuck Fiebertz opened the scoring for the Scots with a 12-yard TD toss from Ken Riehl.

Mark Burger put Kalamazoo on the board with a 28-yardfield goal early in the third quarter. The Hornets, now 0-3 in the conference, scored their final points on a one-yard plunge by Kevin Moody and a conversion pass from Tim Brenner to Burger, both in the fourth.

Despite 244 yards in passing and three touchdowns from Adrian quarterback Paul Downs, Hope's Flying Dutchmen took the lead and kept it with Mark Boyce's third scoring toss of the game, a 31-yarder to Kevin Clark in the final period.

Boyce also connected with TD passes to Jim Holwerda and Dave DeZwinn, and Hope's Mike Skelton scored on a three-yard plunge, putting the Dutchmen at 4-0 in the conference. Adrian is 1-2.

Wayne State's ground attack and defense chewed up Saginaw Valley, as the Tartars boosted their league mark to 3-1, and 6-1 overall.

Backs Mike Stankovich and Terry Grimes had 124 and 111 yards respectively for the winners. Grimes added a three-yard scoring run to two TD passes by substitute quarterback Terry Copacia. A 36-yard field goal by Bill Kelly and a Stankovich touchdown iced the cake and kept Wayne State's GLIAC lead with a 3-1 record. The Cardinals are winless in the conference and 4-4 overall.

Grand Valley gave Jamie Hosford the ball for a school record 43 times Saturday, and the powerful Laker runner took off with it — for 153 yards and two touchdowns. Hosford's scoring romps in the second quarter helped Grand Valley boost its season mark to 2-1 in the GLIAC and 5-1 overall.

Hillsdale, which saw its season mark dip to 2-3 in the league and 4-4 for the season, had to settle for a first-quarter 21-yard field goal from Ted Pettibone.

Northwood fullback Mark Reing rushed for 176 yards and a pair of touchdowns as his team routed Ferris State and upped its conference record to 2-1, 3-2-1 for the season.

The Ferris offense was held to 114 yards for the game, and fell to 2-2 for the GLIAC and 3-4 overall.

Tops Griffin's Rushing Record

Dorsett All-Time Leader

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

You don't need a scorecard to tell the winners and losers from the latest spaced-out college football weekend. Just lend an ear.

—Pitt's Tony Dorsett: a winner: "I was so emotionally high it was unbelievable. I'm hoping I can push that record up so far that no one can ever dream of beating it. I want that record to be mine as long as I'm on this earth."

All Dorsett did was rush for 180 yards and three touchdowns in second-ranked Pitt's 45-0 rout of Navy to become major college football's all-time leading runner. His 5,206 yards erased the record of 5,177 set last year by Ohio State's Archie Griffin.

—Oklahoma State linebacker John Weimer, a winner: "This is the happiest I've ever been in my life."

What Oklahoma State did was end a string of nine straight losses to arch-rival Oklahoma, downing the fifth-ranked Sooners 31-24 as Terry Miller rushed for 159 yards and Charlie Weatherbie came off the bench to direct three second-half scoring drives. —Oklahoma Coach

Barry Switzer, a loser for only the second time in 41 games as a head coach: "We have had things going too good for us too long and now adversity has struck."

—Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne, a loser whose third-ranked Cornhuskers — No. 1 in the preseason ratings — yielded a Big Eight record 98-yard scoring pass play in the final period and bowed to No. 17 Missouri 34-24: "We would have liked a chance to win the national championship, although I'm not sure we ever set that as our goal. It's going to be difficult to do that now."

Top-rated Michigan, pursued by Pitt, continues to lead the pack with UCLA, Maryland, Southern Cal and Texas Tech the logical challengers ... for now.

Michigan swamped Indiana 35-0 as Rob Lytle rushed for 173 yards and Rick Leach completed all four passes he threw for 109 yards and a pair of touchdowns.

Jeff Dankworth, injured in the second period, returned to lead fourth-ranked UCLA to three second-half touchdowns and a 35-19 triumph over California.

That left the Bruins tied atop the Pac-8 with seventh-ranked Southern California. The Trojans swamped Oregon State 56-0 although star runner Ricky Bell suffered a hip pointer — not to worry, he'll be back next week — after gaining 68 yards in six carries. His back-up, freshman Charles White, added 107 yards and scored four times.

Sixth-ranked Maryland, with only lowly Clemson and Virginia remaining on its Atlantic Coast Conference slate, virtually clinched another ACC crown by whipping Duke 30-3 as Mark Manges threw two scoring passes to Bob Raba and tallied once himself.

Billy Taylor rushed for 173 yards while Larry Isaac and Rodney Allison each scored twice in leading No. 8 Texas Tech over Arizona 52-27.

Jeff Logan tallied on runs of 11 and 29 yards as ninth-ranked Ohio State trimmed Purdue 24-3 but the Buckeyes lost quarterback Rod Gerald for the rest of the season with three fractured vertebrae in his back. Ohio State was the only team on Michigan's schedule that was given a real shot to beat the Wolverines and the two bitter rivals are tied for the Big Ten lead.

Ray Goff teamed up with Gene Washington on an 87-yard touchdown pass play in 10th-ranked Georgia's 31-7 trouncing of Kentucky.

Florida, ranked 11th, spotted Tennessee 10 points in the opening period and then roared back behind the passing of Jimmy Fisher and the running of Tony Green for a 20-18 triumph. That kept the Gators atop the Southeastern Conference with a 3-0 mark to 2-0 for Auburn and 3-1 for Georgia and Mississippi.

No. 12 Notre Dame downed No. 19 South Carolina 13-6 for its fifth consecutive victory, all without allowing a touchdown. The Irish have surrendered only four field goals in the last 20 periods.

No. 13 Texas, which hasn't lost a home game since 1967, needed Raymond Clayborn's deflection of a two-point conversion pass with 47 seconds left to nip lowly Southern Methodist 13-12. Houston, No. 14, coughed the ball up four times and bowed to Arkansas 14-7 as the Razorbacks' Ben Cowins romped for 186 yards, 89 of them en route to a second-period touchdown.

Colorado lounced No. 16 Iowa State 33-14 with Jeff Knapple coming off the bench to direct a four-touchdown burst in the second quarter. The victory moved the Buffs into a Big Eight tie with Nebraska, Oklahoma, Missouri and Oklahoma State.

No. 18 Alabama used its opposite-style quarterbacks — runner Jack O'Rear and passer Jeff Rutledge — to turn back Louisville 21-3.

North Carolina used three field goals from Tom Biddle plus a 49-yarder from freshman Jeff Arnold to nudge out previously unbeaten East Carolina 12-10. The losers had been tied for 20th nationally with Mississippi State, which edged Southern Mississippi 14-6 on the running of Dennis Johnson and Walter Packer, which overcame five lost fumbles.

Meanwhile: —Southern Illinois' Andre Herrera rushed for 319 yards — including an NCAA record 214 in the first period — and six touchdowns on 35 carries in a 54-0 slaughter of Northern Illinois. Herrera originally was credited with 313 yards but a film check showed six more.

—Miami of Ohio, a preseason Top Twenty pick, snapped a six-game losing streak with its initial triumph, a 9-7 upset of Bowling Green that knocked the Falcons out of the Mid-American Conference lead.

—Texas A&M outlasted Rice 57-34. The Aggies piled up 622 yards, including 188 and four touchdowns by sophomore stud George Woodard, while Rice had 470. Tommy Kramer, the nation's leading passer, threw for three scores and tallied the Owls' other two TDs himself.

—Rutgers stretched the nation's longest winning streak to 14 games with a 47-0 mauling of Columbia and Virginia ended the longest losing string at 15 by nipping Wake Forest 18-17 on Andy Hill's last-minute 36-yard scoring pass to Andre Grier.

McLendon Bags Southern Crown

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — "The players say things, and it gets back to you," Mac McLendon observed.

"You know, like, 'he's got no guts,' and 'he can't stand the pressure.' Well now, maybe at last I've got my head screwed on straight."

McLendon, who had blown chances for two other titles with poor last rounds earlier this season, had just scored a two-stroke victory over close friend Hubert Green in the Southern Open Golf Tournament, McLendon's first individual title in nine long years of tour activity.

He won it with a solid, two-under-par 68 in the last round Sunday and nailed it down with a brilliant nine-iron shot to within four feet of the flag for a birdie on the final hole.

"It was his career shot," said Green, who was watching beside the 18th green as his friend came down the stretch at the hilly, 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club course.

"It was the most important shot of my career," agreed

McLendon. "It was the best nine iron I've ever hit."

It closed out a 72-hole total of 274, six under par and two in front of Green, who also shot a 68 in the cool, cloudy, windless weather of the final round.

"I'm real proud of the way Mac won it," said Green, a three-time winner this season, the winner of this tournament a year ago and McLendon's partner when they won the 1974 National Team championship.

"Nobody gave it to him. He won it for himself. And that's got to be a very happy thing for him."

It was. The victory was worth $25,000 but, more importantly, it was an enormous confidence-builder for the man who has struggled for the last five years and, admittedly, considered giving up the tour more than once.

"I think I expected too much too soon," said McLendon. "I'd won almost everything I'd entered as an amateur. Then, when I turned pro, I won a satellite tournament in my first start and finished second in the next one and I figured it was going to be easy. I just overlooked how many good players there are out here."

Jerry McGee, who matched par 70 in the final round, was third at 277. The group tied for fourth at 279, and the only others under par for the tournament, included Richard Crawford, Peter Oosterhuis of England, Jim Colbert, Bob E. Smith and Tommy Aaron. Oosterhuis surged out of the pack with a last-round 64. Smith and Aaron had 68s, Colbert a 69 and Crawford a 70.

Ben Crenshaw, who needed a finish of first or second here to take over the season's money-winning lead, blew to a fat 78 in the last round, won only $925 with his 285 finish and called it quits for the year, still trailing Jack Nicklaus by about $8,000.

Andretti Wins Japan Car Race

GOTEMBA, Japan (AP) — Mario Andretti of the United States and Britain's James Hunt both were winners when Japan's rain-splattered Formula One Grand Prix auto race ended.

But Italian newspapers claimed Austria's Niki Lauda also was a winner.

Andretti won the rain-delayed, 73-lap race in his John Player Special 77. He was timed in 1 hour, 43 minutes, 58.88 seconds for an average speed of 114 miles per hour. Hunt placed third but won the world driving championship, by one point over Lauda, who had led going into the final Grand Prix of the season, quit after the first lap.

Delayed one hour and 39 minutes by rain and fog, the race was run in a mist.

"You didn't have to be behind a pack of cars," Andretti said. "You just had to be in back of one and you were nearly blind. I almost lost the race a half-dozen times."

"I've done a lot of 24-hour races, but this has had to be the longest race of my career."

Lauda, who led Hunt by three points going into the race, pulled his Ferrari 312 T2 into the pits shortly after the race started.

"It's too misty," he said. "Sometimes I couldn't tell which direction the car was going. For me it was the limit. For me there is something more important than the world championship."

Italian newspapers Monday said Lauda's decision to pull out of the race was understandable and demonstrated the human side of the driver who often is referred to as having "nerves of steel." Lauda had suffered near-fatal burns in a race in Germany earlier in the year.

Reese Leading Amateur

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Donald Reese, a 22-year-old Grosse Ile golfer who stars for Troy State in Alabama, has been named Michigan's top private club amateur player.

Flint's Mark Timyan was second and Birmingham's Hunter McDonald was third, according to the Golf Association of Michigan, which uses a complicated point system to determine the annual Honor Roll from among member clubs.

Reese, who plays out of West Shore Golf & Country Club, was runner-up to Timyan on last year's Honor Roll.

Reese was a steady, if unspectacular, performer this summer.

He lost in the first round of the Michigan Amateur to ultimate runner-up Rick Vershure of Pontiac but clinched top honors by qualifying for the U.S. Amateur (where he lost in the second round), according to Jim Standish, GAM executive director.

Timyan, who plays out of Flint Golf Club, lost in the second round to the current Michigan Amateur champion, Mike Hurley of Albion. The 24-year-old Timyan, a former Michigan State University golfer, made the 36-hole cut in the Western Amateur.

Hurley couldn't be considered for the Honor Roll because he doesn't belong to a GAM-affiliated club, Standish said.

McDonald, a member of Oakland Hills Country Club, won two matches in the British Amateur and finished third in the Michigan Medal Play Championship to gain the No. 3 spot. It marked his sixth appearance on the list.

Fourth place on the list went to Tom Fairgrieve of Grosse Ile Golf & Country Club; fifth was Peter Green of Orchard Lake Country Club; sixth, Mark Henriksen, Atlas Valley Golf & Country Club; seventh, James Lipe Jr., Washtenaw Country Club; eighth, Bruce Dobbs, Washtenaw; ninth, Roy Schultheiss, Port Huron Country Club; and 10th was Dr. Mark Engelman, Atlas Valley.

McLendon Bags Southern Crown

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — "The players say things, and it gets back to you," Mac McLendon observed.

"You know, like, 'he's got no guts,' and 'he can't stand the pressure.' Well now, maybe at last I've got my head screwed on straight."

McLendon, who had blown chances for two other titles with poor last rounds earlier this season, had just scored a two-stroke victory over close friend Hubert Green in the Southern Open Golf Tournament, McLendon's first individual title in nine long years of tour activity.

He won it with a solid, two-under-par 68 in the last round Sunday and nailed it down with a brilliant nine-iron shot to within four feet of the flag for a birdie on the final hole.

"It was his career shot," said Green, who was watching beside the 18th green as his friend came down the stretch at the hilly, 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club course.

"It was the most important shot of my career," agreed

McLendon. "It was the best nine iron I've ever hit."

It closed out a 72-hole total of 274, six under par and two in front of Green, who also shot a 68 in the cool, cloudy, windless weather of the final round.

"I'm real proud of the way Mac won it," said Green, a three-time winner this season, the winner of this tournament a year ago and McLendon's partner when they won the 1974 National Team championship. "Nobody gave it to him. He won it for himself. And that's got to be a very happy thing for him."

It was. The victory was worth $25,000 but, more importantly, it was an enormous confidence-builder for the man who has struggled for the last five years and, admittedly, considered giving up the tour more than once.

"I think I expected too much too soon," said McLendon. "I'd won almost everything I'd entered as an amateur. Then, when I turned pro, I won a satellite tournament in my first start and finished second in the next one and I figured it was

Jerry McGee, who matched par 70 in the final round, was third at 277. The group tied for fourth at 279, and the only others under par for the tournament, included Richard Crawford, Peter Oosterhuis of England, Jim Colbert, Bob E. Smith and Tommy Aaron. Oosterhuis surged out of the pack with a last-round 64. Smith and Aaron had 68s, Colbert a 69 and Crawford a 70.

Ben Crenshaw, who needed a finish of first or second here to take over the season's money-winning lead, blew to a fat 78 in the last round, won only $925 with his 285 finish and called it quits for the year, still trailing Jack Nicklaus by about $8,000.

Andretti Wins Japan Car Race

GOTEMBA, Japan (AP) — Mario Andretti of the United States and Britain's James Hunt both were winners when Japan's rain-splattered Formula One Grand Prix auto race ended.

But Italian newspapers claimed Austria's Niki Lauda also was a winner.

Andretti won the rain-delayed, 73-lap race in his Jojo Player Special 77. He was timed in 1 hour, 43 minutes, 58.86 seconds for an average speed of 114 miles per hour. Hunt placed third but won the world driving championship, by one point over Lauda, who had led going into the final Grand Prix of the season, quit after the first lap.

Delayed one hour and 39 minutes by rain and fog, the race was run in a mist.

"You didn't have to be behind a pack of cars," Andretti said. "You just had to be in back of one and you were nearly blind. I almost lost the race a half-dozen times."

"I've done a lot of 24-hour races, but this has had to be the longest race of my career."

Lauda, who led Hunt by three points going into the race, pulled his Ferrari 312 T-2 into the pits shortly after the race started.

"It's too misty," he said. "Sometimes I couldn't tell which direction the car was going. For me it was the limit. For me there is something more important than the world championship."

Italian newspapers Monday said Lauda's decision to pull out of the race was understandable and demonstrated the human side of the driver who often is referred to as having "nerves of steel." Lauda had suffered near-fatal burns in a race in Germany earlier in the year.

Reese Leading Amateur

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Donald Reese, a 22-year-old Grosse Ile golfer who stars for Troy State in Alabama, has been named Michigan's top private club amateur player.

Flint's Mark Timyan was second and Birmingham's Hunter McDonald was third, according to the Golf Association of Michigan, which uses a complicated point system to determine the annual Honor Roll from among member clubs.

Reese, who plays out of West Shore Golf & Country Club, was runner-up to Timyan on last year's Honor Roll.

Reese was a steady, if unspectacular, performer this summer.

He lost in the first round of the Michigan Amateur to ultimate runner-up Rick Vershure of Pontiac but clinched top honors by qualifying for the U.S. Amateur (where he lost in the second round), according to Jim Standish, GAM executive director.

Timyan, who plays out of Flint Golf Club, lost in the second round to the current Michigan Amateur champion, Mike Hurley of Albion. The 24-year-old Timyan, a former Michigan State University golfer, made the 36-hole cut in the Western Amateur.

Hurley couldn't be considered for the Honor Roll because he doesn't belong to a GAM-affiliated club, Standish said.

McDonald, a member of Oakland Hills Country Club, won two matches in the British Amateur and finished third in the Michigan Medal Play Championship to gain the No. 3 spot. It marked his sixth appearance on the list.

Fourth place on the list went to Tom Fairgrieve of Grosse Ile Golf & Country Club; fifth was Peter Green of Orchard Lake Country Club; sixth, Mark Henrickson, Atlas Valley Golf & Country Club; seventh, James Lipe Jr., Washtenaw Country Club; eighth, Bruce Dobbs, Washtenaw; ninth, Roy Schultheiss, Port Huron Country Club; and 10th was Dr. Mark Engelman, Atlas Valley.

ND Hasn't Allowed TD In 20 Periods

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — South Carolina in one game matched the total points scored against Notre Dame in its four previous outings, but still that was not enough to hold off the Fighting Irish, who have not given up a touchdown in 20 straight quarters.

"We moved the ball consistently in the second half and did what we could. But their defense wouldn't give," said USC coach Jim Carlen after his Gamecocks lost 13-6 to the Irish Saturday in the first meeting of the two nationally ranked teams before a sellout crowd of 56,721, including President Ford.

Notre Dame, ranked 12th by The Associated Press, quickly got on the scoreboard with an 80 yard drive on the opening kickoff that culminated in a nine-yard touchdown pass. That, combined with two field goals in the first half, was all the Irish needed to capture their fifth win after a season opener loss to Pitt. But, they had to depend on some big defensive plays to stave off the persistent Gamecocks.

The biggest defensive play was an interception in the final minutes deep in Notre Dame territory.

"The ball was thrown a little behind the receiver," Carlen said, "but give Notre Dame credit for an excellent job. It was an outstanding defensive play, not a poor offensive one."

Notre Dame coach Dan Devine was impressed with the fight the Gamecocks put up.

South Carolina actually outscored the Irish 3-0 in the second half. "I would have settled for a one-point win," he said. "South Carolina is a good team. They held in there real tough."

Although Devine praised the South Carolina defense, he added, "We cooperated with them in stopping some of our drives."

"They played better after our first drive, but we hurt ourselves with a penalty to give them a shot at their first field goal and then had a holding call stop a good drive in the second half."

"But you've got to remember that South Carolina held a fine offensive team to one touchdown last week," Devine said. The Gamecocks a week earlier defeated Mississippi 10-7.

Soper Leading Buzz Fazio Open

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — Butch Soper of Huntington Beach, Calif., opened up a 191-pin lead over Earl Anthony after the fourth round Sunday in the $80,000 Buzz Fazio Open professional bowling tournament.

For 26 games, Soper had a total pinfall of 5,877, including 5,867 actual sticks spilled, a 217 average. He received 210 bonus pins, $9 for each of his seven-match game wins.

Anthony, the defending champion from Tacoma, Wash., totaled 5,686. Rounding out the top five were: Dave Frame, Baldwin Park, Calif., 5,653; Ed Ressler, Allentown, Pa., 5,635; and Sam Guarino of Detroit, 5,621.

Soper credited his success to the same thing earlier leaders had cited.

"After the first round, I switched to a hard rubber ball, and I've been bowling well ever since," he said. "Seems the plastic ball was over-reacting; whereas the rubber ball is going straighter to the pocket."

Soper had a scorching 1,915 for his eight-game Sunday night. Ressler moved up from 20th by winning seven matches despite shooting only 1,684.

Two more eight-game match rounds are on tap today before the winner gets his $8,000.

Short WHA Player Big Phoenix Scorer

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The shortest player in the World Hockey Association and a defenseman who turned in a strong offensive performance were instrumental in victories in two of three WHA games Sunday night.

Rob Flock, at 5-foot-5 the shortest player in the league, scored three times, leading the Phoenix Roadrunners to a 5-3 victory over the Edmonton Oilers. And defenseman Paul Terbenche scored twice as the Calgary Cowboys rode to a 6-0 victory over the San Diego Mariners. In the other WHA game, the Winnipeg Jets walloped the Birmingham Bulls 7-1.

But the results paled in comparison to a serious injury to young Peter Morris of Edmonton. He missed a check and fell heavily to the ice in the first period, cracking the base of his skull.

"I have never been so scared in my life," said Edmonton coach Pep Gaudin.

Morris, who wasn't wearing the protective head gear that he sometimes does, screamed as he was carried from the ice on a stretcher.

A teammate, Rick Morris, who is no relation, helped carry the injured player off the ice. He said he was so shaken by the incident that it affected his play.

Peter Morris was taken directly to a hospital for treatment and tests.

Phoenix' victory kept the Oilers tied for first place in the West Division with Winnipeg, each with 10 points.

Laurie Mammen and Bob Liddington each scored once, completing the Phoenix scoring. Butch Williams, Gene Peacock and Tim Sheehy scored for the Oilers.

Terbenche's first two goals of the season helped Calgary record its first victory.

Wayne Connolly, recently acquired from the Minnesota Fighting Saints, Lynn Powis, Danny Lawson and Ron Chipperfield accounted for the other Calgary goals.

Don McLeod got the shutout, making 23 saves.

Willie Lindstrom led the Jets with two goals. Bill Lesuk, Matts Lindh, Dan Labraaten, Dave Dunn and Andres Hedberg also scored for Winnipeg. Vaclav Nedomansky spoiled Joe Daley's shutout bid late in the last period.

ND Hasn't Allowed TD In 20 Periods

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — South Carolina in one game matched the total points scored against Notre Dame in its four previous outings, but still that was not enough to hold off the Fighting Irish, who have not given up a touchdown in 20 straight quarters.

"We moved the ball consistently in the second half and did what we could. But their defense wouldn't give," said USC coach Jim Carlen after his Gamecocks lost 13-6 to the Irish Saturday in the first meeting of the two nationally ranked teams before a sellout crowd of 56,721, including President Ford.

Notre Dame, ranked 12th by The Associated Press, quickly got on the scoreboard with an 80 yard drive on the opening kickoff that culminated in a nine-yard touchdown pass. That, combined with two field goals in the first half, was all the Irish needed to capture their fifth win after a season opener loss to Pitt. But, they had to depend on some big defensive plays to stave off the persistent Gamecocks.

The biggest defensive play was an interception in the final minutes deep in Notre Dame territory.

"The ball was thrown a little behind the receiver," Carlen said, "but give Notre Dame credit for an excellent job. It was an outstanding defensive play, not a poor offensive one."

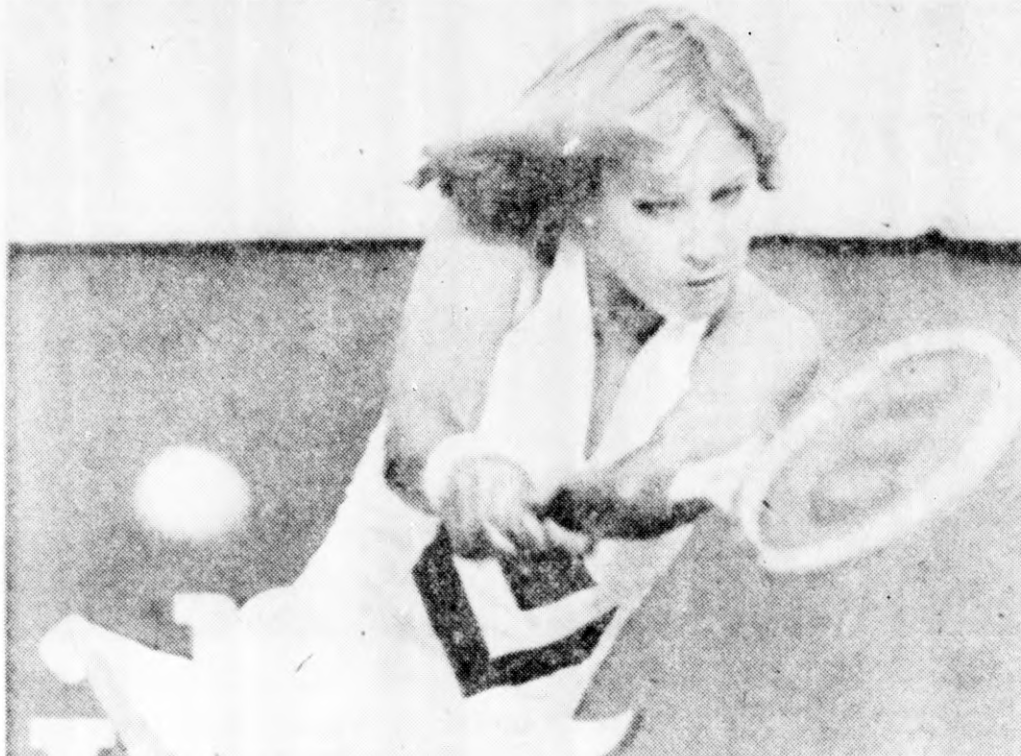

Notre Dame coach Dan Devine was impressed with the fight the Gamecocks put up,

South Carolina actually outscored the Irish 3-0 in the second half. "I would have settled for a one-point win," he said. "South Carolina is a good team. They held in there real tough."

Although Devine praised the South Carolina defense, he added, "We cooperated with them in stopping some of our drives."

"They played better after our first drive, but we hurt ourselves with a penalty to give them a shot at their first field goal and then had a holding call stop a good drive in the second half."

"But you've got to remember that South Carolina held a fine offensive team to one touchdown last week," Devine said. The Gamecocks a week earlier defeated Mississippi 10-7.

Soper Leading Buzz Fazio Open

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — Butch Soper of Huntington Beach, Calif., opened up a 191-pin lead over Earl Anthony after the fourth round Sunday in the $80,000 Buzz Fazio Open professional bowling tournament.

For 26 games, Soper had a total pinfall of 5,877, including 5,867 actual sticks spilled, a 217 average. He received 210 bonus pins, 30 for each of his seven-match game wins.

Anthony, the defending champion from Tacoma, Wash., totaled 5,686. Rounding out the top five were: Dave Frame, Baldwin Park, Calif., 5,659; Ed Ressler, Allentown, Pa., 5,635; and Sam Guarino of Detroit, 5,621.

Soper credited his success to the same thing earlier leaders had cited.

"After the first round, I switched to a hard rubber ball, and I've been bowling well ever since," he said. "Seems the plastic ball was over-reacting; whereas the rubber ball is going straight to the pocket."

Soper had a scorching 1,915 for his eight-games Sunday night. Ressler moved up from 20th by winning seven matches despite shooting only 1,684.

Two more eight-game match rounds are on tap today before the winner gets his $8,000.

Short WHA Player Big Phoenix Scorer

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The shortest player in the World Hockey Association and a defenseman who turned in a strong offensive performance were instrumental in victories in two of three WHA games Sunday night.

Rob Florek, at 5-foot-5 the shortest player in the league, scored three times, leading the Phoenix Roadrunners to a 5-3 victory over the Edmonton Oilers. And defenseman Paul Terbenche scored twice as the Calgary Cowboys rode to a 6-0 victory over the San Diego Mariners. In the other WHA game, the Winnipeg Jets walloped the Birmingham Bulls 7-1.

But the results paled in comparison to a serious injury to young Peter Morris of Edmonton. He missed a check and fell heavily to the ice in the first period, cracking the base of his skull.

"I have never been so scared in my life," said Edmonton coach Bep Guidolin.

Morris, who wasn't wearing the protective head gear that he sometimes does, screamed as he was carried from the ice on a stretcher.

A teammate, Rick Morris,

who is no relation, helped carry the injured player off the ice. He said he was so shaken by the incident that it affected his play.

Peter Morris was taken directly to a hospital for treatment and tests.

Phoenix' victory kept the Oilers tied for first place in the West Division with Winnipeg, each with 10 points.

Laurie Mononen and Bob Liddington each scored once, completing the Phoenix scoring. Butch Williams, Gene Peacock and Tim Sheehy scored for the Oilers.

Terbenche's first two goals of the season helped Calgary record its first victory.

Wayne Connolly, recently acquired from the Minnesota Fighting Saints, Lynn Powis, Danny Lawson and Ron Chipfield accounted for the other Calgary goals.

Don McLeod got the shutout, making 23 saves.

Baldwin Passing Attack Topples Covert, 36-20

BALDWIN — John Cox threw four touchdown passes here Friday night as Baldwin toppled Covert 36-20 in a non-league football game.

Cox completed nine of 17 passes for 238 yards as the hosts handed the Bulldogs their 10th straight loss.

Charles Bowman was on the receiving end of three of Cox' TD aerials, catching scoring passes of 38, 12 and 41 yards. Cox also passed to Leon Harris for a 40-yard touchdown.

Bob Cousar, who rushed for 146 yards in 23 carries, scored the other Baldwin touchdown on a two-yard run. The hosts held a 36-0 lead after three quarters.

George Starks was one of the bright spots for Covert, scoring twice. Starks caught a 49-yard TD pass from quarterback Ken Erwin and ran for a four-yard score.

A 15-yard option pass from running back Greg Harris to Robert Maggard tallied the other Bulldog TD. Starks finished with 120 yards in 11 carries.

MICHIGAN CONGRESSMAN NAMED Korean Gifts, Payments Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government of South Korea funneled between $50,000 and $1 million a year to U.S. Congressmen and other officials in cash, gifts and campaign contributions in the 1970s, the Washington Post reported in its Sunday edition.

The paper, citing "sources close to a major Justice Department investigation of these activities" said that more than 20 present and former congressmen, including one from Michigan, were under investigation.

The Post identified Rep. William S. Broomfield, a Republican from Michigan's 19th Congressional District in Birmingham, as one of the congressmen the South Koreans say they aided.

A Justice Department spokesman declined comment on the report.

The paper said South Korean

President Park Chung Hee personally directed a ring of South Korean agents who dispensed the money and gifts to "create a favorable legislative climate" for South Korea.

The key figure in the ring is a Washington-based South Korean businessman, Tongsun Park, according to the Post.

The Post said Park has denied making improper payments to any congressmen, but has admitted making payments to Broomfield and former Reps. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., Richard Hanna, D-Calif., and Edwin W. Edwards, D-La., now governor of Louisiana.

The Post quoted sources as saying Park has acknowledged giving $1,000 to Broomfield. It said Broomfield denied he has ever received any money from Park, but said he once received a case.

Edwards confirmed in July 1975 that Park had made what Edwards believed to be an offer of a contribution to his gubernatorial campaign, the Post said. But Edwards claimed his campaign never accepted any contribution from Park.

Uniforms Thick In Rally For Chairman Hua

HONG KONG (AP) — Hua Kuo-feng, appearing relaxed and confident, made his first public appearance as China's new leader before a million Chinese in Peking, who cheered him and applauded condemnations of his radical rivals. The rally Sunday was staged in the great square before the Tien An Men — the Gate of Heavenly Peace. China-watchers in Hong Kong studying a telecast were struck by the predominance of military uniforms. Hua, elected to succeed Mao Tse-tung as chairman of the Chinese Communist party — China's highest office — wore a military uniform himself.

Hoosier Crime Probe Requested

By STEVE GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A group of South Bend citizens is asking Gov. Ouis R. Bowen to lend a hand in a situation in St. Joseph County allegedly involving public officials, corruption, drugs, gambling, prostitution and murder.

Spokesmen for the group are to present information today to James Smith, Bowen's aide for matters of public safety. Jeanne Enmick, one of the spokesmen, said she was advised that the governor himself would not be available until December. Bowen is campaigning for November election.

The group believes a state police investigation two years ago did not reveal the extent of criminal activity in South Bend or surrounding St. Joseph County. Although investigators said they found some vice, no prosecutions resulted from the probe. The group is seeking an independent investigation with a special prosecutor empowered to grant immunity and give protection to potential witnesses.

The ad hoc organization is composed of businessmen, local officials, police officers, attorneys and others. Many members of the bipartisan group do not want to be identified because of fear of loss of jobs, appearance of political motivation — or physical harm.

But, they say they will share their information with a special prosecutor if one is appointed.

Keith Forsythe, another spokesman, is a former St. Joseph County policeman. He was fired after he and seven other deputies initiated a petition for the removal of Sheriff Dean Bolerjack. Bolerjack a former Democratic state representative, said the dismissal was for insubordination, brutality toward a prisoner and moonlighting without permission.

But, Forsythe, 28, says his dismissal was engineered because of his attempts to have the sheriff removed. Since his dismissal, Forsythe has been assembling information on activities of local officials. He says his life has been threatened by an anonymous caller.

Black Rhodesian Leaders Meeting

By ROON LEWALD
Associated Press Writer

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Four black Rhodesian leaders gathered in Geneva today to try to paper over their rivalries before starting negotiations with Prime Minister Ian Smith on Thursday. Robert Mugabe, who says he speaks for most of the guerrillas battling Smith's white-minority government, and Joshua Nkomo, who runs the best-organized black political machine in Rhodesia, arrived Sunday. They said they hoped to bring Bishop Abel Muzorewa and the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole into the "Patriotic Front" they have formed.

Muzorewa, Nkomo's rival for the remnants of a nationalist coalition called the African National Council, and Sithole, who founded the Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU) which Mugabe now claims to control, were due today.

Mugabe and Nkomo vowed in arrival statements to step up the guerrilla war in Rhodesia unless there is a swift and complete transfer of power from the country's 278,000 whites to its 6.4 million blacks.

Both rejected Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's plan for a biracial interim government for two years headed by a white and with the whites retaining control of the military forces and the police. Nkomo said the plan was "inoperative."

Smith insists that Kissinger told him the terms of the plan had been accepted by the blacks. The white Rhodesian leader says he will accept no changes. But both British and American officials say the plan was a basis for negotiations, not a binding agreement.

Smith's foreign minister, Pieter K. Van der Ryl, suggested at a news conference that "it might be useful" for Kissinger to come to Geneva to clarify the "confused" situation.

MICHIGAN CONGRESSMAN NAMED Korean Gifts, Payments Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government of South Korea funneled between $50,000 and $1 million a year to U.S. Congressmen and other officials in cash, gifts and campaign contributions in the 1970s, the Washington Post reported in its Sunday edition.

The paper, citing "sources close to a major Justice Department investigation of these activities" said that more than 20 present and former congressmen, including one from Michigan, were under investigation.

The Post identified Rep. William S. Broomfield, a Republican from Michigan's 19th Congressional District in Birmingham, as one of the congressmen the South Koreans say they aided.

A Justice Department spokesman declined comment on the report.

The paper said South Korean

President Park Chung Hee personally directed a ring of South Korean agents who dispensed the money and gifts to "create a favorable legislative climate" for South Korea.

The key figure in the ring is a Washington-based South Korean businessman, Tongsun Park, according to the Post.

The Post said Park has denied making improper payments to any congressmen, but has admitted making payments to

Broomfield and former Reps. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., Richard Hanna, D-Calif., and Edwin W. Edwards, D-La., now governor of Louisiana.

The Post quoted sources as saying Park has acknowledged giving $1,000 to Broomfield. It said Broomfield denied he has ever received any money from Park, but said he once received a vase.

Edwards confirmed in July 1975 that Park had made what Edwards believed to be an offer of a contribution to his gubernatorial campaign, the Post said. But Edwards claimed his campaign never accepted any contribution from Park.

Uniforms Thick In Rally For Chairman Hua

HONG KONG (AP) — Hua Kuo-feng, appearing relaxed and confident, made his first public appearance as China's new leader before a million Chinese in Peking, who cheered him and applauded condemnations of his radical rivals. The rally Sunday was staged in the great square before the Tien An Men — the Gate of Heavenly Peace. China-watchers in Hong Kong studying a telecast were struck by the predominance of military uniforms. Hua, elected to succeed Mao Tse-tung as chairman of the Chinese Communist party — China's highest office — wore a military uniform himself.

Hoosier Crime Probe Requested

By STEVE GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A group of South Bend citizens is asking Gov. Otis R. Bowen to lend a hand in a situation in St. Joseph County allegedly involving public officials, corruption, drugs, gambling, prostitution and murder.

Spokesmen for the group are to present information today to James Smith, Bowen's aide for matters of public safety. Jeanne Emmick, one of the spokesmen, said she was advised that the governor himself would not be available until December. Bowen is campaigning for November election.

The group believes a state police investigation two years ago did not reveal the extent of criminal activity in South Bend or surrounding St. Joseph County. Although investigators said they found some vice, no prosecutions resulted from the probe. The group is seeking an independent investigation with a special prosecutor empowered to grant immunity and give protection to potential witnesses.

The ad hoc organization is composed of businessmen, local officials, police officers, attorneys and others. Many members of the bipartisan group do not want to be identified because of fear of loss of jobs, appearance of political motivation — or physical harm.

But, they say they will share their information with a special prosecutor if one is appointed.

Keith Forsythe, another spokesman, is a former St. Joseph County policeman. He was fired after he and seven other deputies initiated a petition for the removal of Sheriff Dean Bolerjack. Bolerjack, a former Democratic state representative, said the dismissal was for insubordination, brutality toward a prisoner and moonlighting without permission.

But, Forsythe, 28, says his dismissal was engineered because of his attempts to have the sheriff removed. Since his dismissal, Forsythe has been assembling information on activities of local officials. He says his life has been threatened by an anonymous caller.

Black Rhodesian Leaders Meeting

By ROON LEWALD
Associated Press Writer

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Four black Rhodesian leaders gathered in Geneva today to try to paper over their rivalries before starting negotiations with Prime Minister Ian Smith on Thursday. Robert Mugabe, who says he speaks for most of the guerrillas battling Smith's white-minority government, and Joshua Nkomo, who runs the best-organized black political machine in Rhodesia, arrived Sunday. They said they hoped to bring Bishop Abel Muzorewa and the Rev. Ndabandani Sithole into the "Patriotic Front" they have formed.

Muzorewa, Nkomo's rival for the remnants of a nationalist coalition called the African National Council, and Sithole, who founded the Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU) which Mugabe now claims to control, were due today.

Mugabe and Nkomo vowed in arrival statements to step up the guerrilla war in Rhodesia unless there is a swift and complete transfer of power from the country's 278,000 whites to its 6.4 million blacks.

Both rejected Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's plan for a racial interim government for two years headed by a white and with the whites retaining control of the military forces and the police. Nkomo said the plan was "inoperative."

Smith insists that Kissinger told him the terms of the plan had been accepted by the blacks. The white Rhodesian leader says he will accept no changes. But both British and American officials say the plan was a basis for negotiations, not a binding agreement.

JOSHUA NKOMO
Arrives Sunday

Smith's foreign minister, Pieter K. Van der Byl, suggested at a news conference that "it might be useful" for Kissinger to come to Geneva to clarify the "confused" situation.

Tar/Taste Theory Exploded.

Taste-science breakthrough gives low tar MERIT the flavor of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

By locating certain flavor-rich ingredients in cigarette smoke, ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar, researchers at Philip Morris have disproven the theory that cigarette flavor depends on the amount of tar that goes with it.

They've discovered how to pack flavor—unprecedented flavor—into a cigarette that delivers one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.' It's extra flavor, natural flavor, and only MERIT has it.

Tests Verify Taste

In taste tests involving thousands of cigarette smokers like yourself, MERIT was reported to deliver as much—or more—taste than current low tar leaders.

What's really startling is that these brands have up to 60% more tar than MERIT.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Wife-Beating Report Tells Pathetic Tale

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Not only is "domestic violence" — wife-beating — pervasive throughout Michigan, but law enforcement agencies offer women little help when they seek it.

Those are the sobering conclusions of the Michigan

Women's Commission, which recently took 25 hours of testimony in five cities across the state on the problem of wifebeating.

The testimony, taken together, presents as the commission said "a somber document of pain, fear, isolation and helplessness."

Patricia Silea, executive director of the commission, said the agency's staff would draft and present a report for the commission's approval, probably in about six months.

She said it may include recommendations for new laws in the area, or proposals to enforce laws already on the books, as well as ways to meet other needs of female victims.

Although the problem of wife-beating has received increased attention recently, Ms. Silea said the testimony of actual victims emphasized the horrors of such assaults.

"It is one thing to read about the problem and hear there is a problem," she said. "It is another thing to sit by the hour and hear personal accounts. It makes you realize it's happening to real people, and it's happening every day."

According to the testimony, a major problem is the lack of law enforcement help should a woman seek it.

"I would say almost all the women who testified felt that many personal problems were compounded by poor enforcement," Ms. Silea said.

In each city where the hearings were held, women said that law enforcement officials offer little assistance; court orders to protect women from additional beatings are not enforced; prosecutors are reluctant to refuse to issue warrants against men who assault women in their homes; and the criminal justice system fails to prosecute or punish those who commit the crime.

"In many areas of this state, the police establishment, which includes the prosecutor and city attorneys, has accepted a certain level of domestic violence as a fact of life," said an attorney with a county legal aid society. "They feel no duty to enforce laws that they would zealously prosecute if they involved persons who are strangers to one another."

A police officer said the treatment of female victims of domestic violence is "cavalier." Many witnesses said there were few facilities and supportive services for victims of such assault.

"Many women have no place to go, and no money to move on their own," an attorney said. And victims agreed.

"Many people seemed to feel that I was 'sick' to stay with a man like that," one said. "They seemed to ignore the fact that I had children to support and very little money for a lawyer."

Other victims spoke of being "trapped" with their husbands and having to take repeated beatings, with nowhere to turn for help.

A family services worker explained the difficulty in just moving out of the house:

"A woman must really be a superwoman with lots of supporting family or friends, to overcome even the mechanical obstacles of separating from an abusing spouse."

"But women in this position are usually the very ones whose strength has been drained by years of difficulty in marriage, negative messages from her spouse, and isolation from helping friends and relatives."

"She already starts the ordeal with disadvantages, an ordeal that even a strong person would have difficulty overcoming."

James Bannon, executive deputy chief in the Detroit Police Department, said police "share society's view that domestic violence is an individual problem." He called for a new definition of such assault as a public issue.

And the effect of wife-beating does not end with the assault. One woman said that despite 10 years' time since the violence "the degradation and humiliation will always be with me. I am still terrified if a man raises his voice in anger."

OLDEST BUSINESS IN STATE: The Sumner Tavern, located north of Niles on Indian Lake road, in Cass county has been determined to be oldest business in state still operating in original building as result of recent Bicentennial contest by Michigan Historical society. Tavern is stopping place for motorists traveling to

FARMERS GET WARNING

Manure Produces Lethal Gases

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Several deaths in Michigan have been attributed to gases produced by organic waste units on farms, according to an agricultural safety engineer. Farmers should use fans, breathing units and other safety devices when working in or around animal liquid manure tanks, milk house drainage pits and other organic waste structures, says Dr. Richard Pfister, a Michigan State University extension safety engineer. Pfister said gases generated by the organic wastes are harmful to humans and animals. Up to 27 gaseous compounds are produced in liquid manure as bacterial decomposition occurs.

Some of these gases — such as methane, carbon dioxide, ammonia and hydrogen sulfide — are extremely dangerous. The four gases may create an environment without oxygen, Pfister said, one which may be highly explosive, poisonous, or a combination of all three. Liquid wastes trap small bubbles which are low in or devoid of oxygen, and when the liquid is agitated or disturbed by pumping, these gas bubbles are released, he said.

Pfister outlined the dangers of the various gases: —Methane is colorless, odorless, lighter than air and burns readily. It can be explosive and it can asphyxiate humans and animals when it reaches 35 per cent concentration.

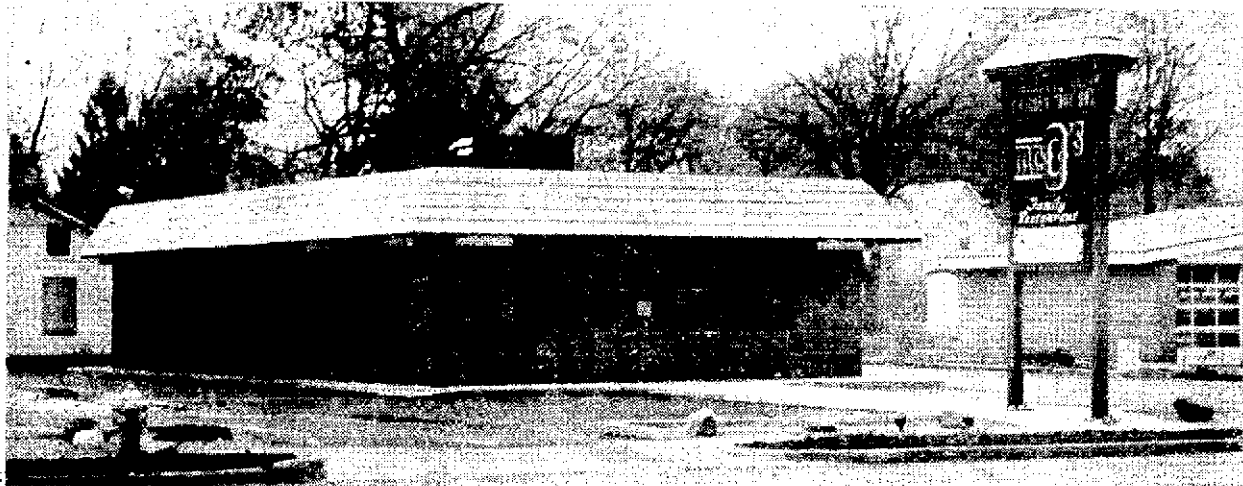

—Hydrogen sulfide has a rotten egg smell, is extremely poisonous and can cause serious disability or death in concentrations of more than one-tenth of one per cent. "It is heavier than air so it is almost always present in any pit containing decomposing organic material," Pfister said. The gas tends to paralyze the diaphragm and victims usually collapse at once, with would-be rescuers also frequently overcome.

—Carbon dioxide is an undetectable, colorless gas heavier than air, while ammonia is colorless, lighter than air and has a pungent odor. Both can strangle a person.

"Underground tanks or pits, which by their nature cannot be ventilated easily, are potentially most dangerous," Pfister said. "Silo pits, septic tanks, even well pits can harbor deadly hydrogen sulfide." Open pits with inadequate coverings are potential traps for humans and animals, especially if they breathe the gases as they go near the edge.

When tank contents are agitated or pumped, large quantities of gas are released, so maximum ventilation is essential, Pfister said. Smoking, lighted matches and open flames must be kept out of the area until the tank is thoroughly ventilated. Pfister urged the use of portable fans to ventilate pits, and warned farmers not to enter a liquid manure tank which is being emptied without an air breathing unit. A rope should be tied around the waist of the person entering the tank, workers should work in pairs and ladders should be installed on all tanks and storage units.

Newhouse Raises Booth Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — S.I. Newhouse, owner of 25 per cent of Booth Newspapers, Inc., offered Sunday to pay $248 million, or $47 a share, for the remaining 75 per cent of Booth stock. The Times Mirror Co., offered to buy the stock last Friday for $40 a share.

Newhouse, publisher of 22 newspapers in 15 cities, offered the Booth board of directors $47 a share in the form of a cash merger or, if the Booth board prefers, a cash tender offer to all shareholders for the 5.48 million shares of stock.

Spokesmen at Booth Newspapers headquarters in Ann Arbor, Mich., said neither president James Sauter nor any of its other top officers would be available for comment today.

The offer comes two days after the Times Mirror Co. of Los Angeles offered to buy all 7.37 million shares of the Booth stock for $40 a share or about $300 million.

"Mr. Newhouse, owner of a 25 per cent investment in the shares of Booth, has taken this action in response to last week's offer by the Times Mirror Co. to purchase all of the shares of Booth at $40 a share," said a spokesman for Newhouse.

The Times Mirror, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, made its offer last Friday. At that time, some Booth shareholders, including three directors, had agreed to sell their shares to Times Mirror during the offer which expires Nov. 1.

That group of stockholders owns about 34 per cent of Booth stock.

Booth publishes eight Michigan newspapers — in Grand Rapids, Flint, Saginaw, Ann Arbor, Jackson, Muskegon, Kalamazoo and Bay City. It also has controlling interest in Parade Magazine, a nationally distributed weekly newspaper supplement.

In addition, Booth recently bought a chain of weekly newspapers in the Cleveland area to pose an antitrust barrier to Newhouse, who owns the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

John Morton, a Washington newspaper industry analyst, said the largest previous purchase was in 1974 when Knight Newspapers, Inc. acquired Ridder Publication for $99 million worth of stock.

Commenting last week on the Times Mirror offer, Morton said: "In terms of price, no other sale that I know of could come anywhere near this. I don't think there is a doubt that this would be, by a wide margin, the largest newspaper sale in history."

In addition to the Los Angeles Times, Times Mirror owns Newsday on Long Island, N.Y., and the Dallas Times Herald.

Newhouse also owns several television and radio stations and Vogue and Mademoiselle magazines.

Car Hits Girl In Detroit, Body Dragged 2 Miles

A 17-year-old girl who was hit by a car and dragged nearly two miles was among the 13 persons killed in Michigan traffic accidents this weekend, according to police.

Ann Mamos of Dearborn was struck by a car Sunday while crossing a Detroit street. Her body was dragged for two miles underneath the car before it was discovered, Detroit police said.

Police quoted the driver of the car as saying he hadn't realized he had struck the girl. He was being held on a charge of manslaughter until police said the other victims were:

Terry Ames, 21, of Kalamazoo, killed Saturday in a two car collision in Kalamazoo County.

James Stephens, a Detroit teenager, killed Saturday, in a head-on collision in Detroit.

Keith Sonntag, 30, of Sterling Heights, killed Saturday, when the car he was riding in ran off U.S. 23 in Arenac County and rolled over.

Steven King, 18, of Melvindale, killed Saturday, when his car collided with a truck in Wayne County.

Tommy Flores, 16, of Saginaw, died Saturday, when his car ran off a Saginaw County road and hit a tree.

Ronald Gray, 38, of Belleville, killed Saturday, when his car ran off a Monroe County road and hit a tree.

William Borgert, 20, of Montrose, died Saturday, when the car he was riding in ran off a Saginaw County road and hit a stationary object.

Emmett Gruno, 52, of Otisville, died Saturday, when his car ran off a Genesee County road and hit a tree.

Steve Byrnes, 15, of Inkster, killed Saturday when he was hit by a car while walking on a Dearborn Heights street.

James Hembold, 26, of Millington, killed Sunday, when he was hit by a car while riding his bicycle in Flint.

Gloria Gebhardt, 43, of Flint, died Sunday, when the car she was riding in collided with another.

Donna Schilling, 55, of Brooklyn, killed Sunday, when her car rolled over in Jackson County.

Police Say Driver Had Scanner

State police of the Benton Harbor post said Raymond A. Wells, 38, Park Forest, Ill., was arrested Sunday night on a charge of possession of a police radio scanner in a motor vehicle. He was booked at the Berrien county jail.

Troopers reported stopping a car about 9 p.m. on I-94 in Benton township for speeding and observed the scanner. Troopers said the scanner was equipped to receive the Michigan state police radio frequency. Wells was also ticketed for speeding, troopers said. Police scanners in motor vehicles are illegal without permission.

Car Hits Girl In Detroit, Body Dragged 2 Miles

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A 17-year-old girl who was hit by a car and dragged nearly two miles was among the 13 persons killed in Michigan traffic accidents this weekend, according to police.

Ann Mamos of Dearborn was struck by a car Sunday while crossing a Detroit street. Her body was dragged for two miles underneath the car before it was discovered, Detroit police said.

Police quoted the driver of the car as saying he hadn't realized he had struck the girl. He was being held on a charge of manslaughter. State police said the other victims were:

Terry Ames, 21, of Kalamazoo, killed Saturday in a two-car collision in Kalamazoo County.

James Stephens, a Detroit teenager, killed Saturday, in a head-on collision in Detroit.

Keith Sonntag, 30, of Sterling Heights, killed Saturday, when the car he was riding in ran off U.S. 23 in Arenac County and rolled over.

Steven King, 18, of Melvindale, killed Saturday, when his car collided with a truck in Wayne County.

Tommy Flores, 16, of Saginaw, died Saturday, when his car ran off a Saginaw County road and hit a tree.

Ronald Gray, 38, of Belleville, killed Saturday, when his car ran off a Monroe County road and hit a tree.

William Borgert, 20, of Montrose, died Saturday, when the car he was riding in ran off a Saginaw County road and hit a stationary object.

Emmett Gruno, 52, of Otisville, died Saturday, when his car ran off a Genesee County road and hit a tree.

Steve Byrnes, 15, of Inkster, killed Saturday when he was hit by a car while walking on a Dearborn Heights street.

James Hembold, 26, of Millington, killed Sunday, when he was hit by a car while riding his bicycle in Flint.

Gloria Gebhardt, 43, of Flint, died Sunday, when the car she was riding in collided with another.

Police Say Driver Had Scanner

State police of the Benton Harbor post said Raymond A. Wells, 38, Park Forest, Ill., was arrested Sunday night on a charge of possession of a police radio scanner in a motor vehicle. He was booked at the Berrien county jail.

Troopers reported stopping a car about 9 p.m. on I-94 in Benton township for speeding and observed the scanner. Troopers said the scanner was equipped to receive the Michigan state police radio frequency. Wells was also ticketed for speeding, troopers said. Police scanners in motor vehicles are illegal without permission.

Niles Medic Breaks Leg

NILES — F.H. Lindenfeld, M.D., 443 South St. Joseph street, Niles, broke his left leg and heel Saturday afternoon when he fell from a tree he was trimming in the yard of the family cottage at Birch lake in Cass county. He is being treated at Pawating hospital here.

OLDEST BUSINESS IN STATE: The Sumnerville Tavern, located north of Niles on Indian Lake road, in Cass county has been determined to be oldest business in state still operating in original building as result of recent Bicentennial contest by Michigan Historical society. Tavern is stopping place for motorists traveling to

FARMERS GET WARNING

Manure Produces Lethal Gases

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Several deaths in Michigan have been attributed to gases produced by organic waste units on farms, according to an agricultural safety engineer. Farmers should use fans, breathing units and other safety devices when working in or around animal liquid manure tanks, milk house drainage pits and other organic waste structures, says Dr. Richard Pfister, a Michigan State University extension safety engineer. Pfister said gases generated by the organic wastes are harmful to humans and animals. Up to 27 gaseous compounds are produced in liquid manure as bacterial decomposition occurs.

Some of these gases — such as methane, carbon dioxide, ammonia and hydrogen sulfide — are extremely dangerous. The four gases may create an environment without oxygen, Pfister said, one which may be highly explosive, poisonous, or a combination of all three. Liquid wastes trap small bubbles which are low in or devoid of oxygen, and when the liquid is agitated or disturbed by pumping, these gas bubbles are released, he said.

Pfister outlined the dangers of the various gases: —Methane is colorless, odorless, lighter than air and burns readily. It can be explosive and it can asphyxiate humans and animals when it reaches 35 per cent concentration.

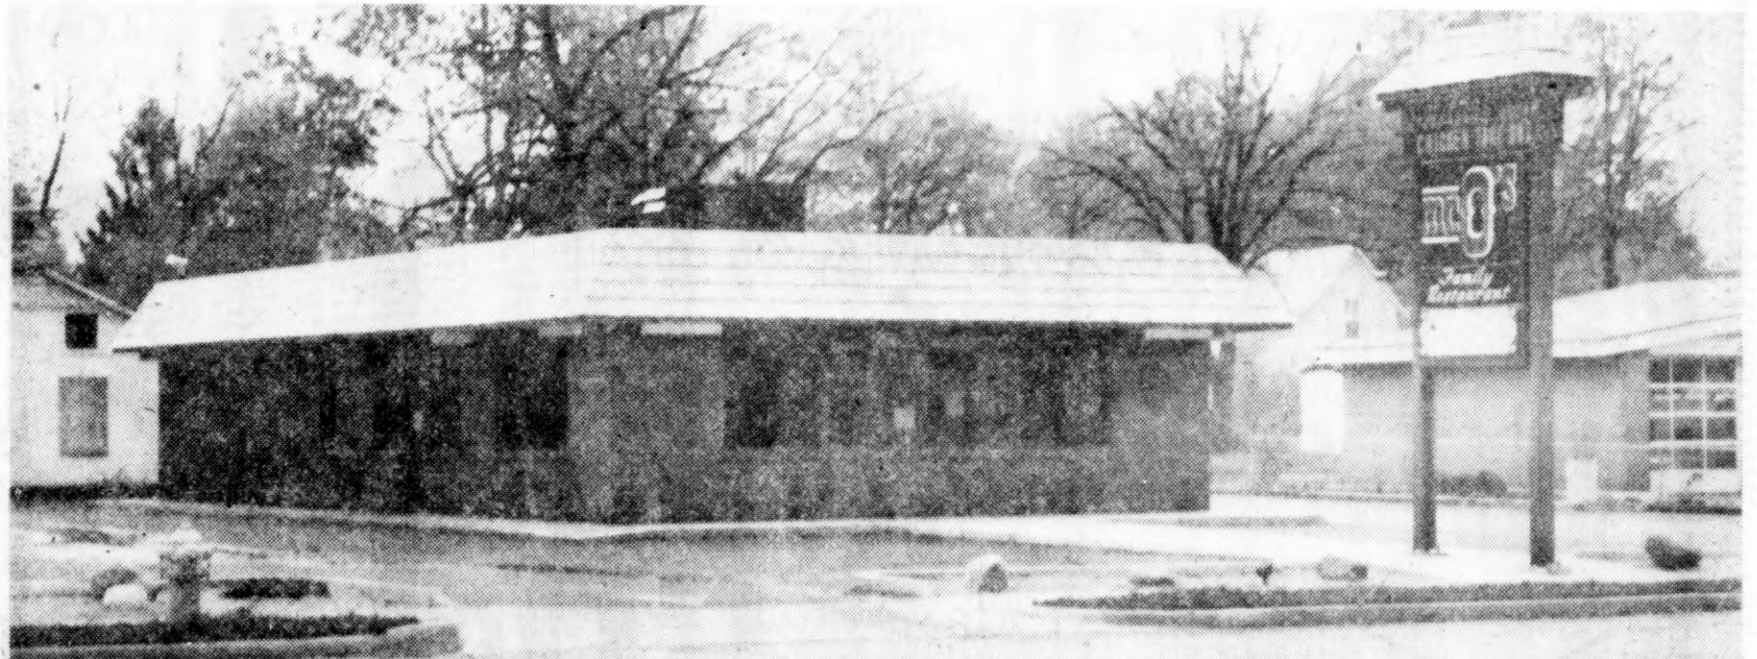

—Hydrogen sulfide has a rotten egg smell, is extremely poisonous and can cause serious disability or death in concentrations of more than one-tenth of one per cent. "It is heavier than air so it is almost always present in any pit containing decomposing organic material," Pfister said. The gas tends to paralyze the diaphragm and victims usually collapse at once, with would-be rescuers also frequently overcome.

—Carbon dioxide is an undetectable, colorless gas heavier than air, while ammonia is colorless, lighter than air and has a pungent odor. Both can suffocate a person.

"Underground tanks or pits, which by their nature cannot be ventilated easily, are potentially most dangerous," Pfister said. "Silo pits, septic tanks, even well pits can harbor deadly hydrogen sulfide." Open pits with inadequate coverings are potential traps for humans and animals, especially if they breathe the gases as they go near the edge.

When tank contents are agitated or pumped, large quantities of gas are released, so maximum ventilation is essential, Pfister said. Smoking, lighted matches and open flames must be kept out of the area until the tank is thoroughly ventilated. Pfister urged the use of portable fans to ventilate pits, and warned farmers not to enter a liquid manure tank which is being emptied without an air breathing unit. A rope should be tied around the waist of the person entering the tank, workers should work in pairs and ladders should be installed on all tanks and storage units.

BRANCH SITE: St. Joseph Savings & Loan association has planned a branch in South Haven by early 1977. It is to be located in former Mr. O's restaurant, 255 Broadway. Branch will be second outside

St. Joseph for association which has assets of $67 million. (Tom Renner photo)

Newhouse Raises Booth Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — S.I. Newhouse, owner of 25 per cent of Booth Newspapers, Inc., offered Sunday to pay $248 million, or $47 a share, for the remaining 75 per cent of Booth stock. The Times Mirror Co., offered to buy the stock last Friday for $40 a share.

Newhouse, publisher of 22 newspapers in 15 cities, offered the Booth board of directors $47 a share in the form of a cash merger or, if the Booth board prefers, a cash tender offer to all shareholders for the 5.49 million shares of stock.

Spokesmen at Booth Newspapers headquarters in Ann Arbor, Mich., said neither president James Sauter nor any of its other top officers would be available for comment today.

The offer comes two days after the Times Mirror Co. of Los Angeles offered to buy all 7.37 million shares of the Booth stock for $40 a share or about $300 million.

"Mr. Newhouse, owner of a 25 per cent investment in the shares of Booth, has taken this action in response to last week's offer by the Times Mirror Co. to purchase all of the shares of Booth at $40 a share," said a spokesman for Newhouse.

The Times Mirror, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, made its offer last Friday. At that time, some Booth shareholders, including three directors, had agreed to sell their shares to Times Mirror during the offer which expires Nov. 1.

That group of stockholders owns about 34 per cent of Booth stock.

Booth publishes eight Michigan newspapers — in Grand Rapids, Flint, Saginaw, Ann Arbor, Jackson, Muskegon, Kalamazoo and Bay City. It also has controlling interest in Parade Magazine, a nationally distributed weekly newspaper supplement.

In addition, Booth recently bought a chain of weekly newspapers in the Cleveland area to pose an antitrust barrier to Newhouse, who owns the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

John Morton, a Washington newspaper industry analyst, said the largest previous purchase was in 1974 when Knight Newspapers, Inc. acquired Ridder Publication for $99 million worth of stock.

Commenting last week on the Times Mirror offer, Morton said: "In terms of price, no other sale that I know of could come anywhere near this. I don't think there is a doubt that this would be, by a wide margin, the largest newspaper sale in history."

In addition to the Los Angeles Times, Times Mirror owns Newsday on Long Island, N.Y., and the Dallas Times Herald.

Newhouse also owns several television and radio stations and Vogue and Mademoiselle magazines.

Young Man Survives Sea Ordeal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A young sailor is safe and heading home after 28 days adrift in the Pacific Ocean, during which he went without food and buried two companions at sea.

The Coast Guard rescued Bruce Collins, 23, of Glendale, Calif., Sunday and said he was suffering from "acute malnutrition and dehydration and numerous body sores."

Collins was being fed intravenously and was sleeping normally, the Coast Guard added.

A week-long air search across 40,000 square miles of ocean ended when Collins' raft was spotted about 780 miles west of here.

He was rescued two hours later by a Coast Guard cutter that radioed that the survivor was "mentally alert and knows where he is." The cutter is expected to reach port here Tuesday night.

Fire Victims 'Never Had A Chance'

Arson Blaze Kills 25 In South Bronx

NEW YORK (AP) — Investigators believe an arson fire that killed 25 persons at an overcrowded second-story club may have been started by a man who was thrown out after arguing with his wife, sources say.

Authorities said a flammable liquid or other accelerating material was used to start the fire early Sunday morning in the only staircase in the South Bronx building. The death toll was said to be the worst from any arson fire in the city's history.

Most of the victims died of smoke inhalation in the 25-by-40-foot room. Twenty-four persons suffered injuries. Most of them broke bones when they leaped from a window, unable to use a blocked fire escape.

"The poor people never had a chance," one fireman said.

Police Commissioner Michael Codd said at the scene that his detectives were looking for "a specific person." He said later that police knew where the man was. He reportedly was in a hospital, among those injured during the blaze.

Sources said the man in question had an argument with his wife and was told to leave by the proprietor of the Club Puerto Rico, where more than 50 persons of Dominican descent had gathered for a party. The club's occupancy permit is for 20 persons, city records show.

Jacob Melendez, 27, the leader of the band playing for the party, said he heard an argument between a man and woman, apparently over the woman's dancing with another man.

"Don't worry, I'll get you," Melendez said the man yelled before he was thrown out.

"The man then left," Melendez said. "We continued to play and everyone was having a good time. About an hour and a half later, I heard a noise and immediately saw flames and black smoke by the door."

Codd said "there are many aspects under investigation" and refused to confirm or deny reports that the man had returned to the club with gasoline and been burned while setting the fire.

Bronx Dist. Atty. Mario Merola said the fire escape was blocked by a window gate locked from the inside to ward off burglars.

Some of the dead bore evidence of having been trampled as they tried to escape. Some literally were torn from their shoes, which were scattered about the room as reminders of the terror that accompanied the fierce flash fire.

Ten died in restrooms where they fled or were trapped. Most of the other victims were found near the window, police said.

"Everybody started acting crazy," said an injured survivor, Jose Echeverria, 36. "The only way out was the window and we took turns. I had to wait for two people before I could jump. If I stay one minute longer, I am dead."

It was the city's worst fire in terms of loss of life since 1960, when the aircraft carrier Constellation burned in the Brooklyn Navy yard with a loss of 50 lives.

A suburban Port Chester, N.Y., fire in 1974 killed 24 persons in a discotheque with only one exit. Authorities determined that the suburban blaze had been set by an arsonist to cover a robbery in an adjacent building.

Blaze Hits Building At Decatur

DECATUR — Fire Chief John Brigham said he will ask the state fire marshal's office to investigate a fire that destroyed a 60 by 150-foot storage building at Lozier's Greenhouse east of here early Saturday morning.

The Decatur fire chief said it appears the 2 a.m. blaze started around an oil furnace in the building. But he said he wants a fire investigator to determine the exact cause.

Greenhouse supplies and some farm equipment being stored for another person were among building contents destroyed in the blaze fought by Lawton and Decatur fire departments for nearly five hours, he said.

Brigham said owner Lawrence Lozier reported that the building's contents were insured for $5,000 and the building for $40,000.

The greenhouse is located about three miles east of Decatur on CR-352.

No one was reported injured in the fire.

Gunshot Wounds Woman

Benton Harbor Patrolman Lloyd Hughes said a woman reported she was wounded by a shot fired from a moving car while she was walking on McAllister avenue near Empire avenue Saturday night.

Hughes said Beatrice Hester, 35, of 650 Territorial road, Benton Harbor, was admitted to Mercy hospital for surgery to remove a slug from the right leg, just above the ankle.

Hughes said Mrs. Hester reported she was walking with a nephew, Larry Arnold, 19, of 165 Garfield, when a car went by and one shot was fired. Neither could describe the auto and no motive is known, Hughes said.

The shooting remains under investigation. It was reported by Mercy hospital at 11:31 p.m.

Benton township Sgt. Richard Davis and Patrolman Robert Polmanteer were investigating the attempted theft of two auto tires at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis King, 688 North Pike street, early Saturday, when a pickup truck passed by.

Members of the King family shouted that that was the truck they had seen pulling away when they turned on the outside light at the time of the theft attempt.

Davis and Polmanteer stopped the truck and arrested two occupants after finding wheel lug nuts and lug wrench in the truck. Booked on charges of larceny from a motor vehicle were Lawrence Jay Taylor, 18, 2401 Irving drive, Benton Heights, and David Leon Williamson, 17, 7397 East Napier, Bainbridge township.

Harold A. Fox told Berrien sheriff's deputies rocks were thrown early Saturday through a door screen and glass, and a 4 by 5-foot window at his home, 3090 Hillendale road, Sodus township. Damage was estimated at $350, deputies reported. The incident was reported at 3:33 a.m.

In another apparent incident of vandalism, Benton township police said shotgun blasts struck a house early Sunday breaking two windows. Sandy Brant, 2180 Benton Center road, told police Sgt. Rick Davis that the family was awakened about 3 a.m. by four gun shots. Davis said a shotgun shell casing was found on the road and it appeared that the shots were fired from a passing vehicle.

Berrien sheriff's deputies Sunday said Andy Hayman, Wright road, Niles, reported $100 in pumpkins were stolen from a fruit stand he operates on M-140 near Deans Hill road, Berrien township. Deputies did not report any estimate of the number of pumpkins stolen.

Thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were:

—A $119 CB radio from the car of Cecil Roman, 806 Edgumbe avenue, parked at his home.

COLOMA FIRE: Coloma Auction, 132 Washington, Coloma, was damaged by fire about 2:15 a.m., today, according to Fire Chief Leonard Dolezan. Dolezan said 40 by 60-foot cement block building was filled with smoke when firemen arrived. R.L. Hornbarger, Johnson road, who has owned and operated business for 11 years, said building and contents are insured.

Cause of fire has not been determined yet. (Cliff Stevens photos)

SPRAY INTERIOR: Coloma firemen spray down walls of office area where fire at Coloma Auction early today was believed to have started. Firemen were called back about 5:15 a.m. today to wet down smoldering merchandise. Contents of building were extensively damaged by smoke and water. Fire Chief Leonard Dolezan said amount of damage and cause is unknown. He said he has asked state fire marshal's office to investigate.

Carter's Presence Still Swell Plains Bible Class

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Clarence Dodson was speaking in the basement of the Plains Baptist Church to the men's Bible class. His audience was about 50 persons, only half of them regular members of a class, including one man running for president of the United States.

"If we have come to this sanctuary today, just for the purpose of seeing one another, just to see who is here, it is not like coming to the sanctuary ... to seek Christ's blessing," Dodson said.

Jimmy Carter, of course, was the reason why the other people — tourists, reporters and Secret Service agents — were there.

The 45-minute Bible class and the church services upstairs in the simple, white-framed building with its 16 stained-glass windows are regular features of Carter's Sunday in Plains, his hometown.

Carter has taught the class in the past, but on Sunday he sat on a metal folding chair in the second row, third seat from the left, with a Bible in his lap and Plains residents on either side of him.

A Secret Service agent, his gun bulging from under his jacket, sat at the back. Reporters also sat in the back and on a bench along the side.

There were no blacks in the class. None are members of the church. There were no women taking part in the class, although several female reporters were there. A separate class is held for women.

In 1964, Carter had voted for an unsuccessful plan to integrate the church. Since then, however, blacks have worshipped at the church, although none belongs, according to a Carter spokesman.

The spokesman said nothing prohibits blacks from becoming members of the congregation and that Carter believes that if a black applied for membership "the vote would be affirmative."

There is a musty smell in the basement. Eight bags of insulating material were piled in the back. The five classroom windows are decorated with clean white curtains.

Carter, questioned by the reporters, said their presence in the classroom and the church had only slightly affected the congregation.

"We have tried to retain the tone of our church," he said. "We all decided it was good to let people come and that perhaps those who came to write stories would derive some benefits."

But, he said, he had seen no sign of a more righteous press on the campaign, suggesting that "maybe there is along gestation period."

Voices from other Sunday school classes floated into the classroom, occasionally drowning Dodson's lesson, which dealt with man's free will to choose between sin and redemption.

Carter, who has refrained from talking about politics when he is in the church, answered reporters' questions about his religious beliefs and his understanding of the Bible.

Asked if he believes the Garden of Eden once existed, Carter replied: "That's hard to say. I can't disavow it. I don't know. ... I doubt many Christians today think the earth was created in seven days."

Carter volunteered that each night he reads one chapter of the Bible in English and the preceding chapter in Spanish.

He said that if he is elected president, he does not intend to miss church in Plains. His visit to the church Sunday was likely his last before the election. Next Sunday, two days before election day, he expects to be in Fort Worth, Tex.

Niles Man Charged In Two Smashups

NILES — State and city police here said a Niles man was issued citations in connection with two different traffic accidents which occurred moments within each other yesterday morning.

He was identified as Daniel House, 18. State police said House was admitted to Pawating hospital as a result of injuries suffered in the second crash.

House was reported in good condition this morning in Pawating hospital, Niles.

In the first crash, according to Niles police, an auto driven by William Havener, 54, South Bend, was struck by a car that subsequently left the scene of the accident at Front and Wayne streets.

City police said Havener escaped injury in the crash which occurred about 2:30 a.m., police said.

Moments later, an auto crashed into a stack of sewage tile at the intersection of 19th and Sycamore streets, according to state police. The tile is being installed in the area as part of a sewage collection project.

City police said House was issued a citation charging him with leaving the scene of a property damage accident. State police said he was issued a citation charging him with careless driving.

IMPALED ON FIRE PLUG: Auto Saturday afternoon went out of control and landed on this fire plug on Water street near Park street, Benton Harbor. Police said alleged driver, Willie E. Pace, 28, 427 Packard street, was located about two blocks away and lodged in jail after treatment at Mercy hospital for head cuts. Pace was booked on charges of larceny from a person, possession of stolen property over $100, driving under the influence of intoxicants, and not having an operator's license on his person. Police said Carl C. Laws, 57, Kalamazoo, reported at 3:02 p.m. that his auto and wallet were stolen at 427 Packard where he was visiting. Accident was reported at 3:45 p.m. (Staff photo)

Bendix Will Award Employees $50,000

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. — The Bendix corporation will award a total of $50,000 to four employees under a new program designed to recognize innovative technical contributions directly related to the company's profitability.

Dr. John Weil, corporate vice president and chief technical officer, said the new Innovative Profitability Award program represents a part of the company's continuing effort to reward employees for demonstrated accomplishments.

"We at Bendix believe that the employees who make outstanding contributions to our success as a company deserve greater recognition and showing of our appreciation. We are constantly looking for new ways to reward inventives," Dr. Weil said. "Through this new program, it is our intent to provide special financial rewards to those employees who have directly contributed to our financial success by developing new products or making significant product improvements."

Dr. Weil said the first series of awards under the program will be made in recognition of the technological contributions of F. William Aldrich of Troy, N. Y., Henry Troeger of Cooperstown, N. Y., J. G. Martin of South Bend, Ind., and the late W. H. DuBois of South Bend, Ind.

Dr. Weil will present the first award of $20,000 to Aldrich Oct. 22 at the Bendix Center, Southfield, Mich., for Aldrich's contribution to the development of a new type of automotive brake materials.

An award totaling $20,000 will be shared by Martin and the widow of Mr. DuBois for the development of patented advanced aircraft brakes.

DuBois' patents played a key role in the development of the modern multi-disc aircraft brakes. He was also responsible for development of Cerametalix brake materials. Martin received a patent covering the Bendix spider type disc brake.

Henry Troeger, the inventor or co-inventor of 42 patentable devices used in various Bendix power-drive mechanisms, will be awarded $10,000.

Troeger's basic patents cover all of the product areas at the company's Fluid Power plant, including the starter jaw mechanism, power transmission shafts, starter and auxiliary power unit clutches, reverse torque release mechanism, flyweight governors, flexural pivots and hydraulic power units.

SPRAY INTERIOR: Coloma firemen spray down walls of office area where fire at Coloma Auction early today was believed to have started. Firemen were called back about 5:15 a.m. today to wet down smoldering merchandise. Contents of building were extensively damaged by smoke and water. Fire Chief Leonard Dolezan said amount of damage and cause is unknown. He said he has asked state fire marshal's office to investigate.

Dole To Go Where Polls Suggest

BANGOR, Maine (AP) — Sen. Bob Dole is looking toward the polls to help him decide where to spend the final week of his Republican vice presidential campaign, a drive he claims could take him to up to 18 states.

Dole is being dispatched to areas where campaign strategists feel a personal appearance will do the most good. Today, he campaigns in Maine, Rhode Island, upstate New York and Pennsylvania.

On Tuesday, he goes to Ohio and Indiana. But beyond that, his schedule is still vague — deliberately so — although a West Coast trip is tentatively planned for the end of the week.

"It's a very volatile election," Dole said Sunday. "The polls are changing everywhere. We just feel very optimistic. Everything's upbeat."

"The last debate was good, President Ford's out on the road, and we're going to win this election."

On Sunday, Dole mixed politics with religion, flying on his campaign jet to Pontiac, Mich., to attend a Billy Graham crusade service. He had no other campaign events scheduled in the area and told reporters the purpose of his trip was more spiritual than political.

"I'm here to help myself, to listen to Billy Graham," he said.

He was introduced by the evangelist to the estimated 60,000 persons attending the service in Pontiac Stadium, the home of the Detroit Lions football team, as a longtime friend. Graham also recounted Dole's World War II record, telling the audience that a serious combat injury is the reason why the candidate has to "shake hands left-handed."

And the evangelist praised Dole's wife, Federal Trade Commission member Elizabeth Hanford Dole, as "one of the most distinguished lawyers in America."

Graham, who supported and defended former President Richard M. Nixon, said he is remaining politically neutral this year and has invited all four national candidates to attend one of his rallies.

Only Dole accepted, he told reporters.

Graham and his wife also posed with the Doles and country music singer Johnny Cash for photographers before the service began.

Asked later by reporters in Bangor what he had gained from the more than 1,000-mile trip to attend the service, Dole said only, "It was worth it."

The specifics of where Dole will campaign will be determined by polls — both those done by the President Ford Commission and those from independent sources — and the candidate will be sent to states where a Republican victory seems within grasp, campaign aides said.

ALTERNATIVE TELEVISION

"Alternative television" — it's a phrase you'll be hearing more and more about in coming months, for a breakthrough in the home entertainment marketplace is fast approaching. And the new technology, including such still far-out products from the TV industry as videodisks and videorecorders, flashes a significant shift in our nation's viewing habits.

Videorecorders already have reached major markets across the U.S. and offer an intriguing home entertainment concept as a sort of instant preservation system. First to break in is Sony Corp. with its Betamax videorecorder unit, allowing you to tape a TV show on one channel while watching another. A digital timing device lets you record programs while away from home.

Sony's Betamax, which its creators have dubbed a "time-shift" machine, essentially lets you adjust your TV-viewing time to suit your convenience by storing a show being aired while you are away from the set or absorbed in watching something else. In addition, Sony is introducing a Betamax Deck which hooks up to an existing TV set and automatically videotapes a show.

Reported planning to introduce their versions of videorecorders are Quasar, Sanyo, and Panasonic.

In another exciting development, one industry giant, Phillips-MCA, plans to test-market a videodisk system which produces programs on plastic disks for viewing on home TV sets. The Phillips-MCA unit is expected to be marketed by Magnavox.

A second giant, RCA, also is working on a system with a 12-inch disk that looks like a silver LP record. It, too, is to be viewed on home TV sets.

Both competitors will sell their versions of turntable players for about $500 and the 12-inch program disks will be priced from $2 to $12 — the cost to you depending on the length and quality of the recorded material.

The RCA system, which has been labeled SelectaVision, uses a sapphire and metal stylus that converts electronic messages encoded on the disk's grooves into a TV picture. The Phillips-MCA's system, which bears the label Disco-Vision, uses a laser beam instead of a stylus. This will enable you to create slow motion or to freeze frames on the screen.

Neither system can be used for home recording. But the players could be on dealers' shelves as early as 1977.

One feature in both systems that offers a new dimension in

Bendix Merges Two Firms

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. — The consolidation of two subsidiaries, Buhr Machine Tool Corp. and Michigan Special Machine Co., into a new organization, the Bendix Machine Tool Corporation, has been announced by Donald S. Jones, president of the Industrial Group of The Bendix Corporation here.

The new company brings together two of the nation's leading designers and builders of automated machine tools and assembly machines for mass production. It's part of the Industrial Group.

The Buhr operation in Ann Arbor is being moved to the Michigan Special plant in Warren, Mich., where a major expansion on the nine-acre site is underway.

The consolidation and expansion program represents a current $4.5 million investment, with additional expenditures for machine tools over the next 18 months as required, Jones said.

Donald D. Hipwell has been named president and general manager of the company. He was president and general manager of Buhr.

John J. Blafaro is executive vice president. Other vice presidents are Henry Deitrick, engineering; Dario Giannetti, manufacturing; Donald P. Lamb, marketing; and Fred C. Pletzer, material. All held the same positions with Buhr or Michigan Special.

Pound Falls To New Low

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — The battered British pound plunged 7 1/2 cents to a record low of $1.5736 in a wild wave of selling on London's foreign exchange today. By midday, however, it appeared to level out.

It was the worst slump by the weakening currency, apart from formal devaluations, since it began losing ground four years ago.

The pound's real troubles began in March when it fell below the psychologically significant $2 barrier in the midst of Britain's worst economic crisis since the Great Depression. Some analysts believe investors lack confidence in the Labor government's ability to deal with the high inflation and unemployment, low productivity and balance of payments deficit.

Monday's nosedive followed a report in the Sunday Times newspaper that the International Monetary Fund — IMF — and its biggest contributor — the United States — want the currency to fall to $1.50 as a condition for permitting Britain to draw $3.9 billion from the IMF.

The pound was quoted at $1.6150 when the market opened, down from $1.6461 when business closed Friday. In just over an hour it fell 7 1/2 cents.

U.S. Treasury Secretary William Simon and the IMF denied the Sunday Times report, but there were widespread fears that the psychological damage had already been done.

One top dealer commented: "I doubt if many people really believe the story, but they're also not very ready to believe denials either. No one's in a mood to trust politicians right now."

British government leaders were furious at the Sunday Times report, reliable sources said. Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey was expected to issue a statement on the monetary crisis late today in a bid to repair the damage.

However, a dealer reported: "The market is very nervous."

The pound's plunge was worldwide. It fell on Far East markets before London opened. In Paris, sterling fell below eight francs for the first time. Bankers quoted it at 7.95 francs, down from Friday's 8.2197 francs.

It hit record lows across Europe. In Frankfurt, the pound was quoted at 3.8220 marks, down from Friday's 4.0003. It slipped to 8.42 kroner in Oslo and 9.38 kroner in Copenhagen.

The Sunday Times story said the IMF believes a drop of the pound to the $1.50 level would make Britain's exports sufficiently attractive abroad to boost the country's economy.

The Sunday Times also said the IMF plans to insist that Britain impose severe restraints on borrowing, credit and money supply.

Simon termed the Sunday Times story "irresponsible and patently untrue."

Investors' Guide

Q. I'm 40, will soon have about $20,000 to invest. Please recommend a solid, long-term retirement investment for me. Obviously, I would prefer an investment with a high return and with a tax break.

A. I suspect you don't realize it, but you've just given yourself away as an investment novice. Asking for a solid, long-term retirement investment (at age 40), plus high return, plus tax shelter is like asking for a high-powered limousine, to sell at $1,500 and deliver 60 miles to the gallon.

To clear matters up a bit: If you are thinking of retirement (20 years off?) you obviously don't want high income now, while you are earning a good salary. If you want long-term growth you don't want a tax-exempt bond. Bonds don't grow.

What you do want — it seems to me — is a low-dividend (little tax) growth stock which, you hope, will gain in value over the years. When you do retire you can switch the money to income providers. Your stamped, self-addressed envelope is bringing you a list of growth-type suggestions.

Q. What are the advantages of H bonds over E bonds? And how does one convert Es to Hs?

A. H bonds pay out interest every six months. E bonds accrue that interest, building up the value of the bond. You may exchange Es for Hs at your bank or at any Federal Reserve bank or branch.

Q. A friend tried to convince me that when a corporation splits its stock, say 2 for 1, a shareholder gains because he now begins to get dividends on twice as many shares.

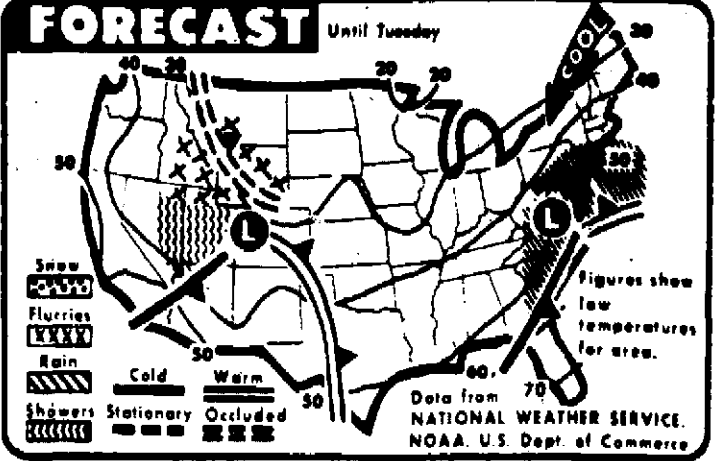

A. True, but the dividend on each new share may be only one-half that paid on the pre-split shares.

Q. I think you're being kidded when people write you that they have $100,000 and are still worried.

A. That's why I don't print too many letters which list the quarter-and-half-million and 1/2-million dollar portfolios of worried investors. I BELIEVE THEM, BUT I know many readers would not.

If you think people with a lot of money don't worry you don't know human nature. The one perfectly happy "investor" I recall was a panhandler who stuck his hand into the car and said: "Why don't you give me a quarter and make us both the happiest people in town?" And I think his argument was irrefutable.

Q. I'm 19 and have recently

ALTERNATIVE TELEVISION

"Alternative television" — it's a phrase you'll be hearing more and more about in coming months, for a breakthrough in the home entertainment marketplace is fast approaching. And the new technology, including such still far-out products from the TV industry as videodisks and videorecorders, flashes a significant shift in our nation's viewing habits.

Videorecorders already have reached major markets across the U.S. and offer an intriguing home entertainment concept as a sort of instant preservation system. First to break in is Sony Corp. with its Betamax videorecorder unit, allowing you to tape a TV show on one channel while watching another. A digital timing device lets you record programs while away from home.

Sony's Betamax, which its creators have dubbed a "time-shift" machine, essentially lets you adjust your TV-viewing time to suit your convenience by storing a show being aired while you are away from the set or absorbed in watching something else. In addition, Sony is introducing a Betamax Deck which hooks up to an existing TV set and automatically videotapes a show. Reported planning to introduce their versions of the videorecorders are Quasar, Sanyo, and Panasonic.

In another exciting development, one industry giant, Phillips-MCA, plans to test-market a videodisk system which produces programs on plastic disks for viewing on home TV sets. The Phillips-MCA unit is expected to be marketed by Magnavox.

A second giant, RCA, also is working on a system with a 12-inch disk that looks like a silver LP record. It, too, is to be viewed on home TV sets.

Both competitors will sell their versions of turntable players for about $500 and the 12-inch program disks will be priced from $2 to $12 — the cost to you depending on the length and quality of the recorded material.

The RCA system, which has been labeled SelectaVision, uses a sapphire and metal stylus that converts electronic messages encoded on the disk's grooves into a TV picture. The Phillips-MCA system, which bears the label Disco-Vision, uses a laser beam instead of a stylus. This will enable you to create slow motion or to freeze frames on the screen.

Neither system can be used for home recording. But the players could be on dealers' shelves as early as 1977.

One feature in both systems that offers a new dimension in

Bendix Merges Two Firms

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. — The consolidation of two subsidiaries, Buhr Machine Tool Corp. and Michigan Special Machine Co., into a new organization, the Bendix Machine Tool Corporation, has been announced by Donald S. Jones, president of the Industrial Group of The Bendix Corporation here.

The new company brings together two of the nation's leading designers and builders of automated machine tools and assembly machines for mass production. It's part of the Industrial Group.

The Buhr operation in Ann Arbor is being moved to the Michigan Special plant in Warren, Mich., where a major expansion on the nine-acre site is underway.

The consolidation and expansion program represents a current $4.5 million investment, with additional expenditures for machine tools over the next 18 months as required, Jones said.

Donald D. Hipwell has been named president and general manager of the company. He was president and general manager of Buhr.

John J. Biafore is executive vice president. Other vice presidents are Henry Deitrick, engineering; Dario Giannetti, manufacturing; Donald P. Lamb, marketing; and Fred C. Pletzer, material. All held the same positions with Buhr or Michigan Special.

Pound Falls To New Low

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — The battered British pound plunged 7 1/2 cents to a record low of $1.5730 in a wild wave of selling on London's foreign exchange today. By midday, however, it appeared to level out.

It was the worst slump by the weakening currency, apart from formal devaluations, since it began losing ground four years ago.

The pound's real troubles began in March when it fell below the psychologically significant $2 barrier in the midst of Britain's worst economic crisis since the Great Depression. Some analysts believe investors lack confidence in the labor government's ability to deal with the high inflation and unemployment, low productivity and balance of payments deficit.

Monday's nosedive followed a report in the Sunday Times newspaper that the International Monetary Fund — IMF — and its biggest contributor — the United States — want the currency to fall to $1.50 as a condition for permitting Britain to draw $3.9 billion from the IMF.

The pound was quoted at $1.6150 when the market opened, down from $1.6481 when business closed Friday. In just over an hour it fell 7 1/2 cents.

U.S. Treasury Secretary William Simon and the IMF denied the Sunday Times report, but there were widespread fears that the psychological damage had already been done.

One top dealer commented: "I doubt if many people really believe the story, but they're also not very ready to believe denials either. No one's in a mood to trust politicians right now."

British government leaders were furious at the Sunday Times report, reliable sources said. Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey was expected to issue a statement on the monetary crisis late today in a bid to repair the damage.

However, a dealer reported: "The market is very nervous."

The pound's plunge was worldwide. It fell on Far East markets before London opened. In Paris, sterling fell below eight francs for the first time. Bankers quoted it at 7.95 francs, down from Friday's 8.2197 francs.

It hit record lows across Europe. In Frankfurt, the pound was quoted at 3.8220 marks, down from Friday's 4.0010. It slipped to 8.42 kroner in Oslo and 9.38 kroner in Copenhagen.

The Sunday Times story said the IMF believes a drop of the pound to the $1.50 level would make Britain's exports sufficiently attractive abroad to boost the country's economy.

The Sunday Times also said the IMF plans to insist that Britain impose severe restraints on borrowing, credit and money supply.

Simon termed the Sunday Times story "irresponsible and patently untrue."

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Seek Growth Now, Income For Old Age

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. I'm 40, will soon have about $20,000 to invest. Please recommend a solid, long-term retirement investment for me. Obviously, I would prefer an investment with a high return and with a tax break.

A. I suspect you don't realize it, but you've just given yourself away as an investment novice.

Asking for a solid, long-term retirement investment (at age 40), plus high return, plus tax shelter is like asking for a high-powered limousine, to sell at $1,500 and deliver 60 miles to the gallon.

To clear matters up a bit: If you are thinking of retirement (20 years off?) you obviously don't want high income now, while you are earning a good salary. If you want long-term growth you don't want a tax-exempt bond. Bonds don't grow.

What you do want — it seems to me — is a low-dividend (little tax) growth stock which, you hope, will gain in value over the years. When you do retire you can switch the money to income providers. Your stamped, self-addressed envelope is bringing you a list of growth-type suggestions.

Q. What are the advantages of H bonds over E bonds? And how does one convert Es to Hs?

A. H bonds pay out interest every six months. E bonds accrue that interest, building up the value of the bond. You may exchange Es for Hs at your bank or at any Federal Reserve bank or branch.

Q. A friend tried to convince me that when a corporation splits its stock, say 2 for 1, a shareholder gains because he now begins to get dividends on twice as many shares.

A. True, but the dividend on each new share may be only one-half that paid on the pre-split shares.

Q. I think you're being kidded when people write you that they have $100,000 and are still worried.

A. That's why I don't print too many letters which list the quarter-and-half-million and 1/2-million dollar portfolios of worried investors. I BELIEVE THEM, BUT I know many readers would not.

If you think people with a lot of money don't worry you don't know human nature. The one perfectly happy "investor" I recall was a panhandler who stuck his hand into the car and said: "Why don't you give me a quarter and make us both the happiest people in town?" And I think his argument was irrefutable.

Q. I'm, 19 and have recently

BAYS LOSE JOBS

PROPOSAL A'S PRICE

I would like to comment on Dr. Paul A. Herbert's editorial about Proposal A. We, here at Charlotte, can well understand why the Michigan economy is in such bad shape. Dr. Herbert was Chief of Economic Expansion, and he has come up with the idea that the bottle bill is a sound piece of legislation.

You don't have to be very smart to learn that Owens-Illinois has a glass factory in Portland, Ore. After the bottle bill was passed there, the plant is down to four machines from nineteen with extended shut-downs. There was also a can factory that completely shut down. I can bet that they also told the people of Oregon that there would be an increase in jobs.

To back this up, the Governor of Michigan has admitted that the jobs created will have a yearly pay scale of $4,500.

I would like to encourage the voters to vote NO on Proposal A and hold the line on unemployment in the State of Michigan.

ESCH CHILDREN CAMPED HERE

Editor,

While his children spent several summers at the Van Buren County Youth Camp as campers, counselors and later contributors, Marvin Esch availed himself of the opportunity to study the differences between southwestern Michigan and the rest of the state.

Since both candidates for the United States Senate seat are from the eastern side of the state, I feel this fact should be brought to the attention of the local voters before casting their ballot on November 2.

SALES LOST JOBS PROPOSAL A'S PRICE

I would like to comment on Dr. Paul A. Herbert's editorial about Proposal A. We, here at Charlotte, can well understand why the Michigan economy is in such bad shape. Dr. Herbert was Chief of Economic Expansion, and he has come up with the idea that the bottle bill is a sound piece of legislation.

You don't have to be very smart to learn that Owens-Illinois has a glass factory in Portland, Ore. After the bottle bill was passed there, the plant is down to four machines from nineteen with extended shut-downs. There was also a can factory that completely shut down. I can bet that they also told the people of Oregon there would be an increase in jobs.

To back this up, the Governor of Michigan has admitted that the jobs created will have a yearly pay scale of $4,500.

I would like to encourage the voters to vote NO on Proposal A and hold the line on unemployment in the State of Michigan.

ESCH CHILDREN CAMPED HERE

Editor, While his children spent several summers at the Van Buren County Youth Camp as campers, counselors and later contributors, Marvin Esch availed himself of the opportunity to study the differences between southwestern Michigan and the rest of the state.

Since both candidates for the United States Senate seat are from the eastern side of the state, I feel this fact should be brought to the attention of the local voters before casting their ballot on November 2.

Upcoming 'Kong' Movie Is A Promoter's Dream

GET READY TO GO APE: When the new version of the movie "King Kong" arrives at Christmas time, the old monster will be exploited with the biggest saturation of commercial product tie-ins ever seen for an American film. We'll be having King Kong cocktails, a King Kong peanut butter bar, a King Kong picture packet and a key chain containing hair from Kong himself. And, ladies and gentlemen, that's just the beginning.

Q: I was just amazed to read about all the superstars in that upcoming movie, "A Bridge Too Far." Won't the salaries add up to something astronomical or are all these actors working for peanuts? — C.O., Columbus, O.

A: None of these stars, including Ryan O'Neal, Robert Redford, Gene Hackman, James Caan, Laurence Olivier, Sean Connery and Michael Caine, would consider working for peanuts. Many of them are making a million dollars each for about a month's work, except for Redford. He's getting even more. One star was turned down however — Audrey Hepburn, who asked for $750,000 for a week's work.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: What is Leslie Caron doing besides acting with Nureyev in the movie "Valentino"? Leslie has written two screenplays under a pseudonym a phalanx of State Department security guards to clear a path into her rineside seat. Then, after the fight there were some terrifying moments when a huge crowd surged down toward the ring, collapsing the wooden chairs and nearly downing Nureyev, who was finally encircled by guards. One security guard said he had his pocket picked — twice, by the same youngster.

Q: Whatever happened to that Hungarian artist who stunned the art world a few years ago when it became known he had faked many of the best-known paintings by Matisse, Renoir, and other impressionists? — W.R., Washington, D.C.

A: Well, for one thing, Elmyr de Hory is in Madrid, still successfully fighting efforts by French authorities to extradite him. For another, he is rebuilding his own career and has just signed a lucrative contract giving a Madrid gallery exclusive rights to his output.

Q: Does the New York Telephone Co. make any money out of those dial-a-joke things where you dial a number and hear a joke? Is it all just for publicity? — D.D., Brooklyn.

A: The telephone company won't say but guesses are that the idea is a little gold mine netting about $1.5 million a year. The company gets about 3 cents a call and guess who pays a big share of the tab? Most of the calls are made on office phones. Not a very funny fringe benefit — for employers, anyway.

Q: What's the word on this so-called "blonic bra" that's supposed to detect breast cancer cells? — M.F.M., Chicago.

A: A senior pathologist at Glasgow Royal Infirmary has invented a bra that has five sensors which record temperature changes in the breast. It looks like a normal bra and a woman would wear it for about two weeks. Then the data would be fed into a computer. The information provided might mean a patient could be treated with

LOVE, SWEET LOVE TIME: Guess who has a new man in her life? Candy Bergen seems to be serious, as they say, about a fellow named Warren Hoge, who is on the cultural staff of The New York Times. The name probably doesn't mean much to you, but Warren has quite a reputation as a ladies' man, having romanced many socially prominent (read rich) beauties. Sally Quinn, the Washington Post reporter, used to live with Warren but ditched him for her boss, Ben Bradlee.

Strike Cuts Ford's Profits

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — A nationwide strike against Ford Motor Co. may have cut the automaker's third-quarter net profits by $100 million or more, according to a dozen financial analysts surveyed by The Associated Press.

The investment counselors said the walkout by the United Auto Workers — coming two weeks before the end of the quarter — gave Ford its worst financial performance for a July-September period since 1967, the last time the firm was struck.

General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp., meanwhile, are expected to set new earnings records for the quarter, according to the analysts. The Big Three makers release their financial results this week.

Because of the strike, which began Sept. 15, Ford lost an estimated 170,000 vehicles — worth $650 million at the factory — from its third-quarter production schedules. Analysts estimated the strike drained Ford's net profits at a rate of up to $80 million a week.

Consequently, Ford is expected to show net earnings of less than $24 million for the period, rather than the record $100 million to $140 million many analysts had predicted before the work stoppage. The company had profits of $36 million a year ago.

The k will take its toll on Ford profits in the current quarter as well, since ratification of a new national agreement did not come until Oct. 13, and the firm still has not resumed normal production, more than five weeks since 170,000 workers first walked off the job.

In 1967, when Ford was struck for 86 days, it lost $74 million in the third quarter and $109 million in the fourth period, although it still wound up the full year with a slight profit.

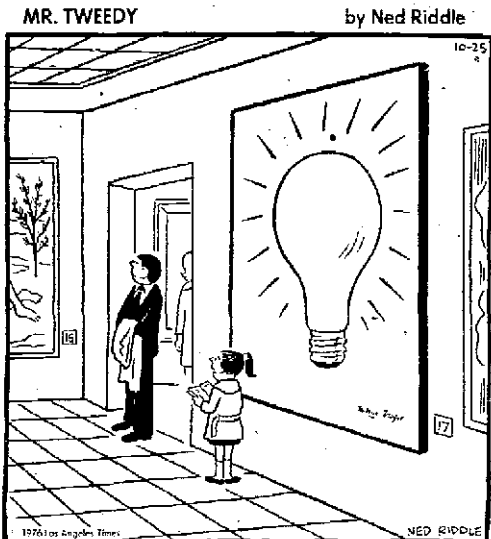

The analysts predicted industry giant GM would report record third-quarter profits of between $330 million and $344 million, up from $243 million a year ago to surpass the previous record $267 million set in the industry boom year of 1973.

Chrysler, the No. 3 automaker, is expected to make $75 million in the quarter to shatter a 26-year-old earnings mark of $66 million set in 1950, when the firm was recovering from a long UAW strike in the first half of that year.

Chrysler had record third-quarter losses of $79 million a year ago.

The Big Three makers, having staged a dramatic recovery from the industry's severe 1974-75 recession, established new earnings marks for the first half of 1978.

However, American Motors Corp., the smallest of the makers, remains stuck in a deep sales slide and is expected to report losses for both the period and its full 1978 fiscal year, which ended Sept. 30.
